

BREVITIES.

Happy New Year!
Get ready to swear off.
BORN:—To W. C. King and wife, Dec. 28, a son.

The mails have been very irregular and unreliable for the past week.

The steamer Garfield is laid up for a few days, the engineer being outside.

La Grippe is quite prevalent here again, though in a milder form than last year.

The snow has melted from the effects of the warm rains and the rivers are very much swollen.

T. B. Handley returned from San Francisco to Portland, via Yaquina. He is expected here soon.

We shall send bills to all who owe us on January 1st, so you may feel slighted if you owe us and don't get a bill.

The dancers made merry Monday night in Hadley's hall until a late hour. Those who were there report a splendid time.

High water on the road and a violent storm on the bay prevented the mail being carried to Hobsonville last Monday.

There will be a New Year ball in Hadley's hall, Monday night, Jan. 2. Prof. Oakes and Prof. D. C. Pierce will furnish the music.

The Ladies Aid Society will not give a social Saturday night in the Christian church as was expected. Prevalence of La Grippe is the cause.

On Tuesday night part of the mail failed to arrive here. A few old Oregonians, one week behind, and a few of recent date were received.

A. P. Wilson W. M. of the A. F. & A. M. here, wishes, on behalf of the lodge, to express thanks to those who furnished music at the installation.

The telegraph line has been down in all directions for a few days, but the heavy snow and storms have caused the lines to break in all parts of the state.

The Augusta was expected a week ago today, but the weather has not been propitious for navigation. She is expected today, as the bar is beginning to get smooth.

Wm. O'Hara, the barber, is changing his location. He has moved to the old place occupied by G. W. Kutch, where he has good baths, and all the fixtures of a first class barber shop.

There is a big wreck heap which has just formed at the Wilson river bridge, by Mr. Freeman's place. Parts of the ferry were saved by Mr. Freeman, but the ferry is almost a total loss.

N. P. Roberts will receive a large stock of hardware on the Augusta. He is busy now setting up the accounts of the establishment, and all persons owing are expected to call and settle at once.

DIED.—Dec. 21, 1892, Ulrich Indorf, at the residence of John Abplanalp, east of this city. Deceased was born in Switzerland in 1829. He was a member of the Christian church. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. H. B. Morgan.

John Brant went to his claim on Wilson river last week, and as he was not heard from for several days, fears were entertained that some accident had befallen him. A search party was organized, but he was found alright before the party had proceeded far.

The greatest tumble silver has taken in years occurred the other day in Mexico, where an enormous aerolite filled with that metal fell from the clouds. It is evident that the downward movement in silver is becoming rather too impetuous in spots.

George W. Snyder, whose thoughts have been conveyed to this reading public through the Transcript has gone to accept a position on the Corvallis Gazette. It is with a feeling of pride that we recommend him to the citizens of our sister city.—Dallas Transcript.

The city council met for a short time Monday night and transacted a little business. The bill of the Electric Light Co. was cut down to $50 for last month. The council adjourned to meet Saturday at 7 P. M., which will be the last meeting of the present council.

Prof. V. A. Davis has resigned his place as principal of the schools here, his business affairs in Portland demanding his attention. D. H. Procter, of Tigard, Eastern Oregon, has been employed to succeed him and is expected here to take charge of the school next Monday.

Weed was brought into town Tuesday that the ferry boat lately placed at Bester's on the Wilson river had been seen floating down the river. Further investigation proved that the boat had broken loose about 12 o'clock Monday noon. She now lies in the Wilson river just above the Freeman bridge. Only about eight feet of her being visible, the remainder being jammed under a wreck heap. It is supposed she is a total loss. The boat had been completed only a few weeks and at an expense of some $700 or $800.

We had contemplated issuing a special edition New Year that would surpass anything of the kind issued in this place heretofore, but close financial matters prevent us from doing it now. A few months later we shall get out a special descriptive edition, and we hope to be better prepared to make a good paper than, as good times are expected here next spring. It takes money to get out such an edition, and in difficult times it is hard to secure adequate financial inducements. It costs several hundred dollars to get out a first class illustrated edition.

New City Charter.

The committee is at work on the new charter. The whole charter is being rewritten and revised. Among the changes are the following:

There will be five councilmen, a mayor, with the veto power, and a city surveyor. The city will be divided into wards, one west of Stillwell Avenue, and one east of said Avenue. There will be two councilmen from each ward, and one at large.

The city attorney, surveyor and street commissioner will be appointed by the council. Any of the officials are subject to removal for incompetency or neglect of duty. The council has the power to declare vacancies and to fill them.

Where there are damages to be paid for opening new streets or making changes, the city funds shall be used for that purpose.

All voters must be taxpayers, and the limit of taxation is raised from two to five mills.

The names of the "Trustees" are changed to councilmen. The city is empowered to furnish electric lights for the streets; also to provide fire-fighting apparatus, and prescribe fire limits.

St. John Day.

The A. F. & A. M., No. 57, of this place, held a public installation in the Christian Church on St. John's Day, Dec. 27, in the afternoon. The choir furnished excellent music, and the installation ceremonies were gone through with in good shape. Past Master H. B. Morgan was Deputy Grand Master and Past Master J. D. Edwards was Grand Marshal for the occasion. Following are the names of the officers installed:

A. P. Wilson, Worshipful Master.
Frank Severance, Senior Warden.
D. C. Bowers, Junior Warden.
J. W. Haskins, Secretary.
W. S. Hays, Treasurer.
H. Petre, Tyler.
Geo. Colin, Senior Deacon.
L. L. Stillwell, Junior Deacon.
B. C. Lamb and J. Gaudran, Stewards.

After the installation the members of the lodge and their families partook of a sumptuous dinner at the Occidental Hotel. All had a social good time.

The Christmas Trees.

Both Christmas trees were quite successful, and the programmes at each place were interesting. Many little hearts were made glad by the presents distributed, and even some of the older people were rejoiced at their presents. One redeeming feature at both places the programmes were short. The way it has generally been here the house was crammed so full of people that all were uncomfortable, and the programmes hung on so long that all were weary. We are glad to note the change.

EDUCATIONAL.

J. E. Russell, of Dallas, Or., writes that he would like to teach in Tillamook county during the spring and summer.

Bert Severance, of Pacific University, is home on a visit.

The young people of Bay City have access to a very pleasant reading room. The credit is due to Rev. Dendro.

The pupils who graduate from the Course of Study in the spring examinations will be entitled to a beautiful diploma. They have just been received at the Superintendent's office.

We regret to announce that so able an instructor as Prof. Davis is about to leave us. He leaves the Tillamook school in excellent condition. It seems quite necessary now that the school directors adopt a course of study and make some provision for the advanced studies; if not, the pupils who graduate from the elementary course in the spring will be compelled to leave home for school privileges, or, worse still, will be compelled to leave school.

Win Brooks closed his school last Friday. He reports four pupils in the Upper form.

Because of sickness in the neighborhood, Fairview school has closed for a short vacation.

Bay City schools closed last Friday. The Upper form pupils passed a very good examination, but the teacher used the wrong list of questions, hence, no diplomas will be issued.

Some of our teachers believe that faithful, persistent, every day drill in language is worth more than abstract knowledge of technical grammar. Here is an abstract from memory culled from the class papers and submitted without correction. It was written by a little girl nine years old.

THE SNOW BOY.

The school was dismissed and a crowd of merry boys were ready for a frolic. The snow was very thick. The boys made a snow boy. He was soon finished and the boys gave him a name, which was Johnny Frigid. He had two marbles for eyes and a pipe in his mouth. He also had an old hat on. He remained this way for a few days, but when the sun shone the snow melted, and one day the boys found no trace of him, but they found a pool of water, an old hat and a broken pipe. The boys are waiting for another snow storm when they will make a larger snow boy.

LILLIE KOCH.

Be and Sorrow.

Why do I step with sorrow? And why his eyes are wet with grief? He's getting on an Xmas jag And turning over a new leaf.

BRANDON BACKWASH.

Married.

John Barker and Mrs. Susie Miner were married last Sunday, Rev. McLachlan performed the ceremony. Mr. Barker is one of Tillamook's influential citizens, and the bride has never lacked admiring friends.

James Quick is Dead.

The old pioneer passed away Wednesday morning about six o'clock. For several days it was apparent that death was near, but he showed great tenacity of life, considering his advanced age and the nature of his illness.

James Quick was an old pioneer of this county and was very prominent in politics in the early history of this county.

The funeral will be held to-day, and the remains interred in Johnson's cemetery.

Asks a Restraining Order.

PITTSBURG, Dec. 21.—The Edison Electric company asked the United States circuit court today to restrain the Westinghouse company from manufacturing incandescent lamps, on which Edison claims a patent.

Furious Storm.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 24.—The British steamship Anur dropped anchor off Gloucester last night. Her outward appearance foretold the thrilling experience she had with the elements. December 19, when on the southern edge of the gulf stream, the ship had a narrow escape from destruction by a water-spout which fortunately passed under her stern, not many yards from the ship, after a hot race, with her engines wide open. The seas were furious and swept the decks and started the seams. Everybody on board was more or less injured. The vessel nearly foundered.

All Poppycock.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.—It is not probable that the senate will take any action on the alleged attempt of Great Britain to strengthen her armed forces on the great lake with war vessels under the pseudonym of revenue cutters. Senator Frye, chairman of the committee on commerce, and a leading member of the committee on foreign affairs, who is a recognized authority on marine affairs, said the present agitation of the matter is all "poppycock," besides, he said, even if it were true, he is positive he could select twenty-five vessels on the lakes that could within very short time be armed and equipped better than the Canadian cutters are. "I believe," he said, in conclusion, "Great Britain has not the slightest intention of turning her new revenue vessels into war ships."

A Burglar Killed.

CHICAGO, Dec. 24.—Michael Birnbeck, a saloon-keeper, at 2010 Archer Avenue, earned the praise of the police authorities and his friends this morning by killing one burglar and wounding another. Birnbeck lives in a basement under his place of business. Being awakened by a noise overhead at half past 1, he took a revolver and went quietly upstairs. There he found two men behind the bar rifling the till. Crawling along the front of the bar until nearly opposite the burglars, the saloon keeper leveled his revolver and fired two shots, both taking effect.

The declaration of the transatlantic steamship companies that their suspension of steamer passenger business means fewer vessels and higher prices for European travelers who want to visit the World's Fair next summer is merely a threat which is full of sound and fury, signifying nothing. The active principle of competition among the steamship companies will keep passenger rates down to a fair basis in spite of all efforts to lift them to the level of monopoly extortion. Moreover, the companies would hardly advance rates to an unreasonable basis, even if it were possible to do so. They have an undisguised fondness for the goose that lays the golden eggs, and are much more likely to pet her than to kill her.

Trouble in France.

The statement in the dispatches that the ministry have evidence that the present attack on the government was part of an organized plan for the overthrow of the republic, is fully confirmed. Matters have reached a state where the government is prepared to arrest certain conspirators. Andreux is regarded as the manager of the plot and the first blow will be struck at him. When warned he would be arrested, Andreux said: "I have nothing to fear; if I am arrested, it will be to save Floquet from disgrace and punishment. The government is seeking clues to prove the existence of a Boulangist and royalist plot, and desire to make out I am implicated in it. It seems to me the real plot is altogether of another character. I have taken precautions. If I go to a dungeon the public will know the motive of my arrest." The precaution Andreux has taken, it is said, was to deposit with trustworthy parties in London duplicates of all the documentary evidence he has collected against prominent republicans. This, however, will not effect the action of the government. The government is greatly encouraged by the emphatic vote of confidence in the chamber of deputies. A local paper says the government has proof of a Boulangist conspiracy to effect a revolution, and involving the same plotters as in 1888. It is learned even more vigorous measures will be taken now than in 1888. The government victory has spread consternation among the enemies of the republic.

General News.

General Dyrenforth, the Texas cloud puncher, calls himself a scientist, and all because of his unsuccessful efforts to knock rain out of the sky by exploding dynamite in the upper air. It is much as if a man who spends his time in chasing the perpetual motion phantasm should call himself an inventor and discoverer.

A poll of the state legislature of South Dakota shows a decided majority for re-submitting the Prohibitory Liquor law. A majority of the members are opposed to any change in the divorce law or any adverse railroad legislation. This probably means that when the legislature convenes South Dakota will pass out of history of a prohibition State, but will keep up her reputation for divorces.

If a newspaper has a small field, a small and poor paying circulation, meager advertising patronage and not much prospect of anything better, it is only natural that it should soon become a poor paper in every sense of the word. The newspaper business as well as many professional and mercantile pursuits is decidedly overdone in many parts of the Willamette valley.—Dallas Itemizer.

Some girls are not worth a sack of sawdust, says the Polk County Itemizer, and manage to render themselves disagreeable, while others have praiseworthy qualities. Last August Isabel Riddell entered this office as an apprentice and up to this day has not deserved or received a reprimand of any kind. She is always in place and ready to cheerfully perform any duty assigned her. One such girl is worth a cart load of the other kind.

W. H. Gillingham, who lives ten miles in the mountains reports the Nestucca road opened with a ten-foot grade for a distance of over two miles beyond his place, and the work still progressing. A force of graders is employed on the other side, and have progressed this way about the same distance. If the snow does not operate to prevent a wagon will be put through before spring. Toll will be collected on this new road for a distance of twenty miles.—Yamhill Reporter.

The "Sunday Oregonian" prints quite a lengthy article about the beeswax mine found over at Nehalem bay, and in summing up why this find of beeswax, says: "A ship called the Peacock was wrecked on the Nehalem bay sandspit not many years ago, and its cargo composed of beeswax, was strung along the beach." From Hon. Wm. Savage who is a pioneer of 1843 and was in those parts along in the forties says, the Brig of war Peacock was not wrecked at Nehalem, but at the mouth of the Columbia. The ship was commanded by Lieut. Wilks and the wreck occurred in the year 1842.—Polk Co. Observer.

From Onion Peak.

The following letter, written by J. R. Northrup of Onion Peak, appears in the Warrentown, (Pa.) Ledger:

"Perhaps a few words from far away Oregon might interest some of my old associates in Warren and McKean counties. I am located some thirty-five miles southeast of Astoria, Oregon, on the North Nehalem river and some eight miles from the ocean. This river is a fine stream, very deep and with but little improvement, steamers could navigate in safety to the head of tide water; on either side of this stream is large fine bottom land; the soil is as good as can be found west of the Rocky Mountains. From tide water to the head of this stream the banks are very high and it is considered as fine a laying stream as can be found on the Pacific Coast. This section of the country is well supplied with water and timber, not a quarter section but what has a fine running stream of water as cool as ice; the timber is large and tall, no trouble to find spruce and fir thirty-five feet in circumference and nearly two hundred feet without a limb, nearly every quarter section will cut from ten to sixteen millions of lumber. The same can be said of South Nehalem river which is a much larger and longer stream. These two streams form the Nehalem bay. This is rather a new country, but little improvement has been made until within the last two years, and a large percentage is yet unimproved. As for the climate, it is splendid; we have no winters; the pastures are green and flowers in bloom the year round. It would be a delightful place to live were it not for this Oregon mist which makes it rather disagreeable at times, but after a few days of sunning it is soon forgotten. We are not troubled with thunder and lightning, or cyclones as are the eastern states and we are in no fear of being swept away with those mighty floods. Taking everything into consideration this country has many advantages over older Eastern states in the way of farming and lumbering. As soon as we can get a little appropriation on the Nehalem far times will be lively and lumbering will be done on an extensive scale."

New Year's Advice.

Put by the pipe, put by the bowl,
Put by the word profane.
The seasons in their onward roll
Bring New Year's round again.
Put by the eyes whose deepening glow
Have set your brain on fire;
Put by 'tis vain advice, we know,
That winsome, winking girl.
All things on which cold reason frowned
Put by—but show your sense
And put them where they'll all be found
A month or six weeks hence.
