

Do You Want a Loan.

The farmers of Kansas have mortgaged their farms and are loaning their money to Tillamookers, so we were asked to believe a few weeks ago. Money lenders are as thick in Kansas as claims are on a Tillamook bay flat. They have put out money in Kansas until the farms are all mortgaged, and now they are after some Tillamook farms; well, we will not say that, but they are after some Tillamook money. Not long since, a Mr. Helvie, formerly of the Advocate, was induced by one of the Wrought Iron Range men to act as agent for a Kansas loan and trust company. The title sounded big to Mr. Helvie, so he immediately became the agent of a grinding corporation, so he thought. The Range man knew this would be a good place to work such a scheme. It would have worked well, but for the fact that there was little cash in the county. If Mr. Helvie had sold shares on time in the Grasshopper Flown & Bust Co., he could have found plenty of buyers, but it took $5 or $10 to become a member of the said Co. A few people in this county actually bought $10 worth of experience in the scheme, however. But, let us say right here that we believe Mr. Helvie really thought he was in a bonafide business, being of a confiding turn of mind, and he cheerfully recommended the Bust Co. as an antidote for hard times, expecting to see the Kansas shekels rolling into Tillamook county faster than they ever have since the advent of Watentower Johnson. Some of those who needed money the most, with an implicit and abiding faith, dropped $10 in the slot, waited to see the Grasshopper jump. Several of them applied for loans, and were promptly informed that $17 would be required, as a matter of further good faith, and as a fee to a lawyer to look the business up, before any loan could be made. Of course, all of them stopped at this, and their first fee is being enjoyed by a defunct Kansas City boomer. Alas, it was like all other companies of that ilk. Some of us had some experience of the same kind with a San Francisco company about two years ago, but it is necessary to administer the dose to us frequently, as we forget so soon. We hereby give notice to all fakirs, with out regard to race, color or previous condition of servitude, that Tillamook is a paradise for them. There is fine picking here, board and lodging found, and no questions asked.

That Paste.

The postmistress objected last week because a flavor (which was not like Eau de Cologne) lingered around the consignment of HEADLIGHTS which were mailed. She said the odor was strong enough to carry the papers to their destination. This shows that the postmistress is not accustomed to be around a printing office, or she would recognize flour paste. Printers get used to it, and after once getting in the habit of inhaling the aroma of ripe flour paste, can't get along without it. It's queer anyone should protest against flour paste.

Notice to Taxpayers.

Notice is hereby given that after October 1st, I will begin to levy upon and sell all property where taxes are delinquent. By settling at present there will be no further costs.

J. H. JACKSON, Sheriff.

Never Told a Lie.

W. F. D. Jones of the Tillamook Headlight, never told a lie in his life. He holds trumps over G. Wash as a truthfuhman. His paper says a man down at Tillamook has a pair of salmon trotters, which he puts in harness, hitches them to a fish boat and drives them all over the bay. And that is no lie. —Clipping from Exchange.

Low Freights.

The steamer Truckee now brings freight from Portland for San Francisco to Hobsonville for $3.00 per ton. The company proposes to do a big share of the coast freighting business, and this cut will be of much benefit to the merchants of this place 16-t-f.

Neskowin.

The steamer arrived here Thursday.

Owing to the great tidal wave that was to come, our camp was deserted. There are few here now.

Mr. Schiller has returned to his farm on Slab creek.

Salmon are very scarce in the bay.

Mr. McLaughlin came in from Portland to day to enjoy camping with his family.

Mr. Shermehorn, wholesale dealer of Portland, is here, making contracts for all the butter that is ready to ship on the steamer. He is paying 16, 17 and 18 cts per pound, delivered on board the boat. He will get most all the Little Nestuca butter.

Here are the names of those who went hop picking at Independence: Mr. and Mrs. Taggart, Charley and Will Geores, Mrs. M. Jackson and family, Mrs. M. Seufert, Mr. Page, and Jenne, Jean, Ethel and Mena Page.

Mr. and Mrs. George Schlegel have a baby girl, born August 30.

Mrs. Harvey and family bade farewell to this place for at least a year.

ADVERTISEMENT!

You say the HEADLIGHT is a small paper! Certainly! These are small times. But, the paper is not padded out with patent sides, plate matter, medicine electros and dead ads. It is alive, every inch of it, with local news and fearless comment, and now goes at $1.00 per year, the actual cost of the fine paper we use. Of course, the San Francisco Call has 12 pages of choice news, miscellany, and good short stories weekly, but we can't compete with the Call. The Call buys its paper in car load lots, and being in a big city prints 100,000 per week, gets big advertising rates, and makes its weekly up from the daily. You take the Call, the Oregonian or the Examiner, and read the general news as soon as we do. Then, what's the use for us to re-print a small portion of it and send it to you a week later. It's a waste of paper, just the same as patent sides, and you wouldn't read it anyway; you take the home paper for home news. It is cheaper for us to furnish the Call free of charge to all our subscribers than to pay $15 per week to get a little extra type set, and we make it practically free, both papers $1.50 per year, the usual price of the HEADLIGHT, thus giving you the home news and all the miscellany and general news you can digest for $1.50. We furnish the Examiner, Oregonian and other papers on favorable clubbing rates. For particulars, see our clubbing list which is published occasionally.  Bear in mind the HEADLIGHT will keep you informed regarding county affairs without fear or favor. It will interest you, whether you agree with its politics or not.
