

BREVITIES.

County court was in session yesterday. The Augusta is expected to leave Portland Saturday.

The steamer Truckee is expected in the bay about Tuesday.

Call in and see the large stock at the Acme Hardware store.

Dr. Petre has returned from the beach, and is now ready to attend to calls.

The bridge over Trask river was repaired this week and is now in good condition.

The steamer Harrison is at the Willamette Iron works having new machinery put in.

Lots of dress goods, trimmings, buttons, etc., latest styles, at Truckee store, Hobsonville.

The steamer Augusta went out Saturday with a cargo of cedar lumber for Cohn & Company.

Parties traveling on the Wilson river road will find good accommodations at Walt Smith's, the half-way house.

The dance in Hadley's new building Saturday night was well attended and everybody seemed to enjoy themselves.

Our offer to give away with every dozen Cabinets one life size crayon is extended until further notice at Heins Art studio.

Ed. Morgan and Will Kusnel, of Portland, and Fred Burton, of Tillamook, went out to the rocks at Netarts in a small boat and killed a number of sea-lions.

Haying is well advanced and farmers report a good crop. The fine weather of the past few weeks has enabled them to house it in excellent condition.

A large number of claims in township 18, 7, w, which was thrown open for filing Monday were filed in the county clerk's office. The township contains some valuable timber land.

Rigs are engaged to bring a party of thirty Portlanders from Forest Grove to the coast next week. Evidently the attractions of Tillamook county are becoming known to the world.

Mr. Oakes showed us a door at Bro. Willey's residence which he has grained in an elegant manner. Several kinds of oak and maple are imitated and altogether it is a fine piece of work.

A crew of 28 men are now at work on the Dry Stocking bar improvements. The piling are all driven and the work of putting in brush and rock is being carried on as rapidly as possible.

A strong effort is being made among the business men here to have the mail schedule changed so that the mail will leave Tillamook in the evening and reach North Yamhill in time for the evening train to Portland.

About three weeks ago a ten-year-old son of L. D. Ackley was kicked by a horse and the injury was so severe that amputation became necessary. Drs. W. J. May and T. H. McEneide, of this city performed the operation being assisted by Mr. Williams, the druggist.

The steamer Elmore arrived at Dry Stocking bar yesterday at about 2:20 P. M. and the Captain and Chief with the passengers came to the city on foot as a raft of piling has been tied to the jetty and obstructed the channel so that the Elmore could not be brought up until late in the evening.

The camp meeting will commence this evening near the residence of Bro. Willey. The tent will hold about four hundred people. Prof. Beers of Seattle, Rev. Smalley, who has been here last winter, and Rev. Good, father of Mr. Good who preached at the revival a short time ago, will conduct the meetings which will be continued about two weeks.

A large assortment of job stock was received at this office on the steamer Elmore this week, including new styles of letter heads, cards, wedding announcements, etc. We can furnish any kind of job printing at reasonable rates and on short notice, as we have special facilities for doing first class work. A full line of samples can be seen at this office.

The Oregonian has issued a neat souvenir to mark the completion of its new home. The pamphlet contains a very interesting history of the Oregonian and its growth, and has some beautiful illustrations of Portland and surrounding country, and portraits of the founders, Henry L. Pitcock, and T. J. Dryer, and the well-known editor-in-chief, H. W. Scott. It is a fine specimen of the perfection of the printer's art.

The Forest Grove stage came in Tuesday evening over the Wilson river road with five passengers. They report passing 18 teams on the road headed this way. On the return trip Wednesday there were three passengers. After this time the stage will run from Forest Grove every Tuesday and Friday, and leave Tillamook Wednesday and Saturday, making the trip through in one day. The stage starts from the livery stable at 6 A. M.

In the course of the blasting operations at Memaloose point it was found that the rock contained an immense number of fossils of clams and other shell-fish. The clams are different from the species now obtained in the bay. The rock in which they are found is a sedimentary deposit, though it shows evidences of an upheaval and the fossils can be found 30 or 40 feet above the water, which is as high as the exposed face of the rock reaches.

The continued dry weather has made the conditions unusually favorable for timber fires. Several small fires have been burning for the past few days, within a few miles of town, and campers, hunters and fishermen should be extremely careful about leaving any fire where there is the least possibility of its spreading. We publish the law in regard to setting fire on another page, but fear of the law should not be the motive for using caution in this matter. The present and future prospects of this section of the country are directly dependent upon the forests, and the loss consequent upon a destructive forest fire would press heavily on the whole community.

B. C. Lamb has opened his new store, and now has one of the neatest stores in town. He has a fine stock of candies most temptingly arranged and his stock of books and papers contains all the latest and standard works. The store is built and finished throughout with Tillamook lumber, the doors being made of cedar that was cut on the Harris place and shipped out to Portland by Cohn & Co. The tops of the counters would be considered remarkable in any place but this land of big timber, and are beautiful specimens of cedar. In fixing up his store Mr. Lamb has shown excellent taste and enterprise and the habitues of his establishment will find no cause for criticism.

Mr. Claude Thayer has received from California parties a long list of inquiries as to the population and wealth of the county, its shipments, the number of mills, its bars, depth of water, etc. The information is asked for in furtherance, the letter states, of a proposed coast railroad to be built from San Francisco along the whole coast line. Among the questions it was asked what were the altitudes of grades, whether the terminal facilities would be supplied together with rights of

Our Summer Resorts.

Nearly all the newspapers in neighboring counties make mention of parties who are visiting or have just returned from the coast resorts of this county, and in every instance the people are well pleased with their trip and the cordial manner in which they have been treated. We are glad of this and hope they will come again. No county on the coast or in any part of the country is more bountifully blessed with natural resources necessary for an ideal summer resort. We have every variety of country, from level ocean beach to the most inaccessible mountains, beautiful grass covered prairies and dense forests.

The numerous streams are full of trout that furnish sport for the angler and delicious eating for even the most fastidious epicure. The stories of big strings of fish being caught are no fabrications but solid facts, and no lover of sport will regret a trip to the trout streams of Tillamook. For hunters there is plenty of game, large or small, from bear and elk to partridges and wild pigeons. A lover of nature will find abundance of wonderful and beautiful scenery to dream about and will be amply repaid for the journey over the mountains or round the coast. At Netarts can be found numberless varieties of sea-moss, sea-urchins, anemones, star-fish and other wonderful specimens of marine life that are rarely seen at points accessible to the general public. It is doubtful if there is a place on the Pacific coast that can boast of such a wealth of marine curiosities. Sea-lions bask on the rocks all day and keep up a roaring that can be heard above the thunder of the breakers. A short distance from Netarts is Cape Meares light house which in itself is worthy of a visit to the coast. Nestucca, Woods and Garibaldi are also fine places to spend a few weeks in the summer and parties who wish to recuperate their health or secure rest from the rush of business can find no better place than the sea-side resorts of Tillamook.

Our New Buildings.

Work is progressing rapidly on the new buildings. C. B. Hadley will have the saloon building ready for occupation Monday. The building is longer than the former one but is only one story high. Mr. Herman Gessner, of Beaver, is doing the inside decorating.

A. L. Alderman's new Occidental Hotel will be one of the ornaments of the city. It is modelled on the plan of the Winfield House at Bay City and will soon be ready to move into.

The Larsen House will be a three story building and work on it is advanced as far as the roofing. The house will have 44 bedrooms and every precaution is taken to provide safe exit in case of fire.

The lumber used in the new buildings was all obtained in the immediate vicinity of Tillamook, and the logs for a great part of it were cut in lengths to suit the plans of the buildings, thus saving considerable lumber and labor. The stud-lining for the Larsen House were cut 35 feet long reaching from the sills to the cornice, and attracted much attention while being put into position.

The Tillamook Lumbering Co. are running their mill full time to furnish lumber for the new buildings, and the planer is kept at work till midnight.

E. K. Barnard and wife left for the East, Tuesday. They will visit the World's Fair and spend a few weeks at their old home in Wisconsin.

Exchange Notes.

[Astorian.] The last number of the Tillamook HEADLIGHT appears under a new management, and neatly printed on cream book paper. W. F. D. Jones has retired having sold his interest to Thomas Coates, a gentleman of considerable newspaper experience. The new proprietor promises to maintain the well-established reputation of the HEADLIGHT, and in this he has the best wishes of the Astorian.

Dick Sales, the popular mail carrier between Seaside and Nehalem, has received a new contract for one year, the old contract having expired several weeks ago. This news will be well received by the people living along the mail route, as Mr. Sales is considered one of the most efficient carriers ever employed in that district.

The largest shipment of butter that ever came from Tillamook was brought to this city on the Elmore on the occasion of her last trip. The consignment amounted to four and a half tons, and accompanying it was half a ton of cheese. The industrious farmers of Tillamook county are developing their portion of the state rapidly and are building up a large trade with this city and Portland. Beef is also coming to this city in considerable quantities, and the Elmore is falling in for a hands-me proportion of the business, the owners having made special tariff rates for the benefit of Tillamook people.

[Yamhill County Reporter.] Work is still progressing on the new toll road. It is not as near completion as was a month or two ago, but it is thought a month or six weeks will see the road open to travel clear through to the coast.

Crenshaw, the mail contractor on the North Yamhill and Tillamook routes, has thrown up the j-baud notified Postmaster Gist to that effect. The postmaster acted promptly in the emergency, and quite to his credit, so that not a trip was missed. Phil Moser now has the job.

The biggest coasting party of the season will leave McMinnville for Netarts bay next Monday. The party is so large and jolly that all who hear of it are wishing they might go along. The following parties are going, and may be joined by others: Dr. Calbreath and family, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Rogers, Miss Josie Gortner, Miss Mattie Fink, Prof. and Mrs. J. A. Buchanan, Mr. and Mrs. John Fletcher, J. O. Rogers, Henry Bettman, and Chas. Nelson. Their stay will probably extend over a couple of weeks. The best fisherman in the party is probably Jimmy Rogers, though unlike most adepts of the rod and line, he never says much about it; he usually fishes behind the rest of the party, and when he catches a good string he will say to some friend with instructions to claim it for his own, and he finds his satisfaction in the surprise and wonder thus occasioned. There are few more self-sacrificing fishermen, and it Jimmy were disposed to boast of his achievements, Mr. Magers and other local experts would probably be forced to keep silent on the subject.

The new road is within three miles of the Big Nestucca river. When it reaches there it will be clear sailing to the coast. L. H. Cook found the skull of an extinct animal while digging a trench at Netarts. It has horns and they come from the cheek instead of the natural place for them. He will send it out to this city by the next stage.

Rogers, Hobbs, Redmond and Martin returned from Beaver creek and the "Truthful James" of the party, J. L. Rogers, reports a catch of 202 for the crowd. They were all large ones, 15 of them filling a fish basket. Flint Martin caught the largest fish, it measured 18 1/4 inches. John Hobbs has lost prestige amongst fishermen, as he used fish eyes and Cadus flies all the time, catching the greatest number of fish however. The other fellows claim that they were the smallest of the catch.

Seven counties have paid all the state taxes they owe and stand square on the state treasurer's books. These are Columbia, Coos, Josephine, Marion, Morrow, Wallowa and Yamhill. The other counties of the state have paid more or less of the amount due the state, some of them having only small balances yet to remit. Clackamas county which made up its levy before the state board determined the amount of the state levy, and allowed only five mills on the dollar, while it should have been seven mills, has paid up all it owes for this year, leaving its county fund about $10,000 short, but some $4000 back on last year's tax still stands against that county. That is on the dispute about the legality of raising the mortgage valuation and it will be determined by the suit with Multnomah county for that purpose.

Last Thursday the family of Rev. C. U. Cross left Dallas for Clackamas county to remain with the parents of Mrs. Cross until after the meeting of the conference.

The Bill Nye of Tillamook county, W. F. D. Jones, has sold the Tillamook HEADLIGHT to Tom Coates. The HEADLIGHT has been a good, clean, newsy paper while Wintergreen Fredrick Darnation run it, and Tom starts out on the same line if he can't throw off his Coat (s).

Messrs. J. C. Hayter and J. S. Daly went fishing down the creek, Sunday; and when they went to return home, found the horse has broken his halter, decamped and left them to go home as best they could. A walk of three miles gave them a good appetite, the Judge says, the buggy was sent for and the next morning the horse was found a mile or so away enjoying himself.

The Tillamook HEADLIGHT has been sold to Tom Coates. We hear that Bro. Jones has been engaged to write humorous articles for the San Francisco Examiner. Here's look to Jones and success to Coates.

The first sea serpent of the season was seen near Woods, on the Tillamook coast last week. As usual it had a long green mane and fiery red eyes. It charged up the beach with the evident intention of nabbing a ten year old boy from Sheridan who was digging clams. The horrified boy mechanically lighted a cigarette and awaited death. It came not. The serpent got a whiff of the cigarette, and immediately desisted from its horrible purpose and as it slowly dragged its Fairbank scales seaward, it was plain to be seen that the cigarette had been too much for it.

The new road over the coast range from McMinnville to Tillamook, we are informed, will be open for travel on Saturday.

Ira A. Phelps, publisher and proprietor of the North Yamhill Leader, has leased his press and type to the proprietor of the Hillsboro Democrat, who lately lost all his printing material by fire. The Leader material has been taken to Hillsboro to be used in the publication of the Democrat. Mr. Phelps goes to Portland. Two Yamhill county papers have turned up their toes within two months, and are no more. The Dayton News and Yamhill Ledger.
