PLAN OF RELIEF.

ONE OF MANY SCHEMES SUGGESTED TO SECRETARY CARLISLE.

Money now in Use to be Redeemed and Treasury Notes Issued.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—The Star says: While members of congress and leaders in financial matters are discussing various plans by which the present situation can be relieved, the officials of the treasury department are quietly preparing the statistics and histories of financial transactions for the benefit of the administration to guide it in its own views of the vital subject. Several plans have been suggested to Secretary Carlisle. Among them is one which contemplates an entire change in the money system of the United States. In short, the plan is to pass a specie resumption act, redeeming the various forms of money now used in the country and issuing, instead, United States treasury notes, whose value shall always be fixed. There are at present nine different forms of money in circulation, and the fact of the wide difference between the value of gold and silver coins, while they are theoretically of a parity, is one of the causes which has suggested the plan proposed. The national banks during the past two months have increased their circulation nearly $7,000,000, an order for new circulation, to the amount of $2,277,000, having been received so far this month by Controller Eckels.

Cyclone in Iowa.

As the result of a cyclone which started at Quincy, Ia., and ended at Pomeroy, Ia., seventy-five people are now dead and over a hundred are injured. At Pomeroy 48 are dead and over a 105 blocks of residences are demolished. The storm did its work in literally one minute's time. Many of the victims were torn to pieces and so disfigured as to be unrecognizable.

Many dead were found long distances from their residences, and standing houses had boards driven through them by the force of the wind. Trees in the path of the storm were stripped even of the bark, and nothing escaped injury. Large rocks were torn from the ground and hurled long distances. The pipe of a deep-driven well which projected above ground only four feet was drawn completely out. It could hardly be accomplished by human means. Pomeroy was a thriving town of 1000 inhabitants. Governor Boies, after a personal examination of the ruin wrought by the storm, issued a proclamation to the people of Iowa calling for prompt and liberal aid.

One Dead, several Less.

John Sontag died at Fresno July 3rd. There were no last words, no family groupings about him, simply his old mother weeping at the head of his bed while his breath came shorter until the end. He was unconscious for hours before he died, and probably never knew the end was coming. Not that he cared much, because almost his last utterance was "Doctor, what is the use of patching me up to be hanged."

There seems to have been a good deal of sentimental blab published about the Sontags and Chris Evans. So far from being oppressed outcasts, driven from their homes by mercenary detectives, as they have tried to make the people believe, reliable evidence all goes to prove that they were desperadoes of the very worst kind. Each of them is known to have killed several men, and the desperate manner in which they resisted arrest shows that they had no regard whatever for human life. Sympathy for men of that stamp is absolutely wasted.

Heroic Marines.

LONDON, July 6.—Major Smith, commander of the marines aboard the war ship Victoria at the time of the disaster off Tripoli, has written to the colonel in command of the marines at Gosport, concerning the behavior of his men. The non-commissioned officers and men behaved splendidly. Words will not express all they did. They fell in by watches on the quarter deck as steadily as on parade without the speaking of a word of caution, until the end came. It was a sight one can never forget, so grand, so sad. Their behavior may have been equalled, it was never beaten.

Lumbering on the Klamath.

Nearly anybody would be surprised at the amount of work which is being done at the Klamath City Lumber Co's logging camp below Shovel creek, Cal. Everything is done in an expeditious manner and on the most improved plan. A railroad track extends back from the river for a distance of about four miles into the midst of the forest. The trees are cut on each side of the track for some distance, and the logs conveyed to the track with log wagons and then rolled onto the cars by horse-power. From 70,000 to 80,000 feet of logs are dumped into the Klamath river every day, the engine making five and six trips daily. The chute that carries the logs into the river is about one half-mile long and very steep, so that they are carried over that distance in six seconds. From there the river carries them to the mill, which has all of the latest appliances.—Jacksonville Times.

British Sealing Orders.

LONDON, July 8.—The Official Gazette publishes an order in council, dated July 4, prohibiting British ships from sealing within ten marine miles of the Russian coast in Behring sea or the North Pacific ocean, and within thirty miles in any direction from the Komanzoff islands.

German Army Bill.

The German Army bill which threatens to cause serious trouble between the Emperor and the people was drawn by Gen. Verdu du Vernois and as first framed demanded an immediate addition of 90,000 men to the standing army. Emperor William was heartily in favor of the measure and took every means of promoting the passage of the law, but the Reichstag would not pass it. Von Huene suggested that the bill be changed so as to add 50,000 men at once and gradually increase the number to 70,000. This suggestion has practically been accepted by the government in its new bill. The new system, when fully developed, will give Germany in time of war a trained army of 4,400,000 men.

A Live Western Boy.

The teacher of a school in a Western town, had occasion to rebuke one of his pupils, little Tommy Roundup, for laziness and neglecting to learn his lessons. He said to Tommy:

"If you don't learn your lessons better I'll call on your mother and tell her what sort of a boy you are."

"I wish you would try it, Professor."

"You do?"

"Yes," pa is awfully j-alous. He is laying with a shotgun right now for a man who called on ma. I'll tell him what you said about calling to see ma, and I reckon you had better go and buy a lot in the cemetery, for paw is awful on the shoot."

Tommy had not yet told his pa, and he says he is not going to say a word about the matter as long as the professor lets him do as he pleases in school and gives him a quarter every Saturday afternoon for candy.

Word comes to us from Docewallips of the use a young lady puts a visiting young man to recently. The lady lives several miles up the Docewallips river, and had been to Macumber's store to lay in a supply of groceries. The visiting young man met the young lady at the store, and asked the pleasure of seeing her home. The lady graciously consented, saying she had a few articles she would trouble him to carry. When the goods were produced, they proved to weigh something like 100 pounds—consisting of a ham, canned goods and a general assortment of groceries. The young man, however, undertook the amusing task, and the spectators tell us it was amusing to see the young fellow struggling up the steep trail, doing pack-animal service, while the girl chatted as unconcernedly as in a drawing-room. The names are withheld out of respect to the young man's brothers. The victim does not live 20 miles from Quilcene.—Quilcene Queen.

A Douglas county man, a short time ago, charged a neighbor with stealing a hog valued at $8. The prosecution cost the county $800, of which the loser of the hog got $100 in witness fees and mileage. The accused went free. The next time a man in that county loses a hog it would pay the county well to give the owner another hog, or the price of it.

"I Want to Know."

She came from 'way down east, they say,
And, being introduced, she led
Me there to recapitulate
The city's phases up to date.
And when my full directory
I had retailed, she said to me
"I want to know!"

I told her everything I knew
That worthy was of interview;
Retailled to her each shopping mart,
The homes of drama, music, art,
The drives, menageries and parks;
Described with eloquent remarks
The watering places round about,
Enthused over each excursion route,
Talked till, in fact, my tongue grew weary
"I want to know!"

Angels of mercy. Had I then
Obeyed the imp wise born of men,
And with warm mal edictions hurled
That spinster to the lower world
From open window where I sat,
Would not the gods approved of that?
"I want to know!"

Strange and Important Happenings in Condensed form.

After a bloodless revolution Greece has declared itself a Republic.

The cold storage warehouse at the World's Fair took fire Monday and was totally destroyed. About forty men were burned to death.

The Astoria Evening Examiner which has been run for the last three years by George Hibbert, a press veteran of the coast, suspended publication last week on account of dull time.

Four thousand two hundred and sixty-four more fourth-class postmasters were appointed on removals during the first four months of the last administration than during the corresponding period in this.

"Hero" Richardson, who attempted to wreck the train near Yoncolla several months ago, and then passed himself off for a hero and stopped the approaching train, was sentenced Monday to eight years in the penitentiary.

Judge Burnett has made a ruling in court, at Salem, that the "Soldier's Home," authorized by the last legislature, shall be located at Salem. It was the intention of the State board to locate the Home at Rossburg. The matter will be referred to the supreme court.

Attorney Gen. Olney advised the secretary of war today that he has authority under the law to obtain lands at Gettysburg, Pa., by condemnation proceedings in sufficient quantity to carry out the proposition for the marking and preservation of fields of battle. This is a severe blow for the trolley railroad now being constructed on the battle field.

In Oregon the new road law lies dormant. In Washington a somewhat similar law does not find favor with the farmers when it comes down to a plain proposition of dollars and cents. Laws will not build roads. Work of that kind requires money. We will have good roads when the farmers have become educated as to their value and not before. Until then the farmer will hibernate in winter as of yore, and "times" will be "dull"—Oregonian.

William Scott Tuesday morning left the Oregon penitentiary a free man. He was fastened within those walls on the 9th day of July, 1890, under sentence of ten years for manslaughter, having been convicted of the crime in Yamhill county. Governor Penney signed his pardon Monday afternoon and at a quarter of 11 o'clock Tuesday morning the old man was set free. Scott was sentenced for the murder of his wife and there has always been doubt of his guilt.

A lady customer called at a store in Sherman county the other day with a view to purchasing a pair of overalls for her husband. The obliging salesman proceeded to show the lady several styles of overalls, dwelling meantime on the good quality and makeup of the goods. In his exuberant overflow of words he said: "Madam, here is a pair you can wear over your pants, and they will not look unbecoming if you wear them without pants." The lady assured him that her husband wore the breeches whereupon he became unconscious.

Under the new law which went into effect at midnight, on July 1st, South Carolina took charge of the whiskey business within its borders. Dispensaries will be opened in 19 of the 34 counties. Barrooms will be opened in some of them without the legal formality required of the indorsement by a majority of the voters, and suits against the state will result. All day yesterday saloon-keepers were selling stocks at auction, and citizens were providing themselves with wet goods in anticipation of a dry time. A large proportion of citizens bought six months' stock. "Blind pigs" are expected to open in many places.

BRUSSELS, July 6.—Advices received from the Congo Free State report two victories over the Arab slave-traders. The Arabs recently attacked the forces of the state stationed at Stanley, but were repulsed with heavy loss. The troops pursued the Arabs for some distance. The latter fled in such disorder that they carried little with them but their guns. One hundred and twenty barrels of gun powder and a quantity of other munitions of war fell into the hands of the soldiers. The expedition of the Belgian anti-slavery Society, operating in East Africa under the command of Captain Jacques, also reports an engagement with the slave-traders, in which the latter were put to rout. M. Beernaert, ti- prime minister, read the news of the Belgian victory in the chamber of deputies today, and it was received with great enthusiasm.
