LOCAL NEWS

Mrs. C. M. Wray went to Newport Monday for an outing.

Do you want a 40-acre home-stand? See J. E. Hosmer.

A big punch and shear press worth $720 for sale at $400. J. E. Hosmer.

The Journal office is turning out lots of hop checks and doing other fine job printing stunts these days.

Mrs. A. H. Sommers, her little daughter, and Miss Mary Zurker went to Portland Monday. Miss Zurker is on her way back to Ohio.

Ye editor is obliged to spend much time and all the money he can get hold of these outing days attending court, consulting other attorneys, answering charges, etc. But some people are never so happy as when in trouble, so "let 'er buck."

The booklet of twenty pages and neat cover, entitled "The Escaped Nun From Mt. Angel Convent, or the Last Stand of Desperate Despotism," is finished. We think this booklet will be an eye-opener and will not only show the conditions of today, but will also point out what the remedy is really going to be. The price is 10 cents per copy. Order early as the number printed is limited, and we have already received orders for several hundred.

Jokes.

Raferty—Sure, Kelly, but I'm glad to see yez. I thought ye were dead. I heard siv'ral payple shpakin' well av yez.—Puck.

Waiter—And how did you find your steak, sir?

Customer—Oh, quite simple. I lifted up the potato, and there it was.—London Tattler.

"Your name," he stammered, "is—written on my heart."

"Yes?" she whispered, "but wouldn't it be more like business if your name was written in a life insurance policy for my benefit?"

Mrs. Crabshaw—"When the woman next door returned after being away a week her husband was just contemptible enough to say that he hadn't missed her."

Crabshaw—"I don't suppose he did. He had the talking machine going all the time."

A very prominent man recently died, and shortly after a friend of the family came to condole with the widow. The caller had been a warm friend of the deceased, and as he was about to depart he asked: "Did Will leave you much?" "Oh, yes, indeed," responded the widow, "nearly every night."

There was old major who said to his valet one evening:

"Go and tell the cook to get me ready a chop and a poached egg."

"Pardon me, major," said the valet, "but have you forgotten that you are dining with Mr. Smith tonight?"

The major frowned. "Yes," he said, "I had forgotten it. Tell the cook to make it two chops and two poached eggs."

SHUN FRAYED COLLARS.

They Are Apt to Irritate the Neck and Cause Carbuncles.

The back of the neck is the commonest place for a carbuncle to appear. It is a most sensitive spot, not so much on the surface of the skin as in the underlying tissues, wherein are great nerves that communicate very closely with the brain. And it is in these tissues that the carbuncle spreads its "roots."

A carbuncle is a breaking down of the tissue caused by the germs called streptococcus and staphylococcus. These are the principal but by no means the only pus producing germs. They eat and break down the tissues. The white corpuscles of the blood rush to the spot and try to devour the attacking bacteria. Millions of them perish in the attempt, and pus is really a mixture of dead white corpuscles and germs that are exuding virulent poisons.

Carbuncles select the back of the neck so often because of the irritation caused by the collar if this be slightly frayed or roughened by careless laundering. The back of the neck is almost as much exposed to dirt as are the backs of the hands and needs washing almost as often. The rubbing of the collar scrapes off the scaly surface of the skin, which is its protection against germs of disease. This being gone, the germs enter unopposed.

A collar button pressing constantly on the one spot may produce the same effect.

And in a few days you are going around with a bandage on your neck and suffering awful torture. Fortunately the doctors have discovered an antitoxin that quickly cures carbuncles. Yet even when this is administered the patient is doomed to much pain.

The moral of all this is: Don't wear a collar that is the least bit frayed.—New York World.

VARICOSE VEINS.

Their Causes and Effects and the Treatment They Require.

A varicose vein is an enlarged and twisted vein, generally in the leg. It is caused by stagnation of the blood. Often the patient has a hereditary predisposition to varicose veins or he has a weak heart, with a consequent tendency to sluggish venous circulation.

Anything that interferes with the flow of blood through the veins may bring on an attack. Pressure from a tight garter and very severe muscular exertion are often exciting causes. Persons who are obliged to stand for several hours at a time, like policemen, washerwomen and saleswomen, are often subject to this trouble. Under ordinary conditions the blood in the legs must run up hill constantly in order to regain the heart. In the case of those who stand most of the day the blood has to work hard hour after hour in order to overcome the force of gravity, and as a result the veins gradually enlarge and harden.

In mild cases of varicose veins, especially in young and otherwise healthy people, the symptoms are very slight. There is a feeling of weight in the leg and a dull ache toward the end of the day. The ache is soon relieved by the patient's resting with the leg somewhat raised so that the blood can flow back more easily. Sometimes painful cramps complicate the trouble, and the cramp is likely to return again and again until life becomes a burden.

More serious complications are thrombosis (or the clotting of the blood in the vein) and phlebitis (or inflammation of a vein). Often a form of eczema appears in the skin of the leg, or an ulcer may arise. When varicose veins are very troublesome surgical treatment is advisable, but the milder cases can be much relieved by rest and proper bandaging.—Youth's Companion.

Varlet and Valet.

"We have only ourselves, or, rather, our forefathers, to blame for the trouble about the pronunciation of 'valet,'" says the London Chronicle. "If they had stuck to 'varlet' there would have been no difficulty. 'Valet' and 'varlet' are the same word, meaning originally just a boy, the diminutive of 'vassal,' a man. Unfortunately when our ancestors applied a word meaning a boy to signify a servant they went on to make it bear a scornful sense. And so 'varlet' degenerated hopelessly, just as did 'knave,' which is simply the German 'knaeve,' boy."

Indisputable Evidence.

"Say, father," said little Fred, "did you ever have another wife besides mother?"

"Why, certainly not," said the father. "How do you happen to ask such a question, my boy?"

"Well, father," continued the boy, "I saw in the family Bible that you married Anne Domini, 1892, and I know that wasn't mother, for her name was Mary Parsons when she was a girl."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Not Too Pushing.

"Madam, I must congratulate you on having such a pushing young fellow for a husband."

"Yes; George does very well with the lawn mower, but I have a time with him about the baby carriage."—Baltimore American.

Eating and Talking.

We all eat too much, and it is little wonder—there is so much to eat. And we all talk too much, because there is so much to talk about.—New Orleans Picayune.

"You told me you were worth a million, and I find that you have only a paltry $10,000," said Blathers' partner. "Well $10,000 is 1,000,000 cents," said Blathers.—Harper's Weekly.

The Largest City in The World

Civilization has been moving West for ages. The Panama Canal will give this movement a great impetus. The Willamette Valley is the most practical place for the Great Pacific Coast City of the future, and here is very apt to be a greater than New York or London. In fact, the process of growth is now going on. Electric lines are being built, little homes are springing up along these lines, and everything goes to show that great herds of emigrants and immigrants are headed this way. Don't lose the chance. Buy a lot now while land is cheap. We have it, and will treat you right
