How to Relieve Ivy or Other Vine Poisoning.

Apply soft soap freely, without removing it with water. With some people a weak tincture of belladonna relieves the poisoning quickly.

How to Pack a Trunk.

To pack a trunk properly requires a plan. If one is going on a trip and proposes to live in the trunk, so to speak, then the plan should be made with reference to easily getting at those things most frequently in demand. If, however, the trunk is packed merely to move clothing from one place to another, where the trunk will be unpacked, then the plan should call for a folding of all garments in as large folds as the size of the trunk admits of. As each layer is made all the spaces at the sides and ends and in the corners should be filled with small articles. It is a bad plan to put in a lot of garments one on top of the other and then when the pile has reached the top of the trunk try to fill in these vacant places. Besides mussing things up you will lose valuable space by such a method. The proper way is to build layer on top of layer, making each one complete as you go along. The result will be that you can get a great deal more in a trunk, and the compactness of packing prevents the clothing from getting creased and mussed. It is said that no woman ever thoroughly mastered the art of trunk packing.

How to Cool Inflamed or Heated Eyes.

A little contrivance called an eyecup can be bought for fifteen or twenty cents at drug stores, of which few people know of. It is like a tiny goblet of thick glass, whose bowl is slightly elliptical in shape, and whose top edge is curved downward, so it will fit closely over the hollow in which the eye is set. This filled with cold water, with a few grains of salt, is held to the eye bent over to meet it. When the head is lifted the eye can be open and shut many times in the liquid, of which not a drop need escape. Any eye wash or cooling lotion can be applied by this means.

How to Address Letters.

If you are addressing a business letter, send it to Mr. John Smith or to Messrs. John Smith & Co. If the letter be a social communication, address it to John Smith, Esq. The English rule is to address tradesmen as "mister" and gentlemen and professional men as "esquire." But this rule won't work for obvious reasons in America. Address a letter to "General Smith" or to "Dr. Smith," but never under any circumstances to "Mrs. General Smith" or "Mrs. Dr. Smith." If such an identification be essential to a correct delivery, use an extra line and address to "Mrs. Smith, in the care of General Smith." If the letter be to a widow and her identity be obscure without the title of her husband, then the obsolete form might be used of "Mrs. Mary Smith, widow of General John Smith." But such is not an imaginable case. There is no use of putting "for" or "to" before the name of a person addressed. In addressing a note to unmarried sisters the grammatical rule is to write, when the given names are not mentioned, "The Miss Smiths," and when the names are mentioned "The Misses Mary and Sarah Smith." But "The Misses Smith" has been adopted by general consent and will do. To a man to whom the title of honorable is due the article should be used and he should be addressed as "The Hon. John Smith." But no man in America except the lieutenant governor of Massachusetts is entitled by law to such a mark of distinction. We accord it, however, very liberally, and maybe we are right. "His Excellency" is only given by law to the governor of Massachusetts. The president of the United States should be addressed in so many words, and the beginning of a letter to him should be simply "Mr. President," or "To the President of the United States, Sir."

How to Make Icing That Will Not Harden Soon.

Stir the sugar into the unbeaten white of the egg. This will keep soft sometimes a week or more.

How to See Under Water.

If there is good ice, cut a hole just large enough for the face, get down to it and cover the head and hole with a blanket so as to exclude the sunlight. If there is no ice, a raft with a hole in the center will answer the same purpose. By excluding the light thoroughly you will be able to see with surprising clearness to the bottom of water several feet deep. Lost articles of any marked color can be seen on the bottom almost as easily as if there were no water.

How to Suspend One's Skirts in Wet Weather.

Make a belt large enough to button around the waist outside of dress. To this fasten at regular intervals four tapes, perhaps eight or ten inches long, and on the end of each tape place a large safety pin. The contrivance may be carried always in a waterproof or mackintosh pocket, and with its aid a dress can easily be lifted and as high as desired. If black tapes and belt are used they will not look bad even if no waterproof is worn.

How to Make a Chicken Coop.

Fit a window sash closely into a large dry goods box or board frame made for the purpose, leaving a space of four or six inches above the sash for a ventilator. Have a slope of five or six inches to the roof. In the rear end partition off a foot or more space in which to feed. Place the entrance at the side and keep the coop cool and clean. When the sash is no longer needed, it can be removed and slats put in its place.

A Cheap Article.

Teddy and Cholly seek shelter in a doorway.—Life.

The Other Little Boy.

The proprietor of a corner grocery happened to be a small man without any beard.

"What can I do for you sonny?" he asked the small boy in front of the counter.

"Nothing. The other little boy is wrapping me up a pickled cucumber."—Texas Siftings.

Not at a Loss.

Katie (aged five years, who doesn't like to say "please")—Papa, pass the bread.

Papa—If—what, my dear?

Katie—If you can reach it.—Munsey's Weekly.

A Sympathizing Spirit.

He—I think she gave up everything when she married that man.

She (who is feeling very queer)—How dreadful! Was it at sea?—Life.

A Difficult Choice.

Mr. Appington—Marie, this has become past endurance. This morning when I was taking my bath that monkey of yours jumped on my back. You've got to choose between him and me.

Mrs. Appington—Well, give me three days to think it over.—Harper's Bazar.

A Remedy Suggested.

"Do you know who that fearfully homely woman is over by the door?"

"Yes, that is my wife, and I would remind you that beauty is only skin deep."

"Then, my dear sir, why on earth don't you skin her?"—Republican Life.

GEMS IN VERSE.

We Must Not Doubt.

We must not doubt or fear or dread that love for life is only given,
And that the calm and sainted dead will meet estranged and cold in heaven—
Oh, Love were poor and vain indeed, based on so harsh and stern a creed.
Earth's lower things—her pride, her fame, her science, learning, wealth and power—
Slow growths that through long ages came, or fruits of some convulsive hour, Whose every memory must decay—Heaven is too pure for such as they.
They are complete: their work is done. So let them sleep in endless rest.
Love's life is only here begun, nor is nor can be fully blest;
It has no room to spread its wings amid this crowd of meaner things.
—Adelaide A. Procter.

The Good Morning Kiss.

'Tis but three little months ago
Since Nell and I were married,
And Joy that came to bid us joy
Since then has with us tarried,
And yet a full fledged Benedick,
With all my bliss, am I,
As doth appear each morning
When I kiss my Nell goodby;
For it's
"Don't forget the curtain rings,
The carpet tacks and hatchet,
And take this piece of ribbon, love,
And see if you can match it."

Oh, happy is the evening hour,
When Nell the tea is pouring
And I am sitting opposite,
Her every move adoring!
And happy are the morning times
That all too quickly fly
Until I stand upon the steps
And kiss my Nell goodby;
And it's
"Don't forget the linen, dear,
And match these buttons, sweeting,
And call around at Madame Y.'s
And get that yard of pleating."

In Lovers' land we twain abide
And there will dwell forever;
No doubt or grief shall be allowed
Our wedded souls to sever.
So faithfully her name I breathe
In every ardent sigh
I'm glad to be the errand boy
Who kisses her goodby;
When it's
"Run around to Stacy's, George,
And get three sheets of batting,
And bring four spools of 'fifty' thread
Like that I use for tatting."
—George Horton.

Is It So?

Is it so, O Christ in heaven, that the highest suffer most,
That the strongest wander farthest and more
hopelessly are lost,
That the mark of rank in nature is capacity
for pain,
That the anguish of the singer makes the sweetness of the strain?

Is it so, O Christ in heaven, that whichever way we go
Wall of darkness must surround us, things we would but cannot know?
That the infinite must bound us like a temple
veil unrent,
While the finite ever wearies so that none attain content?

Is it so, O Christ in heaven, that the fullness yet to come
Is so glorious and so perfect that to know would strike us dumb?
That if only for a moment we would pierce beyond the sky,
With these poor dim eyes of mortals we should just see God and die?
—Sarah Williams.

Settled at Last.

She comes into the restaurant,
She sits down in a chair;
She tosses up her bangs and then
She reads the bill of fare.

She reads it up, she reads it down,
She reads it crosswise, too;
She reads it near, she reads it far,
She reads it through and through.

She takes it up, she puts it down,
She looks around in doubt;
She hums, she drums, she sighs, she starts,
Her lips begin to pout.

The waiter stands with sphinxlike stare
For hours, it seems to me;
And then she says she thinks she'll have
A cup of nice hot tea.
—Life.

The Taking of the Tenor.

And the tenor is married! I knew,
That brilliant night at the play,
That the sweet soprano with eyes of blue
Was singing his heart away—

Singing his heart away,
Leading his lips astray;
The dark of the forest dreamed today—
The stage was a meadow, sweet with May;
She was singing his heart away—away,
Singing his heart away!

She was not singing to you,
She was not singing to me;
He saw himself in her eyes of blue,
A drowning man in a sea!

A drowning man in a sea
Where drowning is sweet! And she—
Oh, she was singing his ship astray;
But the beautiful haven landward lay—
The stage was a meadow, sweet with May,
And the birds were singing his heart away—
Singing his heart away!

I said when the curtain fell,
"Adieu, brave tenor, adieu!
You sang your part and you sang it well,
But Love sang sweeter than you!"

Love sang sweeter than you—
Love, with the eyes of blue;
The sweet soprano—she knew, she knew
When she was singing of love and May
That Love was master and ruled the play,
And Love was singing your heart away—
Singing your heart away!
—Frank L. Stanton.

A Woman's Way.

"I will give you," he murmured, "a warrior's name"—
She sighed as she shook her head.
"I will carve it aloft on the pillars of fame,
In blood red letters, enscrolled in flame"—
"But Love cannot read it," she said.

"I will make you," he pleaded, "a statesman's bride"—
She listened and turned her head.
"I will sit in the halls where the great abide;
Where Ambition feasts and is satisfied"—
"But Love cannot share it," she said.

"I will sing you a song such as poets prize"—
She blushed and she drooped her head.
"I will woo soft chords from the muse, whose eyes Illumine the portals of Love's paradise"—
"But Love cannot sing them," she said.

"I give you my love, then—'tis all I can do"—
Low drooped her womanly head.
"I love you, oh, love, with a love so true,
There is nothing else in my life for you."
"But Love wants nothing else," she said.
—Tom H. Cannon.

Compensation.

Oh, the compensating springs! Oh, the balance wheels of life,
Hidden away in the workings under the seeming strife!
Slowing the fret and the friction, weighting
the whirl and the force,
Evolving the truest power from each unconscious source.
Ah! if we knew it all, we should surely understand That the balance of sorrow and joy is held with an even hand,
That the scale of success or loss shall never overflow,
And that compensation is twined with the lot of high and low.

MARLIN SAFETY

RIFLES EVERYWHERE

MADE BY THE MARLIN FIRE ARMS CO. NEW HAVEN CONN. U.S.A.

WHAT TILLAMOOK CITY HAS.

ELECTRIC LIGHT.—The city is lighted throughout by electricity, the streets with arc lights and the dwellings and business houses with incandescent lights. The plant is first-class in every respect, and capable of lighting a city of 10,000 inhabitants.

SIDEWALK.—Miles of good, wide, substantially constructed sidewalks, forming a network extending to and connecting all parts of the city.

GRAVELED STREETS.—A first-class system of graveled streets, with a deep covering of good gravel, which is obtained in the city limits.

CITY HALL.—A neat substantial structure, containing city offices, council chamber, city jail and rooms for Fire Company. There is a good fire bell in the tower, and the building presents a good architectural appearance.

TELEGRAPH.—The Tillamook & Bay City Telegraph line connects with the Western Union at Forest Grove, and will be extended on this end to Nehalem and Clatsop.

TOWN SITE.—The location of the city is remarkably beautiful, and is just sloping enough to secure good sewerage and drainage. An excellent system of water-works can be put in at reasonable cost, also. The townsite is laid off regularly, and with wide streets.

BUILDINGS.—There are many costly and beautiful dwelling houses in the city, and many substantial business houses. The school house is a credit to the city.

BUSINESS.—The city has four wharves, a saw mill, three blacksmith shops, two livery stables, three good hotels, several wood-working shops, two hardware stores, a jewelry store, a book-store, a shoe store, three saloons, two barber shops, a temperance resort, a feed store, two drug stores, agricultural implement store, meat market, bakery and restaurant, photograph gallery, cooperage shop, millinery store, seven general merchandise stores, a bank, a furniture store, a newspaper, machinist's shop, real estate agents, lawers, doctors, ect., ect.

FAIR GROUNDS.—The Tillamook Fair Association has fine grounds, an excellent half-mile track, grand-stand, pagoda, pavilion, ect.

CHURCHES.—The Catholics, the Methodists Christians, M. E. Church South, and other denominations are well represented here.

SOCIETIES.—The Odd Fellows, Masons, Grand Army, and other orders have lodges here.

EDUCATION.—The school employs four teachers. Private schools are often conducted. Two or three church institutions are in embryo, and good inducements are held out for a college. Literary societies and reading circles are maintained.

MAIL FACILITIES.—There are daily mails from the S. P. R. station at North Yamhill; also to Bay City and points on the Bay, and tri-weekly mails from this place to many other points in the county.

ADVANTAGES.—Tillamook City is the county seat and commercial metropolis of Tillamook County. It holds the key to the farming region and to trade on the Bay, and is backed by magnificent resources in the way of lumbering, dairying, fishing, ect.

TRANSPORTATION.—Steamers ply between this place and Astoria and Portland; also between the bay and San Francisco. The steamers have good accommodations for passengers, and carry freight at cheap rates. There is a daily stage between this place and North Yamhill (on the S. P. R. R.) in the summer, and new stage routes will soon be opened. A railroad is sure to come in the near future.

BOARD OF TRADE.—Which will answer all questions regarding the matter, and will cheerfully furnish any information desired.

HERCULES GAS and GASOLINE ENGINES

No Batteries or Electric Spark to care for. Makes no smell or dirt. No double or false Explosions, so frequent with the unreliable spark, It Oils Itself Automatically. Just light the Burner, turn the Wheel, and it runs all day.

It runs with a cheaper grade of Gasoline than any other Engine, and consequently it COSTS LESS to run it.

For Simplicity it Beats the World. It has fewer parts, and is therefore less likely to get out of order than any other Gas or Gasoline Engine now built.
