Last Monday Tom Shockley, proprietor of the O. K. Barber Shop, had the misfortune to be severely stung by a swarm of bees. Mr. Shockley was in the act of gathering honey from the hives when a large number of the "stingers" attacked his face and hands, stinging him so severely that it was thought for awhile he would expire from the large amount of poison injected into his system, but through the quick administration of an antidote the dangerous situation of the unfortunate man was relieved, and he is now recovering.

The prospects in Silvertown are very good. Everything seems to be working out nicely for a big growth. To be sure all business throughout the United States has been checked up a bit and in a way Silvertown feels it a little but not anywhere near as much as some other less favored places do. Here new residences are going up, the streets are a regular bee hive of workers, paving and building side walks, a big crew is working at the rock crusher, teams are plying back and forth with crushed rock, J. Wolfard and Co.'s big grocery store is on its way, and indeed Silvertown looks good to your "Uncle Dud."

We are in receipt of the new laws of Oregon, and we find that the crooks are surely on the run and that the people are kicking them at every step. Why, a man who was born when Silvertown was born about 60 years ago, has passed through a wonderful historical epoch. Think of it, the chattel, human slavery has perished in that time; Polygamy has been outlawed, the gambling lottery has been abolished, and other great evils are entirely out of many states, the saloon business is being crushed by law, woman's suffrage is not only in many states but occupies a prominent place in national politics—O, O, who can enumerate all that has been done? But think again. We do more along these lines in one year than we did formerly in twenty-five. What will our world be like sixty years hence?

Changed Headquarters.

Dr. Heasley will be at Silvertown Monday, Wednesday and Friday. Office over Preston's Shop. Leave orders at Prestons, Salem office and residence 527 Court street, opposite Court House and next door to Moore building. 20c-tf
