Local notices, 10c per line; and 5c per line for first insertion for regular advertising.

Lost, Found, For Rent, For Sale, Wanted, and Special notices, in classified "ad" columns, at the rate of one cent per word for first insertion and half rates thereafter.

Legal notices, 10c per line for first insertion and 5c per line for each subsequent insertion.

All local notices will be "starred" or otherwise designated as advertisements.

No special position will be agreed upon for any advertisement, though we take special pains to display advertising matter effectively and give as favorable position as possible, frequently changing the "make-up" of the paper.

We make a special effort to change or re-build advertisements as often as our patrons desire, but make no contract to that effect.

No cuts will be used, except out-line cuts on metal bases.

We reserve the right to reject any advertisement that we deem objectionable.

Terms: Cash in advance for small advertisements, and payment is required monthly or quarterly on large contracts.

Correspondence on topics of general interest, invited.

THE HEADLIGHT,

TILLAMOOK, ORE.

TILLAMOOK, ORE., May 18, 1893.

Herman Wise, the ex-clothier, of Astoria, is to be the next postmaster at that place.

No part of the West can boast of a finer climate than we have in Tillamook during the summer.

Gus H. Bynon has bought the Nehalem Journal published at Vernonia. He takes charge at once.

Davis Bros. of Vernonia have bought the St. Helens Mist from J. R. Beegle. Davis Bros. are practical newspaper men.

Madame Patti is to get 1000 pounds for singing "Home Sweet Home" at the World's Fair. We would warble for less.

A fortune awaits the man who will start a tannin factory on Cape Meares peninsula. There is no end to the supply of hemlock that may be obtained there.

The coat of arms for this county should be in the shape of a clam shell, embellished with representations of a salmon, a saw log, a Jersey bull and a butter keg.

Utica, N. Y., Observer: Governor Penoyer's reply to Secretary Gresham's telegram was probably dictated before he had taken his morning dose of bromo-seltzer.

It has been decided to open the World's Fair grounds on Sundays, but the buildings will remain closed. This is a great boon to workingmen and a hard blow to the downtown saloon-keepers, who expected to reap rich harvests on Sundays.

If everybody in Tillamook would take as much trouble to advertise as Messrs. Phelps & Mills, of Netarts, it would bring a great many pleasure seekers to this county, and a great many of them would locate here permanently, no doubt.

Now the Oregonian has joined in the clamor against Salem, because some second class fool newspaper men of this city have opposed the location of the proposed State Soldiers' Home at Roseburg, and a branch asylum in Eastern Oregon—and because a citizen of Salem has enjoined the trustees of the former institution. It would be quite as reasonable to condemn the whole city of Portland, as a city, because forsooth, some fellow residing there made a fool of himself—or was made such by his creator. How many kinds of fools would the Oregonian call a man or a newspaper taking such a course? The people of Salem generally do not oppose the location of the Soldier's Home at Roseburg since it is provided for, at all. And they are not opposed to the location of the branch asylum in Eastern Oregon. They understand that it would not take long for the people to change by votes the constitutional provision for the location of all the state institutions here. As a rule, therefore, our people favor letting these matters alone.—Statesman.

The Nehalem Times has wrought disappointments in the Nehalem heart. It has failed to reach the standard that we hoped for. It flings dirt at the better classes, and fails even to give the town news.—Nehalem Correspondent in Grand Rapids Press.

This city is in a pretty fair condition financially, notwithstanding the fact that no taxes have or will be collected here this year. Some people here go so far as to say that there is no use to levy and collect taxes at all here as long as the saloons pay licenses.

The agricultural college of the state of Washington had "a state bull" named Bellinger, which was sold recently for $30. Our state bull is named "Penoyer," and he keeps up a terrible smashing of crockery in the democratic China shop. No money would buy him.—Oregonian.

There is no waste of the cedar sawed at the mill of the Tillamook Lumbering Co. What can not be worked into clear planks or posts is sawed into short pieces suitable for doors and sash, and the scraps are made into palings. Machinery for making pickets has been placed in the mill lately.

There is a great hegira of Chinamen to this country just now; they think this is about their last chance to get here. In consequence the steamships are bringing great loads of them over. The steamship companies are careful to get the fare guaranteed for the round trip, before they take any of them on board.

Governor Penoyer's head is level. He is playing for a seat in the U. S. Senate, and it will be no surprise to close political observers if he gets there. If the Populists have many members in the next legislature, they will hold the balance of power, and force the Democrats to endorse Gov. Penoyer or stand by and see a Republican elected.

Those sentimental people in the east who think that the Chinese should be welcomed in this country, should be forced to come here and reside next to the Chinese quarters in some of our western cities. This would knock the enthusiastic philanthropy for the Chinese out of our eastern friends. It is a question of as much momentum as the slavery question, and there is likely to be a great deal of trouble over it before the matter is settled.

A patent medicine firm in the South sends us a most gracious offer. They propose to present us with a lot in Phosphate City, Florida, if we will run their ad. a while. They must take the newspaper fraternity for a set of suckers, or they would not make such barefaced fakir offers. After all, they have some excuse for thinking so as a great many newspapers do free advertising for such swindlers, and then wonder why their home merchants do not patronize their Patent Medicine sheets more.

Bank failures for the past week are more numerous than they have been in the same time for several years. It seems that unscrupulous bankers have made a perfect science of failing and defaulting with the money of their depositors. People are fast getting distrustful of banks, and they are not to blame, in the light of recent transactions. There is liable to be a run made on all the banks of the country as a result, and a terrible panic ensue. The possibility of such a thing is terrible to contemplate, as the people would be the real sufferers. While many unfortunate depositors would be ruined and left in a penurious condition, it is safe to say that the bankers who failed would never suffer from the want of the necessaries of life, and many of them would start eventually in business again on the funds that they unlawfully retained from their depositors. The laws regarding the examinations of banks should be amended so as to afford better protection for the people.

The newspapers all over the country are advising their patrons to keep away from the World's Fair at present, on account of the exorbitant rates charged for everything. The Chicago papers, also, are disgusted with their own people and are giving the same advice. It is thought that the hogs that have control there now will soon be forced to realize that the fair will be a failure, and their profits nothing, unless they relent.

Of all savage machines the most cruel looking one is now to be seen in the express office at L. L. Williams'. It is a clamp in which to fasten the head of an ox when it is desired to dehorn him. The shears for cutting off the horn is a wicked looking tool having nothing attractive about it. It is proper to say, however, that the contrivance don't belong in this county but is here by mistake. The real purchaser is of Tillamook.—Hillsboro Independent.

The school "marms" who come to this county to teach in some of the country districts in the woods must have a bountiful supply of native grit. The lucky man who secures one of them for a wife need not fear but what he has a worthy helpmeet in the struggle of life. It is such fortitude among American women that places them so far ahead of the partially enslaved women of other countries. Such women will eventually become the mothers of great men.

THE BIG TREE.

A dispatch says that the place of honor in the central rotunda of the government building at the World's Fair has been given to the sequoia gigantea, or big California tree, which represents, as no other single tree could do, the natural resources of this country and the scope of natural forestry long before the advent of Columbus. This section of the tree is named "General Noble" in honor of the late secretary of the interior. The total cost of cutting, shipping and installing in the government building was $10,487. It took eleven cars to bring it to Chicago. As the section of the trunk now stands it is about 30 feet high. It is protected all around by a light ornamental railing. A door has been cut in the immense trunk, and as a major part of the interior is hollow, there are other exhibits inside which will be lighted up with brilliant incandescent lights.

HE TALKED IN HIS SLEEP.

Mrs. Brown—"Who is this Doris you talked of in your sleep?"

Brown—"Doris, Doris—Doris who?"

Mrs. B.—"That's precisely what I want to know; you've been repeating the name over and over again during the night."

Brown—"Oh—ah—yes, yes of course. It's Charlie Jones' new collie dog. Oh she's a perfect beauty—I'd give anything for her."

Mrs. Brown—"Indeed!"

Brown—"Rather, she is just the sort of a dog—"

Mrs. B.—"You ought to own? Certainly you appear very fond of her. You asked this 'collie dog' to put her arms around your neck and kiss you; then you told Mr. Jones' dog that you loved her with all your heart and that when you come to die if you could only lay your head on Mr. Jones' dogs' bosom you could breathe your life out sweetly there. Then you ask Mr. Jones' dog to have another ice cream and if the watch you had given her kept good time. Under these circumstances, Jethro Brown, I think, perhaps, you would better go to Mr. Jones' collie dog, as I am going home to my mother."—Detroit Free Press.
