To do a lady's shopping is one of the most difficult and disagreeable tasks which ever falls to the lot of man. A five cents.' man, unless he be a "man milliner," is no judge of the articles he is usually asked to buy, and he even has no intelligent opinion about them. Nor does he know what they should cost. There is no chance whatever that he will make a bargain. So as to reduce the chance of mistakes to a minimum a man when shopping for his wife should get from He should learn what each article ought to cost and also inform himself wherein and how far he was to use his own discretion. With such directions, if a man will go to a shop and confess his ignorance and exhibit his orders, he will be taken charge of and provided with everything he desires. Some men are trouthey know it all. No better school of discipline could be devised for such men than to have to do a lady's shopping. That will take all the conceit out of

How to Dress for a Rainy Day.

This is one woman's way: She has discarded all sorts of rubber cloaks and wears a long woolen or waterproof circular, with pointed hood and no arm slits, except in winter or a very hard rain. She has a rainy day dress of good though not very expensive woolen material, which is not hurt by mud or rain. This comes out with the falling of the barometer. A little knack at lifting enables her to lift and muddy they are hung to dry, brushed and, if necessary, pressed. Rubber overshoes and gaiters protect the feet, and an umbrella and hat, minus ostrich feathers and velvet, both of which are changed by rain, completes this weather

How to Remove a Particle from the Eye. Take a horsehair and double it to make a loop. If the particle can be seen, lay the loop over it, close the eye gently and draw out the loop. It will nearly always bring the object with it. If the particle cannot be seen, raise the lid as high as possible and place the loop on the ball, widely extended, then close the eye and let the ball be rolled about a few times, after which draw the loop as before.

How to Clear Sugar. Take a little gum arabic and a little isinglass dissolved in hot water and pour it in the sugar while the latter is boiling. It will cause all the sediment to boil to the top of the pan, where it must be skimmed off. Loaf sugar may be cleared with the white of an egg, isinglass or gum arabic.

How to Make a Cheap Paint for Outside

Farmers will find the following a good receipt for making an excellent and cheap paint for outdoor buildings, fences and poultry houses: Take one-half bushel of good unslacked lime; slack it with boiling water, keeping it covered during the process, so that as little of the steam as possible may escape. Strain the liquid through a sieve and add to it a peck of salt dissolved in warm water and three pounds of ground rice boiled to a thin paste. Stir in boiling hot one-half pound of Spanish whiting, one pound of white glue and five gallons of hot water. Let the mixture stand a few days, covered from dust, and apply hot with a whitewash brush. If another color than white be desired, Spanish brown, yellow other or other colors may be added with the exception of green. This is a good paint for all outdoor woodwork, brick or

How to Core Rattlesnake Bite. Out of many experimented with, the following receipt has proved the greater success: Iodide of potassium 4 grains, corrosive sublimate 2 grains, bromine 5 drams. It must be kept in a glass vial well stopped, as the air affects it. Ten drops diluted in two tablespoonfuls of whisky or brandy is the first dose. It may be repeated in one hour or two if relief is not secured, or a third the amount may be given sooner. Dr. Hammond often had occasion to test this in the Rocky mountains and gives it the preference.

How to Make a Good Salad Dressing. Be a niggard with vinegar and a prodigal with oil. In these few words lies the secret of salad dressing. Take one-quarter of a tablespoonful of salt; three drops of tabasco sauce or an equivalent amount of red pepper; half a salt spoonful of black pepper; one tablespoonful of vinegar and three and one-half tablespoonfuls of oil. Rub all these ingredients together in the bottom of a soup plate with the back of a fork, and the dressing is made. A salad is usually much improved by the addition of a piece of bread on which garlic has been grated or by the insertion of a few slices heart, so that, when the soldier pierced

But I didn't say that; I said, "Seventy-

The Effectiveness of Modern Guns. The prominence given to a lecture by the German doctor, Dr. Billroth, on the wounded in war, has induced Mr. Archibald Forbes to write on the subject. Dr. L'illroth estimates that of the casualties at Weissenburg and Worth during the Franco-German war, 80 per cent. of all the wounded were caused by rifles, 15 per cent. by the large guns, and not quite 5 per cent. by the lance and sword. Mr. Forbes, however, says that the statistics for the whole of the war on the German side prove that over 90 per cent. were due to rifle fire, about 9 per cent. to artillery, and about 1 per cent. to cold

The smallness of the mortality from the French artillery is explained by the fact that their artillery was notoriously badly served. Dr. Billroth believes that the future will see a still greater proportion of deaths resulting from rifle fire than from shell. Mr. Forbes points out that, in doing so, no account has been taken of the probable use of highly destructive explosives in the shells of the future.—Army and Navy Gazette.

The First Protestant in Japan. The first Protestant Christian in Japan was one Murata, a military retainer of the Lord of Saga, in the southern is-land of Kiushiu. In 1860 he went to Nagasaki, by order of his chief, and one evening, as he was crossing the harbor in a boat, he picked up a book that was floating about in the water. The writing ran from side to side, "like the crawling of crabs," and upon sending it to one of the Dutch then settled at Nagasaki, he learned that it was the Christian Bible, then a proscribed book. Curiosity spurred him on, and he had one of his assiztants learn the language of the book and translate it for him, sentence by

His study was continued in secret, with a few friends, after his return home. When a difficult passage was found, a messenger was sent to Dr. Verbeck, a well known missionary then in Nagasaki, for its interpretation. Murata was afterward baptized, and his name now stands first on the roll of Protestant Christians in Japan. - London

Women Taking the Places of Men.

In Holland men can no longer be trusted to work the switches on the railways, and women now fill their places. This is a slap in the face indeed to the male sex, and a great triumph to the advocates of female labor. But we have yet to see how the thing works. The men say that there will now be looking glasses in the switch boxes, and that the women will never leave them till they have smoothed their last hair and settled the bow of their last ribbon, and that in part of her bowsprit; while, to complete the meantime there will be collisions; that when left to themselves they never have been in time for the train as passengers, and will not be more punctual as pointswomen; and, finally, that if they hear their lover's whistle anywhere in the neighborhood they will pay very lit tle attention to that of the locomotive. If these objections are not valid, conclude the men, "we are not Dutchmen."

"Sit by," says the comfortable New England farmer to his guest beneath his roof. Now compare this commanding phrase with the more modern polite question, "Will you partake of refreshments?' which is as empty and void as a Chinese invitation, and throws the choice of acceptance on the guest. One is the living soul of speech, the other a mere dead formality.-Detroit Free Press.

IN THE AMERICAN NAVY.

Is the Object of Profound Veneration on the Part of Patriotic People of Today, Who Are Proud of Her.

Not many people may know that the old frigate Constitution, so renowned in our annals, is still included among the vessels of the navy. She is dismantled. as might be expected at her age, and is kept in that condition at Portsmouth. N. H. She is a craft of 2,200 tons displacement, and now carries no battery in place of the forty-four guns of the days of her glory.

It was the Constitution that, after the inauspicious opening on land of our war with Great Britain, eighty years ago, led off a series of splendid victories on the sea. The honor of the first capture of a British war vessel undoubtedly belongs to the Essex, Captain David Porter, whose defeat of the Alert occurred stroyed the Guerriere. But the Essex carried thirty-two 32pounders and the Alert only twenty 18pounders, so that very soon after open-ing fire the crew of the little British craft, which, having captured one of our transports had made up to the Essex. taking her to be a merchantman, were compelled to quit their guns and within eight minutes to strike their flag. This conquest, though gratifying, was in-evitable, whereas that of the Constitution was gained over a craft hearer her own size and strength. But while yielding the laurels of priority to the gallant Essex on this score, the Constitution, under Captain Isaac Hull, can claim them again for success in a trial of seamanship between herself and a British squadron. Till then affairs were looking gloomy for us at sea as well as on land. The British frigate Belvidere, while convoying a fleet of merchantmen, had escaped from a whole squadron of our warships, whereas our Nautilus had struck to an English squadron, being the first warship captured on either side. Under se untoward circumstances the Constitution, returning from Europe, fell in with a British squadron led by the Africa, a 64-gun ship. During four days she was chased by this squadron. Through calm and through breeze the flight and pursuit went on. At one time she had boats out towing her: at another her crew were hauling upon a kedge anchor that had been carried out and dropped a long distance shead. On the fourth day the longed for wind came, and with every sail set the Constitution drew away from her pursuers, the scene when five frigates were standing on the same tack and the Constitution was showing her heels to her enemies being often recounted eighty years ago. Some of the historians describe this as the first of our triumphs on the sea in that war.

But in our time, of course, the fame of the Constitution is more familiarly associated with her capture of the Guerriere. It was on Aug. 19, 1812, that the two vessels met, both eager for a fight. The scene was off the coast of Massachu setts. The British craft, commanded by the gallant Dacres, was first to open fire, but Hull maneuvered his vessel into the right position before he replied. The enemy's mizzenmast soon went by the board, followed by her m she struck she was, in fact, so completely used up that she could not be taken into port and had to be blown up. The Constitution was superior in ton nage and complement, carried more guns and threw a much heavier weight of metal in her broadsides: still the vessels were near enough matched for the victory to produce a tremendous impression on both sides of the ocean. Alison describes the "shock of this unwonted naval disaster" in England, where the belief that Britannia ruled the waves was so profound that the American navy had seemed to be a mere mouthful for

That same year the Constitution, under Bainbridge, gained another great victory over the Java, off the coast of Brazil. The Java, like her predecessor was a 38-gun ship, and in the battle she lost foremast and mizzenmast, besides a the parallel, like the Guerriere, she was so wrecked in the fight that she had to be blown up. It was a great exhibition of good seamanship and superior gunnery on the part of the American vessel: for, as Cooper says, "the Java had been literally picked to pieces by shot, spar following spar until she had not one left." Her loss in killed and wounded was very heavy.

Finally, in 1815, under command of Commodore Stewart, the famous old ship made a double capture of the British frigate Cyane and sloop Levant.

Old Ironsides, as she had come to be called during the war, was launched at Boston in 1797; and who knows but when the hundredth anniversary of that event comes around she may again be put into commission, so as to receive centennial honors?-New York Sun.

A Novel Use of Electric Fans.

The little electric motor and the swiftly revolving fan are familiar object, and many a heated brow has been cooled by their combination. But the electric fan has recently found its way into a strange place, none other than the tur-rets of the powerful iron monitor Miantonomoh, where the company has placed are not, as might be supposed, to cool off the gunners, but to blow away the smoke from the guns. This certainly is a novel use for the electric fan.-Elec-
