Al Letcher shot at a big black bear while out fishing the other day.

He says that after he shot, the bear rose up on its hind legs, executed a sort of skirt dance ending with a double shuffle and then with a grunt it disappeared. Whether the dance was caused by pain or merely in diversion at being shot at with a pistol, Mr. Letcher does not pretend to say.

The game of base ball played by the Bay City and Nehalem teams last Saturday at Bay City was a very interesting game. The weather being good, the boys played well. The Nehalem pitcher played at a great disadvantage, being unable to use his left hand. The Bay City battery, Dollarhide and Morris played a good game from start to finish. The score being 8 to 13 in favor of Bay City.

Saw the Skookem

A party composed of Tom Coates, Albert Harris, Clay Daniels and the Editor of HEADLIGHT, made the trip to "Skookem" Lake last week bent on the amiable mission of paying their respects to the ancient Ghost so celebrated in Indian annals, and incidentally catching a few of the trout, which tradition says inhabit its dark and mysterious depths. The boys went as far as Norbergs place by team and thence with their provisions strapped on their backs they went on foot—that is, part of the way on foot—part of the way on their hands and knees—part hand over hand climbing logs, trees, and obstructions, and the balance crawling on their stomachs under logs and trees that nature in some wild tantrum chose to throw in the greatest profusion across the channel of Fawcett creek up which the pilgrims to the sacred shrine of "Skookem" made their way. The creek itself furnishes tolerably fair fishing to those who prefer fish of small size, but it is one of the roughest streams to fish in the county, and it was only after nine hours hard climbing that the party, thoroughly tired out, reached its destination.

To find a camping place was next to impossible as there isn't a level bit of solid ground 100 square within a mile of the lake. A slope of a little less than 45 degrees was finally discovered under a cedar tree, and a fire built; supper eaten, and the boys lay down to sleep. All around the lake the forest clad mountains rose in stately grandeur, while at their feet, the deep black waters of the lake reflected the occasional gleams of the moon as it struggled through a rift in the clouds. The boys were tired, and notwithstanding the fact that the great "Skookem" might at any time resent this intrusion upon his domain all were sound asleep. At about midnight Coates became conscious of some strange influence, and, raising himself to a sitting position he looked into the lake. To his horror he beheld the old demon of the lake slowly rising from the surface of the dark water. It had a head like a rhinoceros with eyes large as saucers, and emitting yellow flames. Its tongue was long and fiery red, and played like the tongue of a gigantic serpent. Its body was that of a dragon covered with pea green scales, which had a way of erecting themselves, and then flapping against its sides, making a noise like the flapping together of innumerable shingles; its feet were armed with immense claws, and its tail, about 10 feet in length was armed with an immense dart. Fixing its fiery eyes upon the intruders camp, it started to swim in their direction. Nearer and nearer it came, its eyes gleaming like balls of living fire. Leaving the water, it clambered up the bank and approaching close to the sleepers feet, it fixed its burning look upon the 4 pairs of feet kicked out from under the covers. The burning eyes of the awful form were simply intolerable, and Coates gave a vigorous kick—and woke with a start. He had slipped down into the fire, and his kick sent the sparks flying in every direction. It was all a dream. The boys stayed over one day, and returned. The fishing was not extra good in the lake nor were the trout very large.

Editor Headlight:

As the correspondent from South Prairie seems to be interested in my welfare, I thought it would be a good idea to inform him and the people at large, that I am keeping a history of my travels and will put it before the people in book form. Then the South Prairie Correspondent can see my agent and get one. I am at present bridging the Nestucca and when done that will take me up a sheep ranch on Mt. Hebo and will stock the same if lambs are not too high in the spring.

Memorial Day.

Corinth Post No. — G. A. R. celebrated Memorial Day in a subdued sort of fashion last Saturday.

The post assembled at their Hall at 10 a. m. and appointed a detail consisting of comrades Peter Brandt and A. O. Ford to visit the cemeteries and decorate the graves of departed comrades. At 1 p. m. they again assembled and after a short parade marched to the opera hall where an address was delivered by T. B. Handley which was very well received. They then marched to their Hall and disbanded.

Fourth of July Celebration

We submit the following account of the deliberations of the Firemen's fourth of July committee furnished us by the Secretary of that organization.

The committee on 4th of July celebration, representing the fire companies met on Monday night, and outlined the leading features of the celebration to be held this year which it is hoped will be second to none ever held in Tillamook. On motion it was decided that hat box will be distributed throughout town, at business places and the public given an opportunity to vote for a Goddess of Liberty. Leading features of the program as outlined by the committee will be as follows: parade in the forenoon, followed by usual literary exercises; in the afternoon there will be dancing, base-ball, foot races, etc., with a grand parade of Calithumpians or plug uglies. In the evening there will be a fine display of fireworks. Following this will come the grand ball, in which a large number of children will participate, after being specially drilled for the occasion. All literary exercises and dancing will be at the new opera house.

Refreshments and lunch during the day and the hall supper at night will be served in the hall, the committee having taken special pains to see that this feature will be satisfactory to the public.

As new features may suggest themselves from time to time, they will be added by the committee.

It is hoped that all secret societies and other civic organizations of the county will participate in the parade. Special invitations will be sent out for this purpose, but if any organization should be overlooked, it is hoped this general invitation will be considered sufficient, and that all will come and join heartily in the celebration. Notice of intention to participate in the parade should be sent to the committee as early as possible.

It is the opinion of the committee that the public will be better pleased with a series of short patriotic addresses in the place of the usual long oration. Leading local speakers will be invited to take part in this feature, and the time will be limited to from 5 to 10 minutes each, according to the number who respond to the committee's invitation.

The firemen solicit the patriotic cooperation of all citizens to make this celebration a credit to the community and worthy of the occasion.

D. H. Barrrell & Co.

Dear Sirs:

I have just had a talking old trial of separators here in the town of Irasburgh—the DeLaval No. 3; U. S. 600B; Sharples 600B; Sharples steam power, and No. 5 EMPIRE. On skinning the DeLaval stood 12-100 by "B. & W." bottles; 42 turns per min., U. S. stood 1-10 by "B. & W." bottles; 45 turns per minute, Sharples 600B, stood 35-100 by "B. & W." bottles; 47 turns per minute, EMPIRE "5" stood 3-100 by "B. & W." bottles; 45 turns per minute.

This is their advertised speed, you see, and I sold the EMPIRE. This is the first good, fair trial I have had where the man was going to buy the one that did the best work. The Empire ran 135 lbs. in 16 1/2 minutes, or 505 lbs. per hour.

Yours Respectfully,

F. L. True.

For more than a hundred years the Shakers have been studying the remedial properties of plants. They have made many discoveries, but their greatest achievement was made last year. It is a cordial that contains already digested food, and is a digester of food. It is effective in removing distress after eating, and creates an appetite for more food so that eating becomes a pleasure. Pale, thin people become plump and healthy under its use. It arrests the wasting of consumption. There has never been such a step forward in the cure of indigestion as this Shaker Cordial. Your druggist will be glad to give you a little book descriptive of the product. Give the babies Laxol, which is Castor Oil made as palatable as honey.
