The Wilson act repealing the silver purchase clause of the Sherman act passed the house Monday by a vote of 239 to 110 against it.

The third trial of M. E. Curtis, for the murder of police officer Grant ended in his acquittal August 25 in San Francisco. The verdict was somewhat of a surprise.

An ice house was burned in Truckee last month, and 8,000 tons of ice burned up. It is supposed that a customer inadvertently dropped a cigarette on a cake of ice. This illustrates the great danger of cigarette smoking.

The highest daily or weekly yield of butter yet reported from the contest at the World's Fair, that we have noticed, is credited to the Wisconsin bred Jersey cow, Brown Bessie. For the week ending August 3rd her yield was 18.11 pounds and for one day (July 30) she passed the three pound notch.

Ground has been broken for the Mid Winter Fair in San Francisco and at present the prospects are good for a very successful exhibition. As it is primarily a Pacific Coast undertaking no effort should be spared to make it a success.

Many towns in Oregon are preparing to send exhibits and it would be a good opportunity to show to the world what resources we have in Tillamook.

The efforts of local societies, whether religious or secular, to furnish healthy amusements or recreation should be encouraged. If entered into it with the right spirit nothing tends more to foster that friendship and general good feeling which is the sure foundation of a prosperous community, and with proper care in preparation there is no reason why enjoyable entertainments should not be given by our local talent.

A meeting was held in Saratoga, Cal., to consider the question of employing white labor in lieu of Asiatic. A committee reported that there were over 200 white men in San Jose willing to work, and that all the orchardists as yet seen were willing to give employment to whites.

One orchardist, near Saratoga, is said to have been annoyed by tramps, but since the officers have segregated the laborers and tramps a decided change of feeling has taken place, and there is now a great demand for white laborers at $1 a day and board. A labor bureau has been established and the total number registered up to August 24 was over 800, but a large number of these have found employment since the book was opened.

A Persian poet gives the following instructions upon this important subject: "When thou art married seek to please thy wife, but do not listen to all she says. From man's right side a rib was taken to form woman, and never was there seen a rib quite straight. And wouldst thou straighten it? It breaks, but bends not. Since, then 'tis plain that crooked is woman's temper, forgive her faults and blame her not; nor let her anger thee nor coercion use, as all is in vain to straighten what is curved." —Journalist.

A petition is circulated among the business men asking the city council to tax the city to the amount of $700 to buy a fire engine. An engine has been examined by a representative of the fire company and pronounced as suitable for the requirements of the place. Whether this particular engine be bought or not, the city should be willing to stand the expense of the appliances which the Hook and Ladder Company use to extinguish fires. The amount asked for is not more than one year's interest on the loss in the late fire, and lower insurance rates would result if better fire protection were secured.

When the bill for a second term of circuit court failed to pass the legislature last winter the people of this county laid the responsibility on Judge Burnett who was reported to have authorized the statement in the case that no second term was needed, but if it was needed he would hold a special term. Judge Burnett emphatically denies having authorized this statement and it is only just to him to say that his wishes in this matter appear to coincide with those of the people. When he offered to appoint an extra term the county court decided that it was not wanted, their explanation being that it would come so close to the regular term that the convenience would not justify the extra expense. It is to be hoped that before the next legislature meets this matter will be settled so there will be no misunderstanding.

The number and importance of cases on the docket ought to impress those concerned with the fact that Tillamook county needs two terms of circuit court in a year. The journey over the mountains may not be a pleasant one in the winter, and the lawyers who come from the valley may not have such an enjoyable time fishing and camping as they have at the August term, but it would certainly save the county a great deal of expense and would prevent in a measure such cases of gross injustice as have occurred during the past year. That a person should be confined nearly a year awaiting trial is an outrage inexcusable even in a place so difficult of access as Tillamook and in several civil actions money and property have been tied up unnecessarily, causing annoying complications. The sentiments of the people ought to be expressed so as to leave no doubt as to their wishes in the matter.

TILLAMOOK.

Great surprise is expressed by all new-comers to Tillamook at the amount of open prairie land that lies around our city. They have almost invariably expected to find Tillamook City at the foot of the mountains and close to the ocean instead of being five miles from the mountains, and practically twice that distance from the ocean. Instead of finding a city with rough hilly streets, blockaded with stumps and logs as is the case in the majority of the towns on the coast, they find a city located on as nice a prairie as can be found in Illinois, with level, graveled street, electric lights and such a general air of cleanliness and prosperity that they cannot refrain from expressing their astonishment. All this works for the benefit of the city. Large tracts of open land stretch south from Tillamook city of which every acre is capable of supporting a cow the year round, and establishment of creameries brings assurance that at no distant date Tillamook will have a first-class reputation as a dairy country. With such agricultural resources together with the immense tracts of timber land that are tributary to Tillamook there ought to be no room for doubt as to its future prosperity.

FOREST FIRES.

For several weeks small timber fires have been burning in the mountains in this county. The origin of these fires is attributed to campers who are too careless to quench their camp-fires before leaving. In the past immense damage resulted from this carelessness, and the long dry season that we have had this summer has made the danger greater than for many years. In other parts of the state the same conditions exist and for several weeks the newspapers have been publishing the state laws in regard to setting fires. These laws were published in the HEADLIGHT several weeks ago and are very severe. Last week Gov. Penney issued a proclamation calling attention to them, and urging that every effort should be made for their enforcement. The interests of the state and of this county are so dependent on their timber resources that the importance of avoiding loss by fires should be appreciated by every one of our citizens, though many people take no notice of a forest fire even if it destroys several thousand dollars worth of standing timber, but if the fire happens to burn a cabin that can be rebuilt at a cost of a few days labor they make a great ado about it, and only then do they think of invoking the law to punish offenders. The location of a forest fire is generally so remote from habitations that if it were not for the smoke that spreads over the county few people would know of its existence, and, as it is, hardly anyone except those who have timber claims or homesteads give it a second thought. Herein lies one of the greatest obstacles to the enforcement of the laws, and it seems that until the fires cause such damage as to directly affect everyone in the community very little effort will be made to bring to justice those who wilfully place in jeopardy the timber of which Oregon is so justly proud.

GRIEF HUGS A "TINHORN"

A worthless "tin-horn gambler of Pendleton" came to grief" this week, and grief will probably stay with him during the rest of his natural life. His name is Dolben, and he approached Madame Grief carelessly twirling a six-shooter in the parlor where sat a company of "soiled doves." The pistol fell from the grasp of the drunken gambler and went off, and one of the "doves" went fluttering to the Evergreen shore. Now grief is fondly clasping the "tin-horn" and making the jail keys and padlocks rattle with her heap powerful hugs. According to Oregon law he is probably doomed to life imprisonment. —Klamath Star.
