All Post-masters in Tillamook county are agents for the HEADLIGHT.

Copies of this paper are on sale at the store of C. H. Wilson & Co., stationers and news-dealers, Occidental hotel building, Portland, Oregon.

Our aim in this issue is to be conservative. Nothing is overdrawn, but everything pertaining to the Tillamook country and its resources are faithfully and fairly portrayed and described. It has not been the intention to publish a "boom" edition, but a paper that may be relied upon for information regarding the county and its resources. Any misrepresentation would, in the long run, militate against our interests, as no one coming here will find the advantages of the county exaggerated, and consequently there will be disappointment. The truth is always the best, and for this county, is good enough.

There have been published in this paper within the last two years 827 Timber Land notices, and 133 Homestead and Pre-emption notices. Quite a number of notices were published in other papers. We mention this to show what an enormous amount of land in this county has been claimed, and there are a great many claims yet to be taken and many that are occupied by settlers on which final proof has not been made. In nearly all cases these claims consist of 160 acres. The HEADLIGHT claims the distinction of having published more land notices than any other paper in the United States! What paper can make a better showing? What county can make a better showing?

Elaborately illustrated blank-sheets for holiday editions may be remunerative to the publishers, but they are of little value to the community, or the patrons of the HEADLIGHT. Illustrations, flaring posters and other advertisements produce but little good effect. When a man picks up one of the cumbersome papers, he is perplexed and discouraged on the start, and after casually glancing over its numerous pages, throws it down with a sense of weariness and confusion. The intention in this edition of the HEADLIGHT is to say everything that need be said in a condensed and practical form, and to make a paper that is neat and handsome, as well as interesting. Such a paper will receive more attention and will be preserved for future reference. The work in issuing such a paper as this is really as great as if a blank sheet had been issued.

The HEADLIGHT representing the HEADLIGHT office is on the last page. Our building at present is not very pretentious, nor is it large enough for our present needs, but all the space within it is utilized to the best advantage. It is arranged compactly, and is not furnished sumptuously. The print and materials that we use are well selected, and we have everything that is needed in a town of this size. We expect soon to build a more extensive and imposing structure, and as soon as our patronage will justify it, which will not be long hence, will add a cylinder press and other machinery to the plant. In this, we must regulate our action to the growth and demands of the county, but we have great faith in the future growth. As to our facilities and ability to do good work, and as to the excellency and efficiency of our other features and plant, we are willing that our patrons should judge from the appearance of the paper.

THE ILLUSTRATIONS.
We give portraits of a few of Tillamook's substantial and progressive men. There are many others whose service such notices but it is necessary to limit the number of notices in this number.
Many business buildings and residences in this city worthy of notice that are not represented in this paper. The object is to show a few samples of Tillamook's improvements, and it has been impossible to give space for all.
A portrait of a Kansas "journalist," who tried the experiment of starting a paper in opposition to the HEADLIGHT is shown on the last page. It is a portrait, except it flatters him. However, none here will fail to recognize the resemblance between the sub-any community. We here give short biographical sketches of a few who are noted for their eminence and ability:

R. R. HAYS.
R. R. Hays was born Jan. 7, 1856, in M. Lean Co., Illinois. Mr. Hays has a good education and a practical experience in business. He has had also a great deal of experience as a surveyor, having had charge of an engineering corps on the Northern Pacific in Idaho and Montana, and served as County surveyor here. He has done much government surveying in Oregon, especially in Tillamook county. He was elected and served one term as County Clerk of this county, and has always taken a prominent part in politics. He has been Chairman of the County Republican Committee for the past five years, and occupies that position now.

Mr. Hays has always been a staunch supporter of public schools and other matters of public welfare. A few more men in the town like him, and the place would prosper, even if it were built on a sand-hill in the middle of a desert.

HON. JOHN W. MAXWELL.
Hon. John W. Maxwell was born Dec. 3, 1831, in Fulton county, Illinois, and spent his early days in that state. His father was one of the first white men born in Illinois. Mr. Maxwell served over three years in the Union Army, enlisting in Co. K., 7th Ill. Cavalry, as a private and rose to the rank of a captain. He served a term as County Judge of Hancock county, and held various other offices.

In 1882 he came to Oregon. He was elected as Joint Representative for Tillamook and Clatsop counties in 1886, and was re-elected to the Legislature as Joint Representative for Tillamook and Yamhill counties in 1888. He declined the nomination last year.

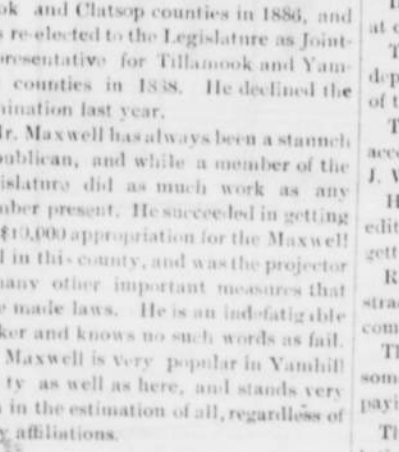

Mr. Maxwell has always been a staunch Republican, and while a member of the Legislature did as much work as any member present. He succeeded in getting the $10,000 appropriation for the Maxwell road in this county, and was the projector of many other important measures that were made laws. He is an indefatigable worker and knows no such words as fail. Mr. Maxwell is very popular in Yamhill county as well as here, and stands very high in the estimation of all, regardless of party affiliations.

HON. JOHN W. MAXWELL.

Wm. Stillwell was born in Logan county, Ohio, in 1824. He emigrated to Oregon in 1843, and has lived in Tillamook since 1870.

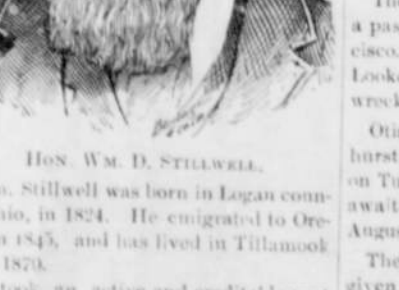

He took an active and creditable part in the Cayuse Indian war in 1847, and was one of the Indian War Veterans of the North Pacific coast. He also served as first lieutenant in the war of 1855-56, under Capt. Aukery. Captain Stillwell has had a varied experience on the coast as a pioneer and a miner. He has held various positions of honor and trust in this county and was at the last election chosen as Joint Representative for Tillamook and Yamhill counties. However a man does not seek honors from the people Captain Stillwell does. His policy on all leading and important questions is sound and the people can rely upon his judgment and honesty implicitly. He has always been liberal toward public enterprises, and is a great friend to the public school system. He is now in Salem attending to his duties as a legislator, and will honor as well as benefit in

E. E. SELPH.

The subject of this sketch was born at Salem 1860. He attended McMinnville college for five years and afterward read law with W. D. Fenton. He has been admitted to practice law in all the courts of the state and is a successful and conscientious attorney. He was a Democratic candidate for the Legislature in Yamhill in 1888, but was defeated along with the other Democrats. Mr. Selph has been in Tillamook for some time and is fast acquiring a good practice.

DR. H. V. V. JOHNSON.

Dr. Johnson was one of the early pioneers of Oregon. He was born at Ithaca, N. Y., in 1823. He was educated at Kenyon college and was a schoolmate with Ex-President Hayes, Stanley Matthews and others. He studied medicine with Dr. Thrall and attended the Medical college of the University of New York, and practiced his profession at Indianapolis, until 1852, when he came to Oregon. He settled in Washington county and served three successive terms in the Legislature. He was one of the organizers of the Republican party in Oregon and is the author of many of our laws that are in force to-day.

He received the honorary degree of M. D. from Willamette University and has practiced medicine ever since he came to the state. He has resided in Tillamook much of the time since 1873 and has a drug-store here now and does an office practice. Dr. Johnson stands high in the Masonic order and is well and favorably known all over the state.

CONDENSED LOCAL NEWS.

The most popular man in the county according to the votes sent us, is Hon. J. W. Maxwell.
Hon. T. B. Handley rendered the editors of this paper valuable services in getting out this edition.
R. R. Hays makes a specialty of abstract work. Abstracts made by him are complete and reliable.
The net profit of the Masonic hall, something over $7, was donated towards paying for the school-organ.
The Hook and Ladder Co. passed resolutions thanking the Cornet Band for courtesies extended at the Xmas ball.
G. O. Nolan is well posted regarding city lots. If you want a residence lot he can always suit you in terms and location.
Our local news columns will be full of interesting matter next week. Everything possible is laid aside this week in order to give room for descriptive matter.
The portrait of Tillamook's prettiest lady appears on the last page. She gave the use of her photograph, but desires that her name shall not be given to the public.
The crew of the Struan were saved by a passing ship and are now in San Francisco. The vessel came ashore near Cape Lookout, on Sand Lake, and is a total wreck.
Otis Howell, who killed Ed. Haun burst, had his preliminary examination on Tuesday and was committed to jail to await the action of the grand jury next August.
The price and terms of this paper are given at the head of the second page. If you wish to learn of Tillamook county or get all the county news, you can find no better medium than the HEADLIGHT.
A corporation is about to be formed. We are not at liberty to give names at present, but build a large hotel on the beach near the lakes below Garibaldi. A cot, taken from the architect's designs, is given on the first page.
The photographs for the engravings in this issue were nearly all furnished by our local artists, A. G. Reynolds and Otto Heins, both of whom do excellent work. The engraving was done by Geo. H. Benedict & Co. of Chicago.
A. Letcher has an excellent jewelry store. He always deals in first-class goods and is reliable. He is one of the substantial men of the town and has large property interests here. He has just erected a large and commodious dwelling brought to a market as soon as Nehalem far is improved. There are also large deposits of coal further up the Nehalem, and no doubt in other parts of this county, there being strong indications of carboniferous deposits near the mouth of the Nehalem.

The government appropriated $5,000 for a light-house on Cape Meares, near the entrance of Tillamook bay. Most of the money has been used in constructing the light-house and other necessary buildings, and it is one of the best light stations on the coast. The government will soon begin the construction of a road leading from a point on Tillamook bay to the light-house.

Mr. A. Beuchild contributes a very interesting article on dairying. He compares the industry here with the same industry in Holland, and shows very clearly that proper care for the cattle and better attention to the business would make dairying much more profitable here. Unfortunately his communication is crowded out along with a great deal of other interesting matter.

Tillamook county made about one-hundred tons of butter last year, one-third of which was consumed in the county. It will not be long until there will be a demand for all that is made here, though the amount produced will soon be increased to double what it is now. With a railroad, which means quick transportation, all the surplus will be sold fresh at a high price. There will be but little butter packed in salt for the outside market then.

The last report shows 57 Indians on the Siletz Reservation which is in the south end of this county. The Indians there are tilling the soil and following the customs of civilization. They have churches and schools and are making considerable progress. The whole of this reservation is not necessary for the Indians, however, and no doubt they will soon be given land in severally and the balance thrown open to settlement.

Last year was the first that the apple crop was handed for profit. About 300 boxes were shipped to San Francisco as an experiment and the shippers did well on their venture. This business will be conducted on a much larger scale this year, and with the past experience, with much more profit to all concerned. Tillamook apples excel for quality and keeping qualities. There is not a large area of orchards, but they will be largely increased and better cared for. Those who have good orchards in bearing are fortunate.

The county is in good shape financially, is not deeply in debt, and taxes are light considering the amount of improvements that have been made on roads in the past two years. As the county is pretty well supplied with roads now and has a good court house, there is not much use of further expenditure, and taxes will be very much lightened. The timber lands that are held by speculators will pay taxes that will allow speculators good schools and good roads.

Anyone who has been in the forests here will all desire to visit the big trees of California. There are whole forests of big trees here, many of them being forty feet in circumference, and over 300 feet in height. Most of the forest trees however measure from 15 to 20 feet in girth, and are often free from limbs for the first 100 feet. The forests in many places are so dense that there is a gloom next to darkness among them and it is generally hard work forcing a passage through the dense and impenetrable growth of timber.

There is a group of beautiful fresh-water lakes the largest of being a mile long and half a mile wide, near the beach between Garibaldi and Nehalem bay. These lakes are sparkling and clear and are fed by mountain springs. The scenery surrounding is enchanting and these lakes are destined to become popular resorts in the summer time, as Nehalem beach near at hand is one of the finest beaches on the coast and constitutes a fine drive for nine miles, in fact all the way from Tillamook bay to Nehalem bay. Shell fish and crabs are plentiful here, and there is good fishing and hunting around the lakes.

"Can I do well there in my business?" is a question that is often asked by persons writing for information. You can, if you can do well anywhere, without a doubt. But those who are dissatisfied everywhere, and spend their last dollar to get here, are likely to be disgusted if they come here. It is a poor place for a man to come who expects to depend on common labor for his living, or who expects to make his financial start entirely after he gets here. It is foolish for any one to come here unless he is possessed of some means, or has employment surely engaged before he ventures here.

This is a good country through which to build a railroad, there being good passes through the Coast range, and an easy grade through the county from north to south. When the railroad is built it will traverse the county from north to south through its full length and touch at various points on Tillamook bay. The road that will be built first is the Albany & Astoria Railroad, and will probably constitute a part of a transcontinental railway system, as some of the great transcontinental systems are heading for Astoria, and will no doubt find it most convenient and profitable to come via Albany and Tillamook.
