> The county is well supplied with rivers. The Nehalem, the largest, which is navigable for everal miles, flows into Nehalem bay at the north. Five streams, the Miami, Kilchis, Wilson, Trask and Tillamook rivers empty into Tillamook bay. The Big Nestucca and Little south part of the county, and still further south, the Salmon and Siletz make their exit into the ocean. These rivers are most all navigable for small craft as far inland as tide-water extends. are fine streams and have many tributaries. They will always be of great service in getting logs out of the forests and there is much fine water-power going to waste. Fresh, cold springs of pure water acound everywhere, and keep the small rivulets supplied during the summer

Nehalem bay can be entered by coasting schooners, and with a little improvement is destined to become an important harbor. The bar at Nestucca is unreliable, though small craft enter that bay frequently. Netarts bay is shoal and is noted chiefly for its oysters and clams, though there are fine bodies of agricultural and timber lands on Netarts bay and the harbor will be much frequented by small coasting ACRE TRACTS schooners in the future.

cisco. A little money expended here judiciously by the Government, would make Tillamook bay an important commercial center, as it is surounded by a good country and is the outlet of several rivers that tap regions rich in lumber resources. The work of harbor improvements is commenced, but has not progressed very far at present. The work that has been done, so far to improve the bay has been productive of little good, but further appropriations are recom-mended by the River and Harbor committee of the present Congress, and no doubt will be made. A $10,000 life-saving service is to be es tablished, though wrecks are almost unknown on Tillamook bar. An excellent and expensive light-house has been built on Cape Meares near the entrance to the bay.

CLIMATE. One of the most attractive features of Tillanook county is the climate. The summers are simply delightful, being reasonably dry and free from cold winds and disagreeable fogs. No hot, sultry days. The winters are unusually mild and equable, snow seldom falling, and the temperature rarely registering lower than twenty-five degrees above zero. The rainfall in winter is quite copious, but is not so disagree able as cold weather or blizzards. Those to the rains do not seem to mind them at all and the rainy season is the healthiest part of the year. There is no healthier locality, however, than this, taking it all the year round.

TIMBER RESOURCES. Over half the area of the county is cover with fine timber, mostly fir and spruce, which
