

Council reads ordinance on Dangerous Buildings

At the December 15 Vernonia City Council meeting, the council heard a progress report from Alan Deweber of D.A.D.'s Recycling. D.A.D.'s was unable to obtain a FEMA grant for a new building, but that won't affect their re-siting effort. The move is still held up while waiting for a permit to build an approach road to their new site. Funding for the road still needs to be found, Deweber told council. Council agreed to extend D.A.D.'s deadline to move to the end of March, as long as DEQ doesn't have any objections. Council asked Deweber to continue giving them monthly progress updates.

Council approved the use of CDBG funds for flood property buy-outs. They have previously approved the use of these grant funds for house lifts. This allows Columbia County Flood Relief to start making funding decisions on flood projects.

Council heard the first reading of a new Ordinance Related to Dangerous Buildings. Council asked for clarification on how this ordinance would handle inspections of properties without owner cooperation. Interim City Administrator Jim Johnson, who attended the meeting by teleconference, will request more information on the subject from the city attorney prior to the second reading of the ordinance. Once the ordinance goes into affect, it will allow the City to designate a building, structure or appendage unsafe. Once so designated, a nuisance abatement can be issued requiring the unsafe condition to be repaired, rehabilitated, demolished or removed.

In other business, council:

- heard a letter written by Josette Mitchell on behalf of the 2008 Salmon Festival Committee, that thanked Cynda Allen of the Flood Distribution Center for providing toys for an all day toy raffle at the festival

- accepted the certified election results from Columbia County,

• heard Harrison tell Councilor Steve Whiteman that it has been a pleasure serving with him on the council and he will be sorely missed. This was Whiteman's last meeting, as he did not run for re-election. Kevin Hudson will replace him.

The next council meeting is scheduled for January 5, at City Hall, starting at 7:00 p.m.

Happy Holidays!
