

LOCAL NEWS.

Fresh fruit at the bakery. The state fair opened Tuesday. Paints and oils at Tuttle & Cary's. First class job printing at this office. D. Cronen, of Nehalem, was in the city. Those who want work can get it at the jetty. Country produce wanted at Cohn & Co's. Tablets, slates and pencils at Sturgeon's. All kinds of paints and oils at Tuttle & Cary's. What about those exhibits for the exposition? All school books covered free of charge at Lamb's. Oregonian and HEADLIGHT, $2.00 per year for both. Hop picking in the Willamette valley is about done. There should be a general cleaning up in back alleys. There will be council meeting next Saturday night. Silas Morton was married in Yamhill county last week. G. W. Fearnside, of Nehalem, was in the city this week. Wm. Rhoades and wife, of Hebo, were in the city this week. Work is progressing on the new Wilson river bridges. An adjourned session of county court will be held next week. Fred Hubbard and wife, of Beaver, were in the city this week. The Elmore took out a large cargo of cheese and butter this week. New lot of picture mouldings, latest designs at Helms' Art Studio. Mackintoshes, full line for ladies and gents, just received at Cohn's. J. D. Edwards will go to the Sand Cape gold diggings next week. The steamer Truckee sailed for Frisco Saturday loaded with lumber. Grass is better this fall than usual, and the cows are giving plenty of milk yet. Geo. Miller, son of Col. A. W. Miller, of Portland, is visiting with C. N. Drew. Captain Peterson, bar pilot and river pilot, of Astoria, was in the city this week. The Woodmen unveiled the monument over Dr. Hayes' grave at Lafayette Sunday. Badges, or pins, for Woodmen of the World, for sale at Sturgeon's jewelry department. Hempel & Wieseer have a cargo of lumber sawed, and expect the schooner this week. Silversides are running well on Nehalem, and there were twice as many big fish as usual. Dr. Patchen has gone to Portland to introduce his Spa-C. He is advertising it extensively. Some samples of our own engraving may be seen in this issue. We did it with a hatchet. Photos of the latest styles and finish. Also new backgrounds and accessories, at Helms' Art Gallery. The necessary subsidy for the Patton mill, is about raised, and Nehalem will have another mill soon. Fish are running well on the bay, and it is reported over 700 cases of Chinook were put up at the cannery last week. Alfred Williams will at once begin the erection of a seven room cottage on the corner of Stillwell avenue and 2d street. A new ware house, 35x40 feet, has just been finished at the Nehalem cannery. D. Cronen did the construction work. The State Dairy-men's Association will be held at the fairgrounds at Salem, October 1. Tillamook should be represented. One of the Portland papers says that nice, tender young colts are put up into cans in that city and labeled "boneless turkey." Local Market—Butter 40 cents per roll eggs 15 cents per dozen, potatoes 30 per bushel, Nectucca honey, 12 1/2 cents per pound. Reports from various parts of the county are to the effect that the roads are in better condition for winter than ever before. A consignment of several pair of Mongolian pheasants have been sent from Oregon to San Jose, Cal. The birds will thrive there. It will be a shame if Tillamook is not represented at the Portland exposition and at the meeting of the State Dairy Association. It is reported that a populist paper will be started in this town soon, and that material for a small printing plant is being purchased. A son of Lord Rose, of England, has challenged the Defender. The yacht to run against her is to be built especially for the purpose. The Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight is to come off October 31. It is to be hoped Fitz will lick big Jim and then leave the country for good. One encouraging feature for the future is that business men throughout the entire Northwest report a marked increase in business over a corresponding period for last year. If this increase is not the result of the natural fall increase of business, but something that will remain with us, then we may feel encouraged. September has been a good business month so far in all branches of business but it may be only temporary. F. E. Rogers and wife returned from Netarts bay on Friday. There were three or four camps at the bay when they left. —Telephone Register. W. J. May gave an excursion to points on the bay Monday. Among those who went are T. B. Handley, A. W. Severance and Judge Ward. Ezra Hauxhurst was arrested Sunday evening for singing too loud in public. He pleaded guilty and was fined $6 by Magistrate C. N. Drew. A newspaper will be started at Woods at once. We understand R. T. Weatherly will edit the paper. We predict success for Mr. Weatherly. School is progressing nicely with 143 pupils in attendance. Of these, Mrs. Hays has 33, Miss Tone 39, Mrs. Alderman 38, and Mrs. Beals 33. The launch Irene, Chas. Hemstreet owner, leaves the Fearnside wharf every day for all points on the bay. Two trips on Wednesday's and Saturday's. Reports from the gold digging at Siletz are rather encouraging. One man has taken out about $50 in gold, and others are making ready to work the sand. The fall fly is shriveling himself up these cool mornings, but during the day he is getting in his farewell bites on people and worrying them considerably. Dave Hadley was taken before Judge W. B. Smith Tuesday, charged with carrying concealed weapons. He pleaded guilty and was fined $10 and $5 costs. Those who owe the HEADLIGHT will please save up a few dollars for the first of next month. We will need money to settle some bills then, and will call on you. The steamer Elmore made no charge for freight on the new hand engine from Astoria. The charges from Portland to Astoria on the river boat was only one dollar. A train load of water-mellons was wrecked last Sunday within 500 feet of a Negro church in Texas. The service lasted just thirty seconds after the mishap —Ex. This is the time to get your grass seeds. The farmers should prepare for plenty of grass and hay in this country, as dairying business will soon attain great importance. Some admiring friend sent this paper a beautifully developed double prune. If the party who sent it will call, his or her name will be heralded to the public with a flourish. To Exchange:—A beautiful 47-acre fruit and alfalfa farm in San Pasqual Valley, California, for a stock farm in Oregon. Address, A. MARCUS, San Pasqual, California. The Tillamook Creamery has received its butter making machinery and will be turning out fine butter in short order. The demand for butter and cheese is on the increase and prices are getting better. Sheriff Jackson has just returned from a trip over the county posting notices on delinquent property. He expects to complete the posting in a week, and then delinquent taxpayers had better look out. Tuttle & Cary have just received another large lot of hardware. They get right in and rustle, and if you don't see what you want when you go into their store, tell them and they will get it for you on short notice. Miss Lola Wilson has gone to San Francisco to see her grandmother, Mrs. Bode, who was very ill at last reports Mr. A. P. Wilson is still in San Francisco. Mrs. Bode is sick at the residence of her son, C. H. Bode. The bloomer girl hasn't shown up to any great extent in Tillamook, and she will probably attract considerable attention when she does appear—at least until the average street corner loafer gets satisfied gawking and making remarks. The new hand engine for the fire department has arrived. It is a beautiful piece of machinery, mounted on wheels, and has facilities for sixteen men to work the pump handles at once. It will be tested at an early date. News is received in London of the death of Makololo, one of Livingstone's most faithful followers in Africa from 1851 to 1864. What makes his taking off the sadder is the fact that he left forty-five widows to mourn him. The wind blew so hard from the south one day last week that Link river went dry from the falls up to upper Klamath lake, a distance of about one mile. The water on the lake frequently blows up to the northern end until its outlet becomes dry. The Smiths are not in it. The marriage recently took place of Chas. W. Brown and Lila Brown, at the residence of the bride's father, J. Brown, at Brownsville, by the Rev. George Brown. The best man was Fred Brown, and the bridesmaids were Lottie Brown and Edith Brown. Ben Perry keeps boats to let. He has several different kinds, and can fit you out with a light row boat, or a sail boat. He also has a hand-power stern wheeler which will carry a number of persons and make good time. Boats let by the day or week, at reasonable rates.

Mr. Cleveland has said that he will not be a candidate for a third term and that he does not believe in it. In this he will be overwhelmingly endorsed by a nation of voters with the exception of a bond-buying few on Wall street. Mr. Cleveland you are at last in entire harmony with your fellow citizens on a National question. Mr. Morey of Bay City was stricken with paralysis on September 12th. The entire right half of his body being as if dead. His mind also being unable to form an idea. Dr. Kelly was called to see him on the thirteenth and put him on a course of treatment which has enabled the patient to fully use all the muscles afflicted. Mr. Morey is 75 years old. The streets are filled with water pipes which are rapidly being laid in place, says the Astorian. A large number of men are employed and this will of course be the means of distributing considerable money about town. While the men were at work out on the line a good deal of money was spent among the farmers for meat, milk, butter, etc. Now there will be more spent in town. The prosecution has about all of its evidence in an it looks as if Durrant should hang. He and his attorneys seem confident though, and promise some great surprises for the prosecution, but all their surprises so far have been nipped in the bud. If Durrant had committed a crime not half so heinous, his trial would have lasted only a few days and he would have been hung long ago. A married woman in The Dalles got the best of her husband the other evening. When he came home late, as was his custom, and rang the door bell, his wife went to the door and whispered softly through the key hole: "Is that you Jim?" Her husband's name, of course, was not Jim, and now he stays home every night and sleeps with one eye open and a club under his pillow. Mrs. McIntosh of Tillamook, is visiting in Woodland, the guest of her many friends in this place. She soon takes her departure for her home. Our ranchers have vivid recollections of those balmy times when Mr. McIntosh made up their milk into fine golden cakes of cheese, and they received a good living price for dairy products.—Woodland, (Wash.) Correspondent in Cathlamet Gazette. Mand Muller on a summer night went out on her bike in the bright moonlight. She paddled around from six to ten on a trip that would fag the strongest man, but her heart was light and her spirits gay, for it wasn't work it was only play. Next morning, however, she'd a pain in her head, she was all played out and stayed in bed, while her mother hustled in the kitchen below—not to ride a wheel but to make things go. Though the morning was hot and she worked by the fire she didn't collapse with a punctured tire. Alas for the girl and the woman, see. Things are not as they used to be.—Ex. Four of the seven states electing governors this fall now have democratic governors. The seven are Iowa, Kentucky, Maryland, Massachusetts, Mississippi, New Jersey and Ohio. Iowa, Ohio and Massachusetts have republican governors. Elections take place in eleven states, a quarter of the whole number. The states voting are Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Maryland, Massachusetts, Mississippi, New Jersey, Ohio and Pennsylvania. Besides these, Utah is to elect a full quota of officers for her state government. The interesting contests are in Kentucky, Maryland and New Jersey, with a languid sort of concern directed toward Iowa and Ohio.—Oregonian. Judge Peter H. Ward, one of the committee of the Portland Presbytery, has been here the past week looking into the project of taking the May Academy. Judge Ward is very favorably impressed with this town, the country, and with the academy. When he returns to Portland he and the rest of the committee will decide as to accepting the proposition regarding the school. The Presbytery is to receive an absolute and perpetual title to the academy building and ground, without incumbrance, providing they conduct the school for a period of seven years, and carry out the present contracts with those who hold scholarship certificates. It is probable they will accept Mrs. May's generous offer, and the success of the institution will depend upon the support given by our people. The Presbyterians are noted for the thoroughness of their colleges and schools, and in them they teach nothing prejudicial to the religious belief of the student may be. Religious tests and church preferences are not considered in the admission of pupils. The new pump for the fire company was tried Tuesday, and after getting it primed worked first rate, though perhaps a little harder now than after it is used a few times. It throws water with great force, and even onto the roof of the Allen house. It will be a great protection no doubt, but it will require about 36 men to operate it constantly to its full capacity. Twelve men can work at the handles at once, and as it works very hard, there should be three shifts of strong men to get the best results, and they should be trained and under command of some one with authority. Plenty of men are always around at a fire, and if the fire chief should be empowered to detail sufficient men to run the pump to its utmost capacity, it will be of as much service as an ordinary fire engine, and does not cost as much as a fire engine in the first place, besides requiring no trained horses or trained engineers to run it. One thing sure, however, before any kind of an engine, pump or hose can be made use of, there must be some water mains with a pressure, some cisterns, or some good wells. The wells in the middle of the street crossings are of no utility whatever, and were pumped dry in about two squirts. One well lasted about three minutes and the other less than one minute. They should be at least ten feet deeper, and we doubt as to their utility then. A few good cisterns or tanks above ground, fed by rain-water from roofs would be worth more than the wells as they now are. The slough is a little too far away to be used with our hand engine, and now another difficulty confronts the town—to dig the wells deeper or to construct tanks. A Chance for Fools. Hereafter the announcement at the head of this paper inviting free use of the columns of the paper for correspondents will be dispensed with. The announcement has stood there until it is a chestnut, and by this time, surely, everybody ought to know that all classes of people have a fair chance to express their opinions in the HEADLIGHT. You must sign your names, however, and avoid slander. Well written articles from sensible people are especially welcome, as they help the paper. Articles from cranks and fools are also solicited, as it is a good thing to permit a fool to put himself on record, and show himself up before the public. He can't deceive the public thereafter. It is left to you to decide which class you belong to, wisemen or fools, and if you make a holy show of yourself in print, blame yourself. ADAPTATION. Quick Justice. Tillamook lawyers used to be a little slow and dilatory, as many of our citizens well know, but finally a circuit judge came along who made them attend to business right up to the handle. The sheriff had been to the court house door calling Lawyer Slowboy, in stentorian tones, three or four times, but Slowboy didn't come. Attorney Smart, a nervous Portland attorney was here, and he was attorney for the plaintiff in the case, which was an action to recover trivial damages on account of a horse trade. The judge was peremptory and quick, and he said "proceed at once with the case, we can't wait all day." He was in a hurry to get to another county in his circuit, and Attorney Smart was anxious to get back to Portland, so a jury was called, and all accepted without a challenge. It was noticed that one of the jurors tried to get up and explain several times, but the judge motioned him down with a frown. Finally Slowboy put in appearance, and the following dialogue ensued: Judge Push—You should have been here before. Lawyer Slowboy—Couldn't get here, was busy. I wish to challenge the jury, your honor. Attorney Smart—I object. He should have been here. Judge Push—Proceed with the case. Lawyer Slowboy—Beg your pardon, am sorry I challenged the jury. The jury suits me. I see my client on the jury. Judge Push—What! Attorney Smart—I—, yer honor, we withdraw our suit, and ask to have it dismissed. No Hostlers in Heaven. Somebody brought in a newspaper clipping which contained a good story, though somewhat old. The clipping was misplaced, but here is a dialogue which illustrates the story: Grover Cleveland—Say, Debs, is that you. Not going up to heaven? I was just there and they wouldn't let me in. Surely then, you can't get through St. Peter's gate. Eugene V. Debs—Yes, an going. I have a pass, signed by St. Peter. Grover—Hold on Debs, I want in and I have a scheme. Get astride me and ride me in. They will think I am your horse, and once inside they'll not turn me out. Debs—Allright. [Debs straddles old Grover and approaches the gate.] St. Peter—Hello! Who's There? Debs—Your humble servant, Eugene V. Debs. St. Peter—Ah, glad to see you! Tie your ass to that post out there and walk right in. Mistakes in the Dark. I caught her in the hall And kissed her twice or thrice. And then contritely said, "I thought you were my wife." "Was not the new hired girl, by jove? I felt so like a clam!" The girl I kissed laughed gayly, "You silly boy, I am." Then in confusion she Her feelings did unfold. "Thought 'twas the new hired girl, Be Gosh, we both were sold." ADDITIONAL LOCALS.

The Elmore arrived last night. Wait Smith's Half-way House, Wilson river, is the place to stop. In Frank Allendar's article last week "the book of Jonah" should have been printed "the book of Joshua." Basket social, to pay for organ, by the Ladies' Aid Society, Christian Church, Friday night, Oct. 4. All invited. The schooner Rosie Olsen has been seized by the U. S. authorities for violating sealing regulations. She is held in Astoria. Wait Smith's four-year old apple trees are bearing fine this year, and he is exhibiting some of the apples in Portland at the exposition. Samples of Gray-stains from his trees were brought to this office, and for beauty and flavor they can't be excelled. Some of them measured 12 inches in circumference.
