

Said on the Side.

Born—To John Koch and wife Sep. 4, a son.

A child of Mrs. Nicklaus died at Bay city Saturday.

The HEADLIGHT is only $1.00 per year until further notice

John Stewart has commenced on a new house on his property.

H. A. Woodford in building a house on his place north of the city.

For Sale—A scholarship in Mrs. May's academy. Enquire at this office.

James Williams will have charge of the Alliance meat market hereafter

C. R. Hunt has bought the Geo. L. Smith residence and now occupies it.

Fishing was good a few days ago, but Silversides are the principal fish at present.

A lot of new goods has just been received at the millinery store. Ladies are invited to call and inspect them.

Fearnside's store will be located in Pape & Robbins' building at Nehalem. He has been in Portland buying groceries.

Jas. Hughey, G. A. Mowers, W. A. Hanor and N. P. Hansen, from the upper Big Nestuck were in the town this week.

The Albany Herald says the Nestucca bay cannery will be removed to Alaska, the run of fish being this year too light to keep it running.

Lester P. Smith, the newly appointed school superintendent is in the city. He will qualify and assume the duties of the office at once.

John Embum, contractor and builder, lately from Delemar, Idaho, has located in this city. He will be here permanently after Christmas.

Tuttle and Cary have the agency for the celebrated Hays Force Pump, and will sell them to those who want a first class, substantial pump.

The Advocate is assessed at $350; the HEADLIGHT at $1000. For two years the Advocate plant was not assessed at all. Yet, some people call it an enterprise.

Nels Thompson has a complete line of bedsteads, springs, mattresses, chairs, etc. Latest designs in wallpaper, also. Mr. Thompson deals only in reliable goods.

A pardon has been granted Frank McCormack for cutting off the tail of C. A. Bailey's calf. Governor Bowers says that he will issue no more pardons until after the next election.

L. Reichert, who has been manager of the Alliance Market, has accepted a place in a Portland Market. Mr. Reichert is a gentleman who made many friends while here, and he is an expert as a butcher.

Tuttle & Cary have placed a fine force pump in the well fronting their place of business. The city council ought to get about four of these pumps and place them where they would do the most good in case of fire.

Gov. Bowers has paid his subscription. He says he doesn't expect us to give him a farm or a driving sulky like the Examiner does, and he has granted us the privilege of getting all the wood and that we can get on subscription or otherwise.

If you wish to see a large stock of first class hardware, everything well displayed call at Tuttle & Cary's store. They have a fine line of stoves, and can supply guaranteed steel ranges of the most approved models, on short notice, and at low prices.

Those who wish to pay up until the present time and have their papers stopped can hardly expect to get the benefit of our cash $1.00 rate. This was made for those who wish to pay up until the present and for a year in advance. However, if you pay up for arrears and a year in advance you get the benefit of the $1.00 rate clear through. Otherwise the price of the paper is $1.50 as usual. The low rate is made to suit the times and to enable us to collect as closely as possible.

The politicians are having a hard time convincing the people that these are not hard times. But politicians have the nerve to make this statement. And they will say any thing to make votes, and generally find plenty of believers and those who will follow.—North Yamhill Record.

N. P. Roberts and J. A. Richardson are building a small steamer to put on the bay route. The boat will be 32 feet over all, 8 feet beam, and of light draft, with screw propeller. The boiler will be horizontal, and the boat will be finished with a neat cabin and pilot house. It will carry about 20 passengers.

This office does not keep drawing paper, tablets, envelopes, or writing paper for sale at retail. Those who wish stationery or school supplies can find them at the book store. We do not keep legal blanks to retail, but will print them in lots of fifty or more, only. We do not sell blank paper—only printed paper or cards.

One of the leading commission houses in Portland quotes prices as follows: Flour weak at $2.20 to $2.30 for both Valley and eastern Oregon. Large receipts of eggs have caused them to drop to 18 cents. Creamery butter is quoted at 50 cents a roll; choice dairy 40 to 45 cents, brine 30 to 40, and store 25 cents. Dated October 4.

Beals Bros. are determined to erect their new block this fall. They are assured good tenants. The building will be by all odds the best business block in town, and will be finished in modern style. They deserve much credit for their push and determination in building these hard times, and the new structure will be quite an addition to our growing town.

'Life in Astoria drew a crowded house at Stutz Theater last night. * * * The comedy is original, and unlike other plays. No comedy could create more laughter than did Life in Astoria last night, from the time, 8:30 when the curtain went up, until 10 o'clock. The audience were kept in constant good humor and extreme laughter.—Astorian, October 4.

R. W. Robbins of Bay City was arrested last week at the instigation of Clyde Clements, charged with the larceny of a saw log. He was brought before Judge Maulsby, and was bound in the sum of $300 to appear before the next circuit court. It seems that Mr. Robbins caught a drifting saw log and used it up for firewood. Loggers complain a great deal about having their logs stolen.

Notice the assessment roll published in this issue. Some interesting figures are given. It shows the figures for those who pay taxes on $1000 or more, however $300 exemptions allowed are not deducted. In fact, it shows the gross value. All property owners who have been escaping taxation are in the list this year, as no indebtedness exemptions are allowed this year.

T. G. Stillwell went back to his post in the Salem penitentiary, but secured a vacation until Jan 1st. He started for home, and stopped over night at the Mountain house. Not being acquainted around the premises he fell off a bank into the river, about 20 feet, injuring his left arm severely. It gave him such pain that he could not sleep well and while sitting up by the stove, he thought he'd go out after a load of wood to replenish the fire. Oh going out he walked right into a 16 foot well, and found himself sitting, bruised in fresh places, at the bottom of the well. He called for assistance and was fished out. He is here now recovering as fast as could be expected for a man who had so many accidents in one night.
