BLAINE DYING

THE GREAT STATESMAN NEARING
THE END.

His Physicians Say he is in the Last Stages of Bright's Disease.

Dr. Johnson, Blaine's physician, with the concurrence of the family, gives the following statement to the press: Blaine has been suffering some time with symptoms which impaired his general health, but which did not clearly indicate a disease of any particular organ.
Evidences of local organic disease were manifested recently, and it is believed the present condition is due to this cause.
While there is nothing in the nature of this disease to warrant a fear of any rapid progress, he has shown within the past month more signs of serious illness than before. It is to be hoped this aggravation may pass off, but no positive statement can be made as to the changes which may take place from day to day.
At the present moment he is better than for a week past. "Blaine is just a little better, but no great change in his condition this afternoon," was said at the house on inquiry.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—Jas. G. Blaine, Jr., said to reporters at 6.30 this evening: "We think that father is considerably better than he was this morning. He was dangerously ill during the forenoon. During the afternoon he seems to have rallied somewhat. The physicians have been here this evening, and we now think that he will live throughout the night, and we hope for the best; still, it must be said that he is very dangerously ill." These were the strongest statements that had yet been made by the family or physicians as to the condition of the ex-secretary. President Harrison, accompanied by his Private Secretary, Halford, walked over from the White House to the ex-secretary's residence this evening to personally inquire as to his condition and to express relief and gratification at being informed that there had been some abatement of the more alarming symptoms. The excitement throughout the city was intense as the news of Mr. Blaine's condition spread and Sunday, though it was, the newspapers issued extras, which found a rapid sale.

Christmas Long Ago.

Most of the Christmas presents in those days were designed by the manufacturers for the hanging stocking, writes Robert J. Burdette in the Christmas number of The Ladies' Home Journal.
Anything too big to go into a stocking had to go over to somebody's birthday.
In any family where there was more than one child, the old reliable "Noah's Ark" was always looked for. We hailed with acclamations of astonished recognition, Noah and Mrs. Noah, Messieurs and Mesdames Shem, Ham and Japheth. There was no way of telling the men and women apart; they were exactly alike; but the elephant and giraffe you could distinguish at a glance, on account of the spots on the giraffe. So also the dog and the cow; because the cow was always white and blue, while the dog was invariably plain blue. Within twenty-four hours after the landing on Ararat, the baby would have all the paint sucked off Shem, Ham and the hired man, and the doctor would be sent for. The red monkey climbing a red stick was another regular Christmas visitor. He was highly esteemed as a light luncheon by the baby.
It never seemed to affect the infant unpleasantly, to himself that is; although the cloud symphony in red and blue about his innocent mouth was apt to make the beholder shiver. But it made the monkey look sick. Then there was a soldier on a box, with a major-general's uniform, beating a drum. You turned a crank the general lifted his sticks high in the air, and something in the box made a noise as much like a drum as a peal of thunder is like a piccolo. These things as toys were of no great value, but as practical and useful object lessons they were beyond all price, on the minus side.

Timber Land Decision.

St. HELEN, Ore., Dec. 14.—Muckle Brothers received notice a few days ago that the commissioner of the United States land office at Washington had confirmed the decision of the local land office at Vancouver, Washington, relative to timber land which the firm purchased in Cowlitz county a few years ago. It was claimed by Cleveland's special land agent that irregularity existed in the way land was purchased by Muckle Brothers and also that the land was more valuable for agriculture than timber, hence could not be taken under the timber land act of June 3, 1878. The matter was brought before the district land office at Vancouver, where it was decided in favor of the purchasers. An appeal was then taken to the general land office at Washington, and after several years the com-

A Sawmill's mad Freak.—A Meteor falls at Albany.

Cleveland is opposed to an extra session of Congress.

Clara Sawtelle of Cranston, R. I., has given birth to triplets, all boys.

The first official test of street railway mail service was made in St. Louis yesterday and proved a success.

It hardly seems possible, yet figures are said to prove that the entire population of the earth could find standing room on a field ten miles square.

Rev. John Dailey of Springfield, Mo., was swindled out of $2,000 by the gold brick method Friday. He is pastor of the Dailey Memorial Chapel, which he built.

James Carothers and F. M. Wallace of Mansfield, O., fought with bare knuckles for the right to court a girl unmolested.
Carothers gave up in the fifth round.

A number of the firms manufacturing the cheaper grades of jewelry in Providence and Attleboro are on the verge of bankruptcy on account of numerous failure in the trade in the West during the past week.

Trakeman Frank Gorman, who caused the wreck on the New York and New England road on Saturday near Providence, R. I., has been let off with a dismissal. Gorman's excuse was that he was sleepy from overwork.

Chicago Typographical Union No. 16 has adopted resolutions protesting against the awarding of the contract for printing the World's Fair catalogues to the W. H. Conkey Company on the ground that they employ non-union labor.

Bishop Paret of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Maryland and the District of Columbia will soon have built a steamer, the inside of which will be fitted as a church, to carry him and his assistants to the oyster dredging grounds on Sunday, where services will be held.

James Still, the colored boy who is an inmate of the Jamesbury (S. J.) Reform School, yesterday reached the sixty-fifth day of his wonderful fast. He cannot retain anything on his stomach, and although he weighed only seventy pounds when admitted to the hospital at the school it is now said he weighs over 130 pounds.

E. J. Wilbur's sawmill at Meacham, Oregon, was completely wrecked recently by the breaking of the fly wheel on the engine. The accident was caused by one of the belts breaking and striking the governor, rendering the engine unmanageable. The throttle valve was also bent, so that the steam could not be turned off, and the engine attained such a terrific speed that the men all left the mill. Soon after the wheel burst, wrecking the mill, and scattering fragments of iron all over the place.

ALBANY, Ore., Dec. 16.—About 5 o'clock this morning, as Fred Reis was coming from the depot on Lyon street, he saw a meteor approaching from the southeast. Its descent was very rapid, and with a rushing sound it fell obliquely in the street, followed by a wake of bright sparks. Reis hastened to where it fell, and dug it out. It was still very hot, and he carried it home on a piece of board. The stone retained its heat to a wonderful degree and charred the board upon which it was placed. The stone in appearance resembles a piece of reddish brown clay that had been burned, rather than stone. It is not very hard and looks like volcanic production. It was broken into and one piece was sent to Portland to be analyzed. The stone is not heavy, and evidently had been subjected to great heat.

LMA, O., Dec. 17.—John Ennison, proprietor of the large mills at Bluffton, Ohio, has lately been troubled with the apparition of his dead wife. The vision has made him take to drink and to confess all the little things he ever did to anger his wife. He has even gone so far as to place an annuity on his dead wife's sister in order to appease the wrath of the wraith. Last night, intoxicated, he started out with the revolver to lay for the ghost. The ghost appeared and he fired. A human cry responded to the shot, and upon servants rushing on the scene, the wounded form of Charles Sheldon, the night operator for a railroad company, was found. Sheldon was severely, but not fatally, injured. The moment Ennison learned that he had shot Sheldon, he disappeared and has not been seen since. Sheldon refuses to say why he played such pranks, and there is a general impression that Sheldon adopted the unique means to force tardy justice to some one who is at present unknown. The local authorities have taken the matter up, and threaten to imprison Sheldon when he gets well unless he confesses.

Back in the Fold.

ROSE, Dec. 16.—A statement in regard to the settlement of the difference between the church and Rev. Father Mc-Glynn, of New York, has received full confirmation. The news of reconciliation produced the happiest impression at the Vatican, where Father McGlynn has always been a favorite.
