Do You Know?

that it pays to Advertise in the Headlight?

Why?

Because it Gives

The County News,
County Advertising,
Is Fearless in Policy,
Grants Free Discussion,

And, is bright, spicy, well-printed, and has attractive and artistic "ads"

This is why everybody takes and reads the HEADLIGHT. No other paper in the county can compare with it in circulation. It is the

Pioneer Paper,

and its subscription list is rapidly increasing. Fine job-printing plant in connection.

As far as we can hear little or nothing has been done for making exhibits for Tillamook at the Exposition or state fair. It is a shame that the best dairying and lumbering county in the state hasn't enterprise to make a showing of its products when such a good opportunity is afforded. Tillamook need not expect to get fancy prices for its cheese and butter, or attract capital to its timber resources until a more progressive spirit is shown. This is no insignificant matter, but one of the greatest importance.

Nestucca has a newspaper at last. It is the Ocean Wave, and is published at Woods by Weatherly & Williams. J. B. Long, formerly of the Amity Popgun, is the editor. It is neat, typographically, well edited, and starts off with a good advertising patronage. It will be of great service to the Nestucca country if the people there give it liberal support.

"Bill Nye," the American humorist, is a man of very sober demeanor, and rarely cracks jokes outside of newspaper columns. He has been known, however, to play a practical joke on a friend. When Lieut. Greeley started on his expedition to the North Pole Nye gave him a sealed box that was not to be opened until the explorer had reached his farthest farthest point north. The box contained axle-grease for the Pole.

The leading exhibits of the county and district fairs and the state fair will be transferred to the Exposition at Portland when the fairs are over, and combined with the special county and town exhibits will constitute the greatest collection of Oregon Products ever brought together. It will be such a display of natural products as could not be equalled by any other state in the union.

The "Neue Wiener Tagblatt," of Germany, prints the strange will of a wealthy and eccentric old man who lately died. "I give all my property," he says, "to my six nephews and six nieces, but under the sole condition that every one of my nieces marries a woman named Antonie, and that every one of my nieces marries a man named Anton." The twelve are further required to give the Christian name of Antonio or Anton to each first-born child, according as it turns out to be girl or boy. The marriage of each nephew and niece is also to be celebrated on one of the St. Anthony's days, either January 17, May 10, or June 13. Each is further required to be married before the end of July, 1896. Any nephew or niece remaining unmarried to an Antonio or an Anton after that date forfeits half of his or her share of the property.

In no other work does the "penny-wise and pound-foolish" proverb apply so pertinently as in the construction of roads and streets. The cheaper methods always prove twice as expensive in the long run for maintenance alone, not to speak of the money saved in transportation cost by a good road way. Where two horses can easily haul a load over a good highway that would require four over a poor one, it ought not to be difficult for the farmer to see that money spent in road-making is well invested.—The Public Official.

Seeing that the council of Trent in the sixteenth century solemnly pronounced "the female attired in masculine habiliments" to be "accursed," it would be interesting to learn what attitude the Roman Catholic Church of the present day proposes to adopt with regard to the knickerbockers of women who ride a bicycle. According to the French papers the Cardinal Archbishop, of Paris has taken advantage of this mediaeval decree to issue instructions to his clergy to refuse any sacrament to women coming to ask it in the cycling attire of to-day. But, surely, the Council of Trent could not have foreseen the advent of the wheel and of the new woman in knickerbockers.—Ex.

Reports have been circulated in the south end of the county that flour and other provisions were being sold at high prices here, with the purpose, no doubt, of driving the Nestucca trade to Sheridan. The fact is, flour and other provisions can be bought just as cheaply here, and cheaper in some instances, than in the valley towns.

William Grover, widely known as the inventor of the Grover & Baker sewing machine, has just died in Beverly, Mass., at the age of seventy-two. He made a fortune out of his invention while still a young man, and at once retired from business, devoting his time to religious and philanthropic activities.

A subscriber to the S. F. Examiner wrote to that paper asking a good remedy to make the mustache grow. The paper answered that praying was as good as anything else.

It is hard to believe that a man is telling the truth when you know you would lie were you in his place.—Boston Transcript.

MAKE GEOGRAPHY INTERESTING.

In teaching your little girl Geography try to make it something more than a dry list of names to be learned by rote. Take her imaginary voyages from one country to another. Tell her something of the manners and customs of the people and anything you can learn yourself about the lives of the children. Describe to her how the Swiss boys herd their cattle under the shadow of the Alps, and the Esquimaux are made daring by being thrown into the ice water in their strange fur garments. Tell her of the stunted lives of the pit boys in the coal mines and of the German girls who learn to use their five knitting needles almost as soon as they can hold them. Books of travel will furnish you with many interesting incidents which you can turn to account. Geography will not be a wearisome task to her. Her mother's wisdom can make the first steps attractive.—October Ladies' Home Journal.

TWENTY-SEVEN WHALES ASHORE.

A lucky discovery was made on the morning of July 4 by two Maoris outside the north head of the Kaipara, Harbor, New Zealand, says the Scientific American, when no fewer than twenty-seven sperm whales were found on the shore, all within a few miles radius. It being the breeding season for sperm whales, they usually leave the cold latitudes of the Antarctic until their calves are strong enough to return, and it is assumed that in one of these voyages, being confronted by fierce gales, they endeavored to take shelter, but suddenly found themselves in shallow water, where the receding tide soon left them an easy prey for the hands of man. An enterprising firm, Messrs. Allison Brothers, of Auckland, have commenced the boiling down process, though their plant is somewhat inadequate for such a gigantic undertaking. A horseman who was riding along the beach soon after the discovery was lucky enough to find a large quantity of ambergris, valued at about £3,000. Many seekers are now on the ground expecting each tide to bring them a fortune.

WE TAKE IT BACK.

The Sheridan Sun says: Our good friend, Daniel Washington Fearbeater Jones, of the HEADLIGHT, intimates that we are a prevaricator—something like Eli Perkins and other coarse distorters of the truth. Not at all, Bro. Jones. We are simply gifted with a fervid imagination which if harmlessly indulged in legitimate fiction is a healthful mind exercise. Take back your rude insinuations, Bro. Jones, or between you and us there will be an Antarctic ice barrier 1200 feet high.

CURRENT FUN

"I hardly know what to make of the new minister," said the King of Mbwpka to his forty-second wife.

As usual, woman's aptitude for estimating a man at his true value came to the front.

"Suppose you make a stew of him," she suggested; and it was done.—Parson's Weekly.

Mrs. Aloozi—Have you been to any of the fall openings, my dear?

Mrs. Buzbuz—Not exactly; but I tumbled into a coal hole the other day.—Roxbury Gazette.

"My wife found a piker chip in my pocket the other morning," said the man about town.

"Was she angry?"

"Very. She asked me how much it cost. I told her 50 cents, and she said that a man always got cheated; that the thing was nothing but celluloid."—Washington Star.

In the Alps—On reaching a certain point the driver turned round on his seat and observed to his passengers: "From this point the road is only accessible to males and donkeys; I must, therefore, ask the gentlemen to get out and proceed on foot."—Feuille d'avis de Vevey.

"I see," remarked Mrs. Snaggs, while reading the Chronicle-Telegraph last night "that the United Brethren are holding a conference at Wilkinsburg"

"I thought the Siamese twins were dead," commented Mr. Snaggs.—Pittsburg Chronicle Telegraph.

"This weather" began the oldest inhabitant, "ain't nothin' fer heat to what I felt jest sixty years ago—"

"And it isn't a marker to what you are likely to see sixty years since," interrupted the irreverent youth, and the old man went home growling about the way boys were raised nowadays.—Indianapolis Journal.
