Arthur Steelhammer is "taking the bull by the horns," from a public music standpoint, and organizing a new brass band among the musical boys of the city. This is just the thing. Now is the time to get ready, so as not to be left in the lurch as we were a few years ago.

We were held up at Woodburn last Saturday on our way to Portland by a friendly priest, who tried hard to make us promise to pray, "Mary help me today," every day. We refused, telling him that we are not very Mary, and the wife, whose name is Frankie, might object, and if we needed help, we would say: "Frankie, help us today."

The tragedy drama, "The Wolf," was given at the opera house here Wednesday, and it was an excellent, entertaining and beautiful play. The writer enjoyed every second that the play was on and hopes some time to see it again. The hero and heroine, the bad man, and all the characters were very good and carried their parts well.

To Modern Woodmen.
 Deputy Head Consul J. W. Simmons, of Portland, will be with us Wednesday evening, January 28, 1914. All Modern Woodmen are cordially invited.

BRAINS AND BUSINESS.

The good people of the East Hill want electric lights, but some of them are much indignant at the big electric company, and they even go so far as to advocate municipal ownership of our lights.

It seems that the patrons are ready and willing to take the lights and pay the price asked, but the company wants them to put up money enough in the bank, to the company's credit, to build the new line, thus advancing the money and paying for the lights as soon as they are in. This does look a little one-sided. If the company takes our money and uses it as a club to hold us up for their profit—Oh, well, it's the same old story, and while no common business man can get the people to buy him a plant and start him off with any old profit he asks, yet "big business" is different and must have the largest slice of sweet dough or they won't play. But then they are "good fellows," boys. Give them whatever they ask. You know it takes brains to run "big business."

New Building for Silverton.

The foundation work on the large, new building to be erected just across Silver River from the Silverton Journal office, has already been started. The building is to be erected for L. C. Eastman, and is to be completed by April 1. C. A. Hartley has the contract and the work will be pushed vigorously to completion. This will be another great addition to our growing city and speaks well of the pluck and enterprise of the builder. The building will be 50x100 with concrete basement. Dry pressed brick will be used to the first floor. Plate glass front and cement sidewalks, driveway and asbestos, fire-proof roofing will make this one of the best business buildings in the city.

FOR EXCHANGE.

$6000—Hotel newly furnished, doing good business. Will exchange for farm and might pay a cash difference.

$6500 for a dray and express business, three teams and auto truck. Will exchange for dairy or stock farm, up to $9000.

House and lot in Eugene to exchange for Silverton property.

160 acres 7 1/2 miles from Silverton, on Abiqua creek, will exchange for Portland property. Stock and equipments will go with farm if desired. This will make an ideal dairy and stock ranch.

H. E. BROWN,
 Silverton, Oregon.

The Story Hour.

The story hour at the library and rest room has been resumed. The time is 1:30 p. m. Saturday, and all are urged to be on time. The subject for next Saturday will be "The Robin," and a fable will be recited telling how the robin's breast became red, and another telling why the evergreen trees do not shed their leaves during the winter. All children from 5 to 10 years of age are urged to be present and enjoy the stories.

For Exchange.

Do you want to quit ranching and get a paying business or a home in town? Have you a few acres to trade in on a large farm? Do you want to exchange your house and lot for a home that is paying, near Silverton?

Have you an eastern farm to exchange for a nice home in the West? I have some nice, clear inside property and business propositions to swap for farm land; also orchard and alfalfa land to exchange for stock or dairy ranches; also some fine timber and sawmills to sell, exchange or would take a partner. Write or call. H. E. Brown, Silverton, Oregon.

I have just listed another large tract of land on Howell Prairie, the cream of this great Willamette valley. I am looking forward, not backward. If you could see ahead 20 years, as you can look back 20 years, you wouldn't keep your cash in the banks. Oregon is just beginning to grow, the rancher is just beginning to prosper. Now is the time to get a home. Think of it! These 10-acre homes are counted by thousands. Twenty years ago the same grants were 640-acre tracts owned by one man. Write to me, let me explain my small homes to you. I have them from 5 acres up; easy terms. Write or call. H. E. Brown, Box 145, Silverton, Oregon.

AMERICA THE FIELD.

A great many well-informed people, including many devout Catholics, very firmly believe that the church of Rome has long since given up any idea or intention to recover her temporal power. Nothing could be farther from the truth. To the papacy a thousand years is as a day. She bides her time through the years and through the centuries. When shorn of her temporal power more than fifty years ago, Rome at once turned to America, as witness the great number of convents, monasteries and schools that sprang up in this country between 1870 and 1880, and since that time has earnestly and intently striven to make good her bold declaration "that America shall be made Catholic." Now every patriotic American ought to consider what that declaration means. It means, if it means anything, that the peculiar doctrine, faith and dogma of that church are to be engrafted into our constitution and laws, that the edicts, decrees and bulls of the pope of Rome are to be supreme in our republic, our constitution and laws to the contrary notwithstanding. It is not merely a church limiting itself to spiritual purposes and means, but is a political as well as a religious organization, interfering with the political affairs of the country and assuming to dictate the political actions of its members what political opinions they shall entertain and how they shall vote on political questions. The infallibility of the pope is the cardinal dogma and tenet of that church. Hence his decrees are to be obeyed regardless of our constitutions and laws. The American constitution guarantees liberty of conscience, and nothing can be dearer to Americans. The late pope in an encyclical letter, said, "The absurd and arroneous doctrines or ravings in defense of liberty of conscience are a most pestilential error, a pest of all others most to be dreaded by a state." The same pope anathematizes "those who assert the liberty of conscience and of religious worship," and all those "who maintain the liberty of the press and the liberty of speech. One of the latest papal edicts declares it to be a duty to bend every effort, public social and political, toward making the United States "the first Catholic country in the world."

Now, as a patriotic American, doesn't it seem a little strange that the church of Rome should take such an undue interest in the affairs of this country? Too many of us ascribe it to merely religious zeal. Then we discover that the pope has never in any degree relinquished the earnest intention to regain temporal power. Still we are not alarmed. We always supposed by that was meant the power he has lost in Europe. But when at the same time the Roman Catholic church enters into a long work of "making America the first Catholic country in the world," and when she begins to demand "papal independence" where none is remotely possible in Europe, our blind people begin to have some inkling of her sinister purposes toward us.
