A. P. WILSON.

Klu Klux Klan. A man in bleeding Kansas Turned his eyes unto the West, He buckled up his shoes And then pulled down his vest. He wrote a heap of letters From rom his editorial nock. And finally he made his choice To dwell in Tillamook. Then he wrote a lot of questions About politics and things, Not forgetting in the number To ask about the rings. He wanted the Land Office business, And the County business too, And he'd be a good Republican (If nothing else would do.) So he shipped his trumpery here, It created quite a din; And he wrote unto his agent: Have the boys "put up the tin." The boys being gullible, And not thinking him so thin, Went down into their pockets, And dug up the chickamin. Twas a terror of a paper As every body knows, Couldn't pay its hired help So the thing was 'bout so clo When some would-be politicians, Members of the kicker clan,

Signed their names unto the bonds And started a ring organ. Now we'll fix the thing to suit us, Said this valliant little band,

And we'll play a little game, And shout "we're Republican." We'll learn some folks a thing or two

And improve our own condition; Next time they'll not refuse to sign Trask river bridge petition We have some giant intellect,

As you will see in time, And when our procession starts You had better get behind.

Let us get our men together And parcel out the work, Every one put on the harness And death to them who shirk. We'll send Dougherty to Nestucca,

As the first experiment, He's so brilliant as a writer And can use the liniment. He can rustle for subscibera For the Western Watchtower, And injure Hays' chances

All within his power. It costs money to do work The Secretary's table

Was covered o'er and o'er, And I'm not quite sure But some rolled upon the floor. There was nickles, dimes and quarters nd the dollar of our dad, Soure even went as far. And the dollar of our dad, Some even went so far

As to give give up all they had, Dougherty $40 per month, That shall be your pay, And you must hurry up, get well, And work hard every day. Send the HEADLIGHT to perdition,

Tumble Hays right in on top, And wallop Maxwell round the stump With all the strength you've got Put the screws to Wilson, Hadley,

Stillwell and the rest of the gang, Make all kinds of charges, Use profanity and slang We must send some one up north If we expect to whale 'em, it will never do to let them have The delegates from Nchalem. The boys they shook their coin

Before they left the town, And said "we're going to Nehalem To bring the Germans cown " If their cance with water filled, There was one could do the Bailing, And there was a Leach along

If any one was ading. and they have freely met all legitimate demands for discounts and accomodated Neither black horse nor affidavit Was captured on the trip, They returned to T.ilamook on the the public in all its requirements in the banking line.

[slongh, And let Nehalem rip. We must have some affidavits, Times are getting hot, Don't matter what about, But make up a whole lot.

Find some men who want an office And are anxious to get in, They'll make the affidavits And do so with a vim.

There is dog Tray William B. Wants to be Sheriff so they say, He is good for an affidavit One each week or every day.

No sense to it you say, Sense is not what we want, Give us something big and windy, Ah ha! the Doctor now appears. He is ready for the shindy, Why didn't we think of him before,

Oh he's such a pesky bore, Yes, but he wants an office. And of course he has a grudge,

I'd forgotten all about it, Of course its Doc, for Judge, He is so anxious for to get it. That he'll make an affidavit, Hurrah for squills and pills And County Judge Doc. Mills.

There's the mighty man of fate Whose little name is Cate,

Has a wonderful intellect, In fact just about perfect. When he's something for to say, From his mouth there comes a bray.

Then this mighty sage Prospero Chose for modern Caliban, Chose a man of birth and station Chose the mighty Sullivan And he drives a quill with vigor Uses scissors with a rigor, Uses scissors with a rigor, Smears the paper o'er with ink, Making all around him stink, Even Hays our bold recorder, Shudders, blanches round the gilla, When this wild Watchtower marauder Aims his deadly sword like quills, Even Maxwell bronzed old soldier, Recks he not of Shiloh now.

But he gazes on the Watchtower

With a gloomy ruffled brow, And the men who paid the judgement In the County Court last week. One Hundred dollars each, Paid Black well, Goodspeed, Quick,

It was in the lawyer's office And they got off very cheap.

ED. HEADLIGHT.—The watchtower has been accosing Hays and Maxwell of using their influence to remove the land notices from that paper, which they deny. Now comes a letter from the Register saying they never have tried in any way to in-fluence him, and the watchtower calls it "Another Lie Nailed." Now, I am at a

"Another Lie Nailed." Now, I am at a loss to know who the editor means, Capt. Apperson or himself that has the lie nailed to him? He fully exonerates Hays and Maxwell, and he is not tall enough to besmirch the character of Capt. Apperson, and there is no other party left to bear the odium, and accord-ing to all the rules of logic and rhetoric, the sentence means" have lied." At least that is my interpretation of the sentence that is my interpretation of the sentence and I think, the only truth that has ap-peared in the paper for some time.
