BATHER TOUGH.

Capt. T. W. Symonds is having a hard time of it. The Astorian publishes an account of how he squandered $3,000,000 on a tunnel for the water works in the District of Columbia, and afterwards found out that the tunnel was worthless and had to be abandoned.

We hope that Oregon will cease to be the dumping ground of old worn out politicians and government dead heads.

LIGHT-IN-DARK PLACES.

Some of our streets are absolutely unsafe to travel at night in the present incomplete condition of the sidewalks.

A LOGGING CHUTE.

The ingenuity of the average logger in his efforts to get the great forest monsters to tide water is often taxed to its utmost.

The building of these chutes require a considerable amount of energy and skill besides a large outlay of money.

One of the longest and most extensive adjuncts to logging of this nature is the Capt. Ankeny chute, near Clifton, Oregon.

and presents the appearance of a miniature waterspout for the time being.

For several years this chute has not been in use, owing to a cessation of logging operations, and the fact that the logs attained too much speed and left the chute on account of its being shod the entire length with railroad iron.

DOSS BUCKLEY GONE.

Regarding the departure of the boss trickster of San Francisco, the Jacksonville Democratic Times says: 'The rottenness disclosed in the management of municipal affairs of the bay city during the pending investigations surprised no one at all familiar with the workings of politics there during the last decade.

Among other matters of public interest in the proceedings of the Oregon State Board of Commerce we find the following: 'RESOLVED. That it is hereby recommended that at the next meeting of the General Assembly of the state of Oregon there be enacted a general law of the state under which road districts may be organized.

We are informed by Rev. Father Demeris of this place that the tales of trouble between Indian Agent Lamson and the Catholic instructors in the Indian school at the Grande Ronde Reservation.

We are in receipt of the initial number of the Oswego Iron Worker. It is a good paper, but several good papers have died in Oregon for lack of support.

We acknowledge the receipt of some valuable documents from Senator Doph.

Once a Noted Man.

Capt. Sam W. Smith, of Neskowin, died in the hospital at Portland, Oct. 5, aged about 63 years. He was there receiving treatment for a cancer, but did not survive the operation.

$328.00

NEW YEARS GIFTS FOR ALL.

One Hundred and Fifty Premiums, Averaging $2.20, Free to Subscribers.

The HEADLIGHT will give to its subscribers on January 1st, 1892, ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY valuable articles, aggregating in value $328.00.

The distribution of gifts will be made on the plan adopted by the San Francisco Examiner and other great newspapers.

WHO ARE ENTITLED TO THEM.

- 1. New subscribers at $1.50 per year, the regular price.
2. Those in arrears who pay up to the present time, and for a year in advance.
3. Those who are paid in advance, and pay for a year in advance from the time their subscriptions expire.

The premiums offered become the property of the above classes on Jan. 1st, 1892, and they will select a committee to make the distribution, the proprietor of this paper having nothing to do with selecting the committee, and we only require the distribution to be fair for all.

Everyone is given a receipt showing what he is entitled to.

We can afford to do this because we can, with our increased list, raise the price of advertising more than enough to cover the expense within a year.

Send ten or a dozen copies of the paper to your eastern friends and advertise the county.

The HEADLIGHT will be greatly improved, and will be very interesting during the year 1892, as the elections are coming on. You can't afford to be without it.

Don't delay; it is but a short time until the distribution will be made.

This is the most liberal award of premiums ever made by a country newspaper. For full particulars call at this office.

We guarantee that every one who accepts our proposition will receive a premium, and in case the present number of premiums are not enough to go around a sufficient number will be added, and due notice given, and at the time of the distribution, the names of those who get premiums and the articles they receive will be published.
