Editor of the HEADLIGHT:
I very much dislike going into public print, and am not at all fond of newspaper notoriety, but nevertheless I feel it my duty to say a few things at this time for the public eye. I say I feel it my duty because I think it is obligatory upon some one to defend the honor of the men of Tillamook, and the purity of its women, both of which were at least by imputations assailed by a certain person at a recent meeting “for women only” held in this city, and which meeting I attended.
I have lived in this little town for a number of years, and I believe that I am well acquainted with its people, and during that time I have attended a large number of dances, and think I know what I am talking about when I say that such disgraceful things as the speaker mentioned at his ill advised meeting do not occur at our dances. I have looked on at many of the dances, and I have yet to see the first case of improper posturing etc., described by the speaker, and I do not believe that there is a man in Tillamook who attends dances who would be guilty of such conduct on the floor of a ball room. But such posturing as the preacher described would be absolutely impossible to any one who is dancing. Walters must of necessity keep their bodies well apart or it is impossible for them to make the steps required in the waltz. Such dancing as the speaker described is absolutely impossible, for persons in such a position can not dance.
But suppose that young men were inclined to be vicious, would they be foolish enough to go into a ball room where they are directly under the eyes of the public, including the fathers and mothers and brothers of the girls they are dancing with, to make improper advances? They would not dare to do so even if they desired, and to say that they would, is to make them out fools as well as knaves.
In all the years in which I have danced I have never had a gentleman do anything that I could take the least exception to, and I believe that nine out of ten women, if questioned, would say the same thing. Respectable women are not afraid of being insulted in the ball room. My mother danced, and with my father's approval, and afterward with my husband's approval. Of course I have always considered myself privileged to select whom I danced with, and when I knew that men were intoxicated I refused them, but in a new country like this, one dances with all kinds of people, but I have yet the first man to find who has offered me any insult. And I may further say that I believe my experience to be that of women in general.

As to the men I do not believe that they go to dances with such ideas in their heads. If they did they wouldn't bring their wives, sisters and sweethearts and daughters as they do, for no man would willfully expose them to contamination of evil or to the wives of evil minded men as the preacher insinuated. I resent this imputation on the honor of our men as much as the insinuation on the purity of our women, for I know it to be unmerited and false. I presume there are dives and other horrid places where such things as he describes occur, but they don't occur in Tillamook.
As to what occurs after dances, I don't know any more than I know what occurs after prayer meetings or after any other young people's meetings in churches. I don't pretend to know, but I have observed this, that young women who go to dances usually go well attended while young people who go to church services too often go alone thus inviting evil.
I don't care to be considered as fighting the churches, but since the men of Tillamook went protest us from such attacks I feel that some one should, and in this case it seems to have depended on the weak arm of
A Tillamook Woman.
When I get time—
I know what I shall do;
And read them through and through
When I get time—
I'll write some letters then
That I have owned for week and weeks
To many, many men.
When I get time—
I'll pay those calls I owe,
And with those bills,
Those countless bills,
I will not be so slow.
When I get time—
I'll regulate my life
In such a way that I may get Acquainted with my wife.
When I get time—
Oh, glorious dream of bliss!
A month, a year, ten years from now—
But I can't finish this—
I have no time.
