FROM WASHINGTON.DOINGS OF OUR LAW-MAKERS.

An Interesting Budget of News from The National Capital.-Pertinent Comment.

[From our Regular Correspondent.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 16, 1890.

In two or three days the long session of the Fifty-first Congress will come to an end, and its work is already practically finished. It has been almost the longest ever held and in many respects the most interesting session for many years. Although the first session of the Fiftieth Congress lasted until October 20, the present session, by reason of its longer daily sessions, has far exceeded it in working time, and the amount of legislative work actually accomplished has been extraordinary viewed in the light of previous Congresses and of the unusually important character of the measures considered. It is probable that, in the few remaining days of the session, the list of senate bills enacted into laws will be considerably increased as the House will have an opportunity to dispose of a number of others now on the calendars while awaiting the Senate's passage of the tariff bill. There is a number of important measures, however, yet to be disposed of, which may get to the President before adjournment, although the chances are greatly in favor of their postponement until the next session. A great deal of important work will also be left unfinished on the adjournment of this session of Congress, which will probably receive but little consideration before the latter part of the session which begins in December. The most important of this business has come from the House to the Senate and now rests on the Senate calendar. Ordinarily this would promise it an unusual chance of consideration, for the Senate, as a rule, transacts much more business in a given time than does the House. But extraordinary conditions will govern the Senate during at least the first part of the second session of Congress. The Republican members of the Senate have pledged themselves to vote on a proposition to change the rules of the Senate for the express purpose of making possible the passage of the Federal election bill. The proposition will meet with what ever opposition the Democratic Senators can bring forward. It is a matter of history that Democratic members of the Senate at one time wasted two and a half months on a proposition to proceed to organize the Senate by the election of officers. They can waste the entire time of the Senate during the second session in the same way, unless the Republicans adopt revolutionary tactics. So if the majority adhere to their determination to press the consideration of the election bill, an extra session of Congress, called in March or April, may become necessary.

There were many amusing scenes about the south end of the Capitol during the early part of last week. In the House Mr. O'Ferrall sat solitary and alone on the Democratic side holding at bay single-handed the serried hosts of Speaker Reed. About the corridors wandered like uneasy spirits the Democratic members, passively fighting the inevitable in the shape of Mr. Langston, of Virginia. Mr. McMillan, of Tennessee, strode about with an immense bundle of documents under his arm and his hat pulled down over his eyes, plainly plunged in profound thought on the vistas of imperialism opening up before his patriotic soul through the steady aggress-ing high-handedness of the tyrannical majority. In committee-rooms other Democrats gathered in little groups and swapped stories or discussed the situation while waiting for news from the Chamber. About forty Democrats established their headquarters in a hotel near the Capitol. Here they had their clerks and typewriters attending to their correspondence, while messengers furnished them from time to time with bulletins of events in the Capitol. Probably the most picturesque sight of all was the Hon. Richard Vaux, of Philadelphia, wandering through the corridors in the basement, puffing a cigar, with a bundle of newspapers under his arm, and his long hair falling about his sturdy old shoulders. He looked like an old Continental come back to life again and holding the last defenses against the enemy.

PUBLISH THE LAWS IN THE NEWS-PAPERS.

From the address of E. W. Stephens before the Missouri Press Association.

The law needed in Missouri at this time, to the enactment of which this association should bend its full energies, is one requiring the publication of the acts of each general assembly in the newspapers in the state. The people have a right to know what their laws are. The newspaper is the only medium of intelligence. Publication in book form is practically no publication. If a law is worth passing it is worth publishing. If it is necessary to incur the expenses of legislation it is equally necessary to bear the expense of ascertaining such legislation. There are laws of importance to the people on the statute books of Missouri to-day which are not enforced simply because it is not known how that they exist. The people are in ignorance of what the laws are. Each legislature is repealing and changing them; when published in book form months after the legislature adjourns, not one tax payer in a thousand ever sees them. Let them be published in the newspapers as they are enacted so that the people may have a chance to read and study them. The expense of publication would be more than saved in the enforcement of laws that would result; and when legislators are aware all their acts are thus being constantly scrutinized by the people they will be more careful in the laws they make. There will be less absurd tinkering with the statutes and less formulation of laws simply to compass personal ends. The following states have for many years published their laws in the newspapers, viz: Massachusetts, Maryland, New York, New Jersey, Rhode Island, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Alabama and perhaps others. The New York law, which has been in operation for many years, would perhaps be the best one for Missouri. The plan is to print them in supplement form; the rate being from 20 to 50 cents per hundred pages. If long experience has proven it to be practicable in the great state of New York why should it not be in Missouri.

And we may add, why should not Oregon have such a law? Brigands on the Lower Epiaus recently carried off an Italian gentleman. A ransom of $1000 was demanded for his release, and after cutting off a portion of one of his ears, he was set at liberty for $500.

The Italian committee on the world's fair exhibits has been dissolved. The reason given is that few Italian houses care to send displays to America in the face of the high duties imposed by the McKinley tariff bill.

BRIEF PARAGRAPHS.STATE AND GENERAL NEWS.

Telegraphic Brevettes and News Noted Gleaned from our Exchanges.

There is no dairy exhibit at the Portland exposition.

Cour d'Alene City, Idaho, has suffered a $25,000 fire.

Isaac Murphy, the great jockey, is seriously ill at his home in New York.

The Oregon state convention of Baptists meets in Portland October 22.

North Aberdeen will have a large ice-manufacturing plant by next spring.

Charles McElvanie is sentenced to be electrocuted at Sing Sing, Nov. 17.

Prof. Plummer, of Tacoma, states there are trees near the foot of Mt. Rainier 650 feet high.

The Union Iron Works at San Francisco secure another $3,500,000 man-of-war to build.

An iron mine has been discovered on North river, eight miles from Montesano, Wash.

Attorney General Fryer decides that the new lottery law forbids church fairs as well as lotteries.

The attendance at the McMinnville Baptist college is just 25 per cent larger than it was at this time last year.

A Spokane merchant presented every boy in town with a whistle, and now the entire city is a vast shrieking combination.

A young man named O'Brien was fined $50 at Victoria, Wednesday, for attempting to smuggle in a set of Chamber's Encyclopedias.

Nathan Willet, arrested in Los Angeles county for murder some-mingled seventeen years ago, made his escape at Colton, Cal., Wednesday evening.

At a recent meeting of the Flint and Lime Glass Manufacturers' Association, held at Pittsburg, an advance of not quite 5 per cent. was made in prices.

New York capitalists are trying to secure the nickel mines near Riddles, Southern Oregon, which they propose to make productive if they secure them.

The new steam schooner W. H. Harrison, just built at Alsea, will soon make her first trip to San Francisco, taking a load of lumber from the Waldport mills.

An official Russian newspaper says Germany has advised Austria for the present to abandon her desire to obtain recognition for Prince Ferdinand as ruler of Bulgaria.

A St Paul & Duluth freight ran into a Northern Pacific Short Line passenger Thursday morning, near Duluth. Two coaches full of passengers were ditched. Nobody killed.

Woodburn is to have water-works. A proposition has been made by a gentleman to put in a $10,000 plant provided he is given a $2,000 bonus. The bonus has been raised.

The bodies of Mary and Eliza McConigle, two schoolgirls, aged respectively 14 and 12 years, were found Thursday night, near Cumberland, Ont., they having been outraged and murdered. Marciss Lerocique is under arrest on suspicion.

One effect of the McKinley Tariff Bill will be to advance the price of all imported and Key West cigars, and wholesalers have put rates up $15 to $20 per 1000. The retailers will, of course, have to follow suit. Ten cent cigars will probably go up to two for a quarter, and others in proportion.
