"NOT DEAD BUT SLEEPETH."

Nearly all the population of Bay City came up on the Elmore last Tuesday. The hotel is closed up, the Tribune has suspended and the town is dead. Moss-backs killed it.—Astoria Herald.

N., not moss-backs, but professional boomers killed it. In fact, Bay City is not dead; it is just suffering a setback from too much booming. True, one hotel is closed, and the Tribune suspended, but two hotels are still doing business. As to the population leaving, it would perhaps have been better if part of the population had left long ago. For a while the town was full of speculative adventurers who had little money, no business in particular, and who expected to get rich at one fell swoop by catching suckers.

For a long time posters have circulated in Portland and in the East, greatly exaggerating the status of affairs in Bay City. Responsible people say they have seen dodgers which set forth that brick blocks were being built in Bay City; that 500 men were at work making improvements; that three large mills were in operation, (claiming the Truckee mill at Hobsonville as one of them); that the city had a population of 1000, and various other claims just as ridiculous. Some parts are bought lots on these representations, and others came there with high hopes, excited by these specious tales, only to be disappointed and disgusted, to say nothing about losing their money.

As there was nothing to support a town at the time, the reaction, of course, had to come. The disappointed investors went away cursing the place, and by this injuring the whole county. They were so disgusted with Bay City as it was, that they would not look with favor on any part of the county, and gave Bay City a much worse name than it deserved. In fact, there was nothing wrong with Bay City; it was the boom that was wrong.

The reaction went to an extreme as the boom. Many who were in business there failed, and now many of the buildings are vacant, going to rack, with old boards nailed over the windows. This is the result of trying to boom the town ahead of the county.

Bay City is all right, however, has a splendid location, and is sure to become an important town in the near future. When the mills are built, Bay City will reap a golden harvest. When a railroad is built, it will be an important shipping point, and we can see no reason why Bay City hasn't bright prospects, as soon as it recovers from its present misfortunes, and that will not be long. And, in the meanwhile, let us hope that the boomers will steer clear of this county hereafter.

The little squib in the Astoria Herald comes with poor grace, as we understand, that Mr. Dollinger, formerly of the Bay City Tribune, is now one of the managers of the Herald, and most of our readers remember the course he pursued while managing the Tribune in Bay City.

It is not a pleasant task to skin a skunk, and it is not a desirable undertaking to write the pertinent details of a trial, such as occurred here last Friday. Furthermore, such matter is usually out of place in decent journalism, and the publication of it does the town no good abroad. However, the circumstances demand and justify the attention which has been given to the subject. The trouble is, there are quite a number of people in this city who countenance and uphold the flagrant outrages to which reference is made. The object in giving the details of the proceedings of the trial is to impress upon the people the baneful influences that have existed for some time, and to discourage the tendency of the community to condone such offenses. If those who champion the cause of the harlots and pimps, were in a position to suffer the worst effects of the institutions, they would take a different view altogether. Some of the "toughest" young men in the town would as quickly as anybody resent an insult or attack made upon their mothers or sisters, and the offenders would be lucky to get off with their lives. So it is useless to listen to the palliation offered by the thoughtless classes, who are not so seriously affected by the evil, but if woman and children, while in their own homes, shall be subject to the brutal and lecherous attacks of ruffians, without redress, it is a poor inducement for decent people to settle in the community. If law and order must submit meekly to the rough element, it is time to warn people against the state of affairs. The idea of winking at crime and passing it over lightly, can not be tolerated if the city is expected to prosper. A sentiment which encourages lawless actions cannot be countenanced, and should not be permitted to exist.

A bold stand has been made by our City Recorder and prosecuting Attorney, however, and as the sentiment of the community has been rapidly changing since a few have had courage to start the fight, there is good prospect of a needed change. The persons who began the prosecution started to play a lone hand. They were discouraged and advised not to prosecute. Those who know of the facts, begged not to be subpoenaed as witnesses, not daring to file a complaint, and some who suffered most from the evil, said they "knew nothing about it." After they were on the witness stand and sworn to tell the truth. They wished to get rid of the evil, but wanted somebody to shoulder the responsibility and take the kicking. Of course, those who had visited the resort were reluctant to acknowledge their own guilt by admitting they had been there. This was expected.

The defendant, the unfortunate who derives her living from her shame, and perhaps, whose degradation was caused at first by some procurer, deserves as much respect as some of her more fortunate sisters, who while having the same wayward tendencies, have escaped their worst effects. She is not to blame more than those who patronize her. The ruthless workings of the present social system seem to demand that a few women shall be sacrificed to the most vile purposes in order that the balance of woman-kind may be protected. It is said to be a necessary evil. Admitting that it is, it is not necessary that it be allowed right under our noses, to contaminate a respectable neighborhood, and the fight against it would not have been made in this form had it been located in a proper place, (if any place be proper) for such use. In order to remove the evil, it was necessary to remove one of the main causes, and at the same time, strike at those who were most obnoxious in frequenting it.

May this be the last word necessary for this paper to say regarding the matter.

WHERE IS THE MORAL?

The Telephone Register, of McMinnville, in speaking of the North Trask bridge accident, says: The passengers consisted of a preacher and a saloon man. The saloon man was severely injured and the preacher escaped unhurt. There is a moral in this.

The above misrepresents the facts, is poor intimation, and intended as a joke, is a poor one. Last winter, a wind storm blew

CRUISE AND SALOONS BUILDING. Moralizing in the same way, we may as well say that God favors the Methodists and saloons.

A PROHIBITIONIST SPEAKS.

If the editor of the Tillamook Headlight would score the saloons of his town as severely as he does the class of women who always follow saloons, and whose victims are usually first the victims of the saloon keeper, he would appear more consistent. These institutions go together, brother Jones. Hit 'em both alike.—Newberg Graphic.

If a saloon were started in our back yard we should make a special fight against it, al o.

There are no new developments regarding the strikes. The Union men are being replaced by Non-Union men, and the boycotts are being quietly pushed. The soldiers are still in possession at Cour D'Alene and Homestead.

Frick, of the Carnegie company, who was shot and stabbed by Bergman, an anarchist, is recovering. Bergman is in jail and other arrests are being made. The strikers at Homestead have no sympathy for the would-be assassin or his accomplices.

A member of the militia, named Iana, cheered Bergman, the assassin of Frick, and was banged for a while by his thumbs. The regiment officials who inflicted the punishment are being censured roundly by the press, and will be prosecuted.

Get an Education.

Why not get an education? You can do so, if you have ambition and energy; and it will brighten all your prospects in life. Fully half the students at the State Normal School at Monmouth, are making their own way, and they are all the better students for it. The necessary expenses are not above $150 per year. Many take half a year and work the other half. Students above twenty-five or even thirty years old are not unusual. A good general and business course is provided for those who do not wish to take the Normal work. Send for catalogue.

Quick Transportation.

The Steamer Elmore sails from Astoria to Tillamook bay on Monday and Thursday mornings, on arrival of the Union Pacific steamer leaving Portland on Sunday and Wednesday nights at 11.30. Through tickets can be had at U. P. ticket office, 254 Washington St., corner Third. Sails from Tillamook bay Tues. days and Fridays. Good passenger accommodations, and through freight rates, as low as by any other line. This is by all odds the quickest way to get from Tillamook to Portland, and enables our merchants to telegraph for goods and get them here on short notice. No such time has ever before been made between Tillamook and the outside world. 2t-f.

Dated this 23rd day of July, 1892.

BOARD OF PENSION EXAMINERS.

Applicants for pensions will receive medical

We can't continue in business longer unless we pay our debts. We can't pay our debts without money, and we can't get money unless those who owe us pay up. Rather than be closed out by the sheriff, we shall attempt to collect what is due us; first by request, and that failing, we shall be forced to use other methods of persuasion. We can't afford to allow our property to be sold under the hammer to pay our obligations, and we don't intend to allow such a sacrifice if we can help it.

What you owe us may seem a trifling amount, but three or four hundred accounts running along in amounts of $1.50 to $5 and $10, form up quite a good deal, and we must have it as it is necessary in our business. We have waited on those who owe us much longer than those we owe are willing to wait on us. We would like to accommodate the public still further, but can't do it. So please dig up the small amount you owe us at once. Send it by mail, or any other way so we get it.
