J. E. Howard, the Drystocking contractor lost his house and store near Post land by fire last week.

Mrs. Bodle offers her property in Tillamook for sale for $450 on easy terms. This is a good investment.

We will pay the very highest market price at Frisco Store for county orders, either cash or in trade.

The tug Roebarts, of Yaquina came in the bay Friday from Siuslaw with a boiler for the Elmore cannery at Garibaldi.

Last night a mink got amongst Mr. Hank Sampson's chickens on the beach and killed the whole flock of 37 fine bred birds.

County court meets next Monday and will have a busy session. All bills must be presented to the clerk before court meets.

The Truckee hove to for about an hour after she got over the bar Sunday, and it is supposed she met with a slight accident.

The South Coast sailed for San Francisco Sunday with a cargo of lumber from the California, Oregon Co. Co.'s mill at Bay City.

The case Newton & Ross vs. the California Co., decided by the circuit court in favor of plaintiff, has been appealed to the supreme court.

Prof. Oakes found his purse in his pocket so the good people of Tillamook are relieved of the necessity of looking under the beds for burglars.

PORTLAND MARKET.—Potatoes 55 to 80 cents per sack.—Butter, 30 to 35 per roll for brine.—Choice dairy, 45 to 50 cents per roll.—Oats 34 to 35 cents.

Pending a vote in the senate silver dollars will be taken at par at this office. From present indications the senate will not come to a vote before Gabriel is his tongue.

The Clatsop Mill Company's box factory dry house and 8000 feet of season 1 lumber were burned at Astoria Friday morning causing a loss of $30,000, with $3000 insurance.

J. H. Townes and Mrs. Mary Hiatt were married at the Allen House Sunday by Judge Maubley. After the wedding the guests partook of a supper gotten up in Mr. Allen's best style.

There was an excellent run of salmon at Nehalem Friday night and it is reported that the low boat caught 50 fish. The fishermen are looking for a run in Tillamook bay this week.

The mail did not arrive till nearly eight o'clock last evening having been delayed by a tree which had fallen across the road in such a manner that they had to cut it out in order to get past.

A crew of about forty men is at work on the lighthouse road. The right of way has been brushed off and the logs cleared out. The work of grading and putting in bridges will now be commenced.

The date printed opposite your name on the margin of your paper or on the wrapper indicates when your subscription expires. Subscribers will confer a favor by renewing as soon as possible after the time expires.

The Harrison came in Thursday afternoon with a large cargo of freight and some passengers. She unloaded her Tillamook freight and took on a load for Nestucca for which place she sailed Monday morning.

About the only weakness that Senator Hill shares with common humanity is his fondness for baseball. Mr. Gorman is also a crank, and the two Senators may be seen at nearly every game played on the Washington grounds.

Mr. Frank Brown has returned from his Eastern trip. Most of the business which called him east was at St. Paul so that he only spent a few days at Chicago. He enjoyed his trip immensely however, but was glad to return to Tillamook once more.

The salmon are now running a little better in the bay, as silversides have begun to come in. The Elmore cannery now has twenty-five boats fishing and the average catch is about 25 to a boat. It is expected the run will improve after this rough weather.

Every time we have a rain there are several places in the main street where the water lodges and forms regular frog ponds. A few loads of gravel at the present time would fix them effectually, whereas if they are not filled up they will be veritable mire-holes before spring.

Mr. Harry Craue and Miss Essie Wilkes were married Saturday. Mr. Craue is a prosperous young farmer having a ranch on Miami Creek and is well respected in the community. The bride is a daughter of Mr. Wilkes of Miami and has many friends who wish the couple prosperity.

Frank Siddall, the Philadelphia soap man, is credited with saying: "I have confined my advertising entirely to the newspapers. The man who does not read newspapers does not use soap." This is the opinion of one successful business man, who has proven the benefits of judicious newspaper advertising.

The steamer Elmore arrived in Thursday afternoon with a cargo of freight and passengers. She went to Garibaldi Friday and passed out Sunday morning, going into Nehalem and out again on the tide. She took a load of salmon from the Kinney cannery at Nehalem and also a large shipment of butter from E. G. E. Wist's store.

The Farnham theatre at Omaha was destroyed by fire Monday causing a loss of $20,000. Many persons were injured by a falling wall. The firemen were much hampered by the numerous wires outside the building and while the fire was in progress five alarms were sent in from different parts of the city, calling off a number of the force.

As no word had been received from the Coopers Co. San Francisco office the loggers and others having claims against the company filed liens to the amount of $4000 yesterday. The men are holding off as long as they possibly can. All regret having to crowd the company in its payments, and hope the matter can be settled without closing down the mill.

The Gulf of Mexico was struck by a dreadful storm Monday which destroyed an immense amount of property and caused a loss of many lives. The water was forced in from the Gulf so that in Mobile it raised to 15 feet above the normal level of the river. The railroads near New Orleans were washed out in many places and telegraph lines broken down.

Johnny Gabrielson who was mate on the sealing schooner Lewis Olsen is in the city and is, for the present, acting as Captain of the steamer Garfield. The last trip of the Lewis Olsen was full of adventure, having experienced a boiler explosion while in mid-ocean, a capture by a Russian cruiser and other adventures, which will furnish an interesting article in our next issue.

After considerable trouble, I have secured the exclusive right of handling "The Celebrated Pride of Japan Tea" imported direct from Koba, Japan. This is a pure Japan tea and every package guaranteed to suit the purchaser or money refunded. Sold only at the "Racket Store," Tillamook City, Oregon, by C. W. Smith. Price 50 cents per pound. Try a package and be convinced.

If it were not for a few enterprising business men who have placed incandescent lights in front of their stores the streets of the city would be in total darkness at night and people whose homes are away from the main street have to carry lanterns or run the risk of breaking a lamp by inadvertently stepping off the sidewalks. It will be a good thing for the city when the council decides to have the arc lights again in operation.

A character in Hazelton is "Jack" Mc Carthy, where he runs the daily paper. His advertising methods are original, as well as effective. He was anxious to get business from a firm that advertised in his field, and wrote, soliciting an order for his paper. The reply came "Where does your paper go?" With promptness "Jack" answered, "To North and South America, Europe, Asia and Africa; and it is all I can do to keep it from going to hell." He got the contract.—Ex.

The board of equalization met at the court house to conduct their usual labors. The assessment this year is a little higher on real property and much lower on cattle and stock of all kinds. There were very few objections made to the assessment only two or three changes were made. In addition to the general assessment the assessor has made out a military list. This contains some 550 names and includes all men subject to military duty and the precinct they live in.

Charles A. Desmond and Miss Ruth Benton were married by Recorder Drew at the residence of Ed Olds in this city Tuesday. The bridegroom is a son of Mr. Desmond of Netarts. The bride has been teaching school for some time and is a very popular young lady, having proved herself a good school teacher and worthy of the trust which the directors of the district bestowed upon her. Charley is well respected throughout the community, being steady and reliable and one of the most promising young farmers in the county. The newly wedded couple will reside on the ranch at Netarts and the neighbors and numerous friends join in wishing them a happy and prosperous journey through life.

The following were among the guests registered at The Alderman during the past week: Con Desmond, Netarts; F. R. Madison, M. D., Bay City; V. B. Bromley, Bay City; J. McAllister, Portland; Andrew Petree, Portland; J. Barker, Portland; J. H. Dunstan, Netarts; Maurice Leach, Bay City; Peter Ducham, Bay City; Wm. Bradford, Nestucca; S. B. Hill, Carabon; E. E. Page, Racine, Wis.; Geo. W. Kiger, Bay City; J. H. Bridgeford, Bay City; John Hickey, Folley; L. Parrish, Miami; Nicholas Job, North Yamhill; Thos. McNamara, North Yamhill; Wesley Day, Bay City; H. H. Ober, Clatsop; Henry Told, Nehalem; B. Higginbotham, Nehalem; Harter, Bay City; Capt. Jackson, Netarts; Senator Maxwell, Netarts; D. Stillwell, Post Oxford; W. R. Conner, Bay City; B. McDermott, Bay City.

North Yamhill.
The inhabitants of North Yamhill still seem determined to do all they can to stop people from coming to Tillamook. If they cultivated hops and fruit trees as diligently as they disparage Tillamook they would get rich. None of them ever in Tillamook, they never had ambition enough even to look at the summit of the mountains, to say nothing of trying to cross them, and they imagine any one who does climb up out of their limited range of vision is lost to the world. Well, he probably is to the North Yamhillers' world for an ordinary person shrinks from ever stopping in North Yamhill more than one night.

When a stranger goes to that hole in the ground and mentions that he is coming to Tillamook the whole population joins in telling what a terrible place Tillamook is, and the very thought of a place worse than North Yamhill is enough to give a man the jim-jams. Their latest exploit in this line was to turn back two families, eleven persons in all, who had come from Illinois and instead of going to Forest Grove or Astoria had innocently been duped into going to North Yamhill. There were too many in the party to come on the sage and they could not find any one who would bring them over unless they first bought him a life insurance policy and gave him the price of the team and wagon in advance.

This was more than they had bargained for so they started back to Illinois. The only excuse North Yamhill has for existing at all is to harass people coming to Tillamook, and the only time they open their eyes wide enough to see out of them is when the Tillamook stage comes in and then they are surprised into it. It seems as if they never will get over being surprised that any one should survive a journey to this side of the mountains. In another year, however, travelers will not have to go through North Yamhill but will come and go via Forest Grove where the people don't need a boy to ring a bell to inform the people when the sun shines. Then the North Yamhillers can hibernate in peace.

One on Binger.

Some people say "ke-neen" for quinine. Some people do not. This is the point of conversation which Senator Mitchell of Oregon held recently with Representative Binger Hermann of that state. Mr. Hermann was educated in Maryland, but he went to Oregon when he was quite a young man. Mr. Mitchell was educated in Pennsylvania and he remained there long enough to study law. Now, out in Oregon such choice etymological morsels as Tillamook and Wallowa and Kuldi and Scapoose are daily diet. Mr. Hermann doesn't have to ask anybody how to pronounce them. But since Mr. Hermann went into the West a good many words that were doubtless familiar to him in his youth have become Anglicized or Gallicized or in some other way altered.

A few days ago Mr. Hermann was complaining of feeling unwell. When the average Washingtonian has "that tired feeling" he always thinks that he has malaria. Mr. Hermann was quite sure that he had it, and he sat on a couch in the senate chamber telling Mr. Mitchell about it. Mr. Mitchell was much interested and very sympathetic.

"Why don't you see a good doctor," he said, and take a course of ke-neen?" for so the senator pronounced the familiar word.

"I believe I'll do that," said Mr. Hermann. "I have been taking a lot of quinine, and it doesn't seem to do me a bit of good."—Washington Post.

Narrow Escape.
On Monday night Mrs. S. M. Hardman had a narrow escape from drowning in Trask river, only being saved by the bravery and presence of mind of Will Randall. It appears that Mrs. Hardman in company with her sister, Mrs. Evans, Will Randall and Louis Olsen were fishing in Trask river when the bank on which she was standing gave way and precipitated her into the river, which at that point was very deep. Mr. Randall immediately dived in after her and after considerable trouble succeeded in bringing her to the shore some hundred and fifty yards from where she fell in. The drowning woman had, in her struggles grasped him in such a manner as to leave him only one hand to help himself, which made his task a much more difficult one. Mrs. Hartman was taken to the residence of Mr. Johnson and there cared for, so that in a few hours she was well enough to be brought to her home.

Butter Supply.
The ruling price for butter in this city is now from 45 to 55 cents per roll, and the merchants seem to have a plentiful supply on hand. Owing to they dry weather the feed got rather short for a time but since the rains the cows have been giving much more milk, and butter is now coming in freely. It is certain however that there is a demand for all the butter that can be obtained in Tillamook and the man who is prepared to make butter the coming winter will have plenty of customers, and the indications are that prices will be high.

The grand jury of Yamhill county at the circuit court last week found not a true bill against Mr. Vincent the school teacher, and exonerated him from all blame. It will be remembered Mr. Vincent was overtaken by night in the mountains and crawled into a cabin for shelter, for which some dampwood had him arrested.

NEHALEM, October 2nd, '83.

Editor HEADLIGHT.
A recent issue of the Nehalem Times comes out with an article in relation to a petition that has been circulated for the establishment of a post office at Nehalem City. From the Times point of view the petitioners are working against the best interest of the community, saying, that as there is not business enough to more than support one money order office we should not try to divide the post office business, on the other hand we should continue as we are and allow all our mail to pass within sixty rods of Nehalem City and follow after it and get ours back as best we can.

Now the facts are these; for a great part of the year none but experienced boatmen can navigate the river for that distance. Within the last year one boy was drowned while going over the same route for mail. Also the trail overland is long and dangerous.

Further, in our petition we do not ask for a money order office but for such a one as the department may give us relying on previous recommendations and the generosity of the department therefor. Again, when the Times was first located on Nehalem it was at Nehalem City. In a short time he found he was too far from the post office, and in consequence must be obliged to move to where it was.

PETITIONER.

Oregon Moss.

Oregon moss is about to redeem itself for all that has been said against it. A new industry has recently developed at Salem which promises to prove not only a valuable factor in itself but an important matter for the railroads and shippers. The day has come when Oregon moss will enter into a new era. Already has a large amount been put in use. A company in Fresno has ordered a large invoice of Oregon moss to be shipped to them. When the moss arrives it is put to use in packing goods for shipment. Thursday five 142 bales of moss were shipped from Salem to Fresno and yesterday another bale was shipped. This moss is collected and shipped by the Capital City nursery company of this city. That the moss is equal to other packing material is not questioned. No doubt in a year's time this new venture will be numbered among Oregon's chief and foremost industries. When packed and ready for shipment the moss is in bales and at first glance very much resembles hops.—Statesman.

A City Ordinance.

In section 4, of ordinance No. 2, it says that: If any person or persons, while in the corporate limits of Tillamook city shall wilfully ride or drive any horse or mule through any street of said Tillamook city at a greater speed than six miles an hour * * * shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction thereof be punished by a fine of not less than $10 nor more than $50. We call attention to this from the fact that numerous complaints have been made lately of furious driving on the main streets. Several times children have narrowly escaped being knocked down and run over and people often have to hurry over the crosswalks to keep out of the way. People do not object to a little inconvenience if the horses are being used in business but they will not tolerate being chased off the streets by fellows who are only exercising worthless cayuses. The marshal will probably attend to the offenders if they do not drive easier.

Sad Boat Accident.

MARSHFIELD, Oct. 2.—Four people were drowned yesterday afternoon near North Slough Sand point by the capsizing of a sail boat. Their names are B. M. Delaney and his two children and John Wickland. Delaney, his wife and three children, Miss Bettie Benson and John Wickland comprised the party who had been picking berries at the Sand hills. They embarked for home early in the afternoon. When they were about sixty yards from shore a gust of wind came up and caused the sail to give, which knocked Wickland out of the boat and capsize it, throwing all the occupants into the water. They held on to the boat, however, and Delaney started to swim to the shore with his five-year-old boy. He had not gone far until they sank and were drowned. Wickland also started to swim ashore but succumbed in a few minutes. Miss Benson laid the sail flat across the boat to prevent it from turning over and in this way paddled to shore. In the meantime the little girl fell off and was drowned. The bodies of Delaney and his son were recovered today.

Dry Stocking Bar.

The work of driving piling at the junction is now completed. About 700 piles have been driven and the men are now engaged in putting in brush and stone. The brush is being obtained at Garibaldi and Miami creek. A few days ago one of the scows laden with brush was being towed across the bay and being partially filled with water did not balance and finally the load slipped over to one side and the scow began to sink so the Garfield towed it over the flats and left it a day or two till another scow was obtained and the load changed over. In another instance the crew at the jetty were unloading a scowload of rock, about 70 tons, and unloaded one side first, so that the scow almost tipped over and had to be beached in order to pump the water out.

Pers. and.

Dr. Wise went to Bay City Wednesday. Senator Maxwell was in the city Tuesday.

J. H. Jackson, of Netarts, was in town this week.

J. F. Reher, of Glenora, was in town Sunday.

Henry Told, of Nehalem, was here on business Tuesday.

E. E. Selph came in on the stage Tuesday evening, after a week's absence on business.

Johnny Wright has arrived from the Valley where he has been working this summer.

Miss Maggie Tone came in from Glenora Sunday and will have charge of a room in the public school.

The Netarts Sawmill.

The sawmill at Netarts is being set up as rapidly as possible and it is expected will be ready for business in about two weeks. The proprietor, W. Holbart, of Dallas, has engaged to saw the lumber and timber for the bridges on the new lighthouse road. The mill will have a capacity of about 10,000 a day and will be a great benefit to that section of the country. It is intended, next summer, to saw b-x lumber and ship it out to San Francisco on schooners. There is a fine body of spruce timber along the upper end of the bay which is easy of access and the expense of logging will be comparatively light. There may be a little difficulty about getting boats in at first but the Netarts people are confident that it can be overcome.

Almost a Panic.

An attachment against the Coopers Company at Bay City last week for $255.76 was the occasion for all sorts of wild rumors. At one time it was reported that the mill was attached for $4000.00 and every one who dealt with the company was getting uneasy. The facts were that a couple of small checks went to protest and the attachment followed but the company promptly gave bonds and went right along with their work. A dispatch from the San Francisco office brings word that everything will be paid in thirty days and we sincerely hope it may be so. The little mill has been putting out from $100 to $200 a day and it would be a serious hurt to the community to have it shut down by a senseless scare.

Seven Steamers.

Saturday was a day worth of note on Tillamook bay being an occasion when seven steamers were in the bay at one time. Five of these, the Truckee, South Coast, Roebarts, Elmore and Harrison were ocean going boats, the others, the Garfield and Improvement, boats which ply on the bay. A number of people went from the city Sunday morning to see the unusual sight. It happened several times during the summer that a boat came in daily during the week but it is doubtful if so many were ever in the bay at one time before. It will not be many years before it will be an every day event however.

Hurrah for Old Yamhill.

In wheat-raising Oregon is again ahead, and the Willamette valley and Yamhill county stand in front. Oregon took the prize at the world's fair for the best wheat and John F. Allison, of Hopewell, Yamhill county, the one who received the prize—a fine gold medal. Mr. Allison lives seven miles south of Dayton, on the Salem and Dayton road. Part of his farm lies in the hills and part in the lowlands. For the best outside exhibited at the world's fair, George Olds of McMinnville, another Yamhill county farmer, received first premium—a gold medal.—Ex.

Wilson River Boom.

George Means took his pile driver to the Wilson river boom yesterday and is at work driving new piles and fixing up the boom in good shape for the winter freshets. It is estimated several million feet of logs will come into the boom as soon as the river rises. The Wilson River Boom Company has hitherto not taken charge of any logs but intends in the future to take the responsibility of holding the logs in the boom and charging toll.

Forest Grove Stage.

The Forest Grove stage came in Tuesday as usual and went back yesterday. The road being new, is now too soft and rough to make fast time so it is expected this will be the last trip with the stage until spring when Mr. Jones will put on a regular line again. Parties wishing to come over the mountains from Forest Grove will be brought over on horseback until that time. This stage has been quite a benefit to both Tillamook and Forest Grove and is certain that next summer it will have even better success than it had this season.

Hebo.

Jaspar Smith, of Hebo, has gone to Battville, Ore., to help press hops.

Frank Bodlyfelt, of Eastern Oregon, a nephew of G. W. Bodlyfelt, is fishing with Wm. Christman, of McMinnville, at Hebo for a few days.

Andrew Anderson, an old timer, has taken unto himself a better half. The boys gave him an old time serenade and liquor and something stronger was on hand for those that did not smoke. All went home wishing him luck on the sea of matrimony.
