Be Careful to Walk out Backwards when Leaving the Presence of the Infanta

The Princess Eulalie went to the races today at Morris Park. The people in the grandstand clapped their hands as she took her seat, but that was too tame a proceeding for the crowd in front. One loud-voiced chap shouted, "Hooray for the princess." The crowd yelled and threw their hats in the air. The princess was much interested in the races. Howard Carroll gave her a tip on St. Florian, and, acting on her instructions, placed $40 on that horse at odds of three to one. St. Florian came in seventh. President Forbes then invited the party over to the clubhouse, where an elaborate luncheon was served. The princess was in good humor, and after coffee was served, the men lighted their cigars, while she lighted a cigarette and puffed away in the most nonchalant manner. A bet was placed for the princess on the fifth race, and when Chorister came in the winner it was announced the princess had won $100, which she presented to the Catholic orphan asylum.

Commander Davis wrote a lengthy letter to Mrs. Potter Palmer, of Chicago, today in which he gave explicit instructions as to how the infanta should be received in the Windy City. Commander Davis asked that no entertainment be provided for the evening of the infanta's arrival, as he thought the fatigue of the long railway journey would make her unfit to take part in a public entertainment. Mr. Davis went on as follows:

"Will you kindly warn the good people of Chicago that when they are presented to her they are presented to her husband as well, who stands by her side, and who is a prince of royal blood. People, when presented, should bow to each. They have made the mistake here in New York of almost ignoring the prince and saluting the princess alone."

Mr. Davis then informed Mrs. Palmer just how the presenting should be done, and that in retiring the people should avoid turning their backs on their royal highnesses. Commander Davis concluded with:

"You can easily understand that it is an utter impossibility for a lady in so conspicuous a position as that of her royal highness to meet and know all the persons in one city who would like to know her, so that I would advise you to make the list of those for whom you desire a special presentation as exclusive as possible."

The above is one of the late dispatches, printed in all the daily papers. We are glad to know "the princess was in good humor," and that a horse-race was made to come out so she won a bet. The timely warning sent to the snobocracy of Chicago should have been more explicit. The people should be provided with smoked glass to look through when gazing on their royal nibs.

The New Code Duello.

The following advertisement, which appears in the New Orleans Times-Democrat of May 24, has a weird and blood-curdling appearance in an American newspaper:

NEW ORLEANS, MAY 23, 1893.—Referring to the article published in the Times-Democrat of May 23, 1893, we, the undersigned, having in charge the differences between Messrs. PICARD and SANCHEZ, have adjusted the same to the satisfaction of all parties and without prejudice either to the bravery or honor of either. The following letter has greatly assisted us in our conclusion:

NEW ORLEANS, May 23, 1893.
Mr. Paul Picard, City:
Sir—In a moment of anger I insulted you, which I now regret, considering that the cause of our quarrel has been honorably adjusted.

(Signed) A. P. SANCHEZ.
In full faith we sign:
For Paul Picard: For A. P. Sanchez:
RIVOIRE, VOORHIES,
ARMANT, CLARK.

This is a distinct improvement upon even the Parisian method, which we are prone to joke about as bloodless, but which does occasionally lead to an accident. The tone of Mr. Picard's apology to Mr. Sanchez seems manly and sufficient, without being effusive, and it is cause of rejoicing that the seconds of the belligerents have thus succeeded in composing an affair of honor in cold type at so much per line, advertising rates.

Visitors at the World's fair will see there the largest cannon ever forged. It is not an American gun, however, but a German one, from the factory of the great Herr Krupp. It weighs 124 tons.

Queen Victoria is studying Hindostanee, and even at her time of life improving her intellect. We commend her example to her son, the Prince of Wales.

An Extra Session.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The president said this evening, in reply to a direct question by a representative of the press, that he intended to call an extra session of congress not earlier than the first nor later than the 10th of September, unless unexpected contingencies should necessitate an earlier meeting. The president further said:

"While there has been no mystery nor secrecy in regard to my intention in this matter, I think it not amiss that our people should be informed authoritatively that the time is at hand when their representatives in congress should be called upon to deal with the financial condition which is the only menace to the country's welfare and prosperity. It is well for the people to take up the subject for themselves and arrive at their own conclusions as to the merits of the financial policy which obliges us to purchase idle silver bullion with gold taken from our reserve. One does not need the eye of a financier to see that this gold, thus subtracted from the government's stock, is eagerly seized by other nations for the purpose of strengthening their credit at our expense. It does not need the art of statesmanship to detect the danger that awaits upon the continuance of this operation. Already the timidity of capital is painfully apparent, and none of us can fail to see that the fear and apprehension in monetary circles will ultimately bring suffering to every humble home in our land. I think between now and the meeting of congress that much depends upon the action of those engaged in financial operations and business enterprises. Our vast national resources and credit are abundantly sufficient to justify them in the utmost faith and confidence, if instead of being frightened they are conservative, and instead of gloomily anticipating immediate disaster they will perform a patriotic duty, and at the same time their own interests. The things that are just now needed are coolness and calmness in financial circles and study and reflection among our people."

Perhaps before the Cleveland administration ends we shall have an Indian state where the Indian Territory now is. A bill is before the Cherokee council, and it has been favorably reported, authorizing Chief Harris to appoint five commissioners to a conference which will consider the forming of one of the regular states of this Union from the Indian Territory. There are five civilized tribes in the territory—the Creeks, Cherokees, Choctaws, Chickasaws and Seminoles. It is proposed that each of these shall appoint five commissioners to meet at the conference and discuss the question of uniting under one state government. The United States government has made a proposition to the civilized tribes looking to this consummation.

Has the United States senate the moral right to negotiate a treaty of any kind with any foreign nation whatsoever and not let the whole American people know exactly what that treaty contains? In connection with the objections to the Russian treaty the senate has spent considerable time discussing how much of its contents they will reveal to the outside public and how much not. Let us have it all. Every American citizen is interested in knowing what the servant he has hired to do his lawmaking for him are about. Is this Russia, prussia and is the United States senate the czar?

It will be great fun for outsiders if at the next session of the senate the case of Senator Roach of North Dakota should be taken up for investigation. Democratic senators declare if it is thus taken up they will unearth every mean thing every Republican senator has done in his life and lay it before the public. Merely to get even of course the Republican senators would be compelled to take the same course with regard to Democrats, and between the two there would be a merry go round such as the country has not witnessed in years. We shall see who is afraid and who dares not.

We honor North Carolina above nearly every other state in this Union. She is a great and good state. The railroad commissioners of North Carolina have issued an order that baggage smashing on the roads of that state shall be stopped henceforth. So far as we can discover these gentlemen are the first railroad commissioners or railroad officials of any kind to take measures to prevent expressions and brakemen from playing baseball with passengers' trunks.

If you commit any crime short of murder, skip out of the country to some foreign land and go in for making money. Get loads of it, stay about five years, then voluntarily come back to your native land and surrender yourself for trial. That is the fashion now. You will get off easy—more, you will even be a hero for coming back and surrendering, and you so rich too.

If the missing Court dentist of Austria isn't soon found a royal toothache may precipitate a European war.

The Infanta has offended one American city. Baltimore is shocked because Eulalie does not like terrapin.

Hon. A. Bush, accompanied by his daughter Miss Sallie, started for the East yesterday, where he will remain several weeks. He was accompanied to Portland by his son A. N. Bush.—Sunday Salem Statesman.

The Minneapolis Humane Society met and took steps looking toward the suppression of the proposed cowboy race from Chadron, Neb., to the World's fair. A series of resolutions were adopted, protesting against the race and appealing for funds to aid in stopping it.

The St. Louis Republic demands that Mayor Walbridge of that city shave off his mustache. The Mayor, in this cruel war upon his hirsute adornment continues, might follow the example of the New York waters and strike. Can the injection of this novel issue into St. Louis politics be due to the removal of Colonel Jones and his whiskers from the editorial chair?

The Examiner issued June 4 a Columbian edition of 120 pages which exceeds by twenty pages any previous record in the way of a mammoth newspaper, either in the United States or elsewhere. This addition has been a year or more in course of preparation and in addition to the great quantity of information in relation to California and the Pacific coast at large, it contains contributions upon general subjects from a number of the best known men in America.

OMAHA, June 3.—This city received a dual visitation from the elements this evening. All day rain fell intermittently, the storm blowing from the southeast. Shortly before seven o'clock the city was submerged by one of the most disastrous floods ever experienced. The rain was accompanied by a heavy electrical display and high winds and in the midst of the flood came fire that entailed a loss of nearly $250,000 with the additional horror of four deaths and many persons injured.

MONTEAL, June 3.—At an early hour this morning three "crooks" crossed over from Vermont to Haundet on the Beach at Rideau and entered the house of a farmer named Eddy, a wealthy leading man in the locality. They first demanded all the money and valuables he possessed, then shot and killed him, cut the throats of his wife and daughter and then set fire to the house. Emma Eddy, the murdered daughter, was a beautiful young lady, aged 20 years and was soon to be married.

This community has been canvassed the past two weeks by a man who pretends to sell people the right to buy goods at wholesale. His story condemns itself on the face of it, people would stop and think. It is such men as this who fly high with "tin box" and "gold brick" facts, and the unlucky ones who sign papers for such men are liable to be informed at some future time that Mr. So-and-so holds a note for $500 more or less, bearing their signature and that payment is demanded at once. We are sorry to say this fakir succeeded in getting the usual number to bite; but a few who were treated to a like experience less than two years ago, concluded they could buy goods at wholesale or any other way without signing a paper for a stranger. Be ever on the lookout for such men.—Popgun.

At Decatur, Illinois, the mob which gathered on the arrival there of the negro captured near Sullivan, Ill., charged with outraging Mrs. Hubbill last Monday near Mount Zion, forced their way into the jail, took the ravisher out and lynched him. No resistance was made to the mob. Governor Algeid has determined to make an example of the lynchers at Decatur if possible. He issued a proclamation denouncing the lynching in the most vigorous language as a disgrace to civilization and a blot upon the fair name of the state. The governor calls upon all the officers of the law, especially of Macon county, as well as good citizens generally, to do all in their power to bring the perpetrators of the crime to justice. He offers a reward of $200 each for the apprehension and conviction of every man who helped break the doors of the jail and overpower the officers, and who assisted in killing the prisoner. The state's attorney said he would at once commence vigorous prosecution against those participating in the lynching.
