

HEADLIGHT X-RAYS

The steamer Truckee is expected in at any time.

Thread, 3 spools for 10 cts at the Racket Store.

D. Patchen is slowly recovering from an attack of paralysis.

Several of our young friends received bicycles on this boat.

Corsets and Ladies Vests very cheap at the Racket Store.

Louis Level left for Woods on Wednesday. He expects to remain about a week.

J. E. Tuttle and Dr. Hawke went to Nehalem, Sunday night, returning on Monday morning.

B. C. Lamb will have another drawing for a high grade Bicycle in the near future. See him about it.

Don't forget to go to La Mode Millinery Parlors and get one of those hats that are selling so cheap. Get one for the 4th of July.

Mr. Hughes, wife and child have broken up house keeping, and taken up their residence at the Allen House.

Mr. Reynolds of the Elite Photograph Parlors is fitting up an elegant reception room in his building.

Crack! crack! fizz! fizz! bang! bang! BANG!—fireworks of all kinds at the Racket Store. Come and see 'em.

If you want to make a noise on the Fourth of July and lack the fire crackers to do it with, the Racket Store will help you out.

A good second hand buggy for sale, both pole and shaves, for $15.00 if sold in the next few days, or $12.00 without pole, at A. Letcher's.

Dr. Tatom the "painless tooth extractor" and dentist in town. He is staying at the Allen house and is prepared to do work for those requiring anything in his line.

Cohn and Co. will pay 12½ cts. for solid packed keg butter.

The professional card of Dr. C. E. Hawke appears in another column. Mr. Hawke's office is at the Allen House, and he is ready to attend to all professional calls at any time of day or night. Telephone No. 7.

Engineer Holcombe has received orders, from Washington, to forward estimates on the cost of surveying Tillamook bar with a view to making improvements on the same. Mr. Holcombe has been looking about for the necessary appliances, and the probability is that he will be returned here in a short time to make the survey.

You may think it's a waste of space to advertise one item at a time. It isn't. Even if the reader doesn't go to the store, she is impressed by the fact that there is a special bargain at Cohn & Co.'s and that it's blankets to-day. She may not need blankets, but she will look out for Cohn & Co.'s ad to-morrow to see if it's something that she does want.

A social dance was given at Charlie Curtis's house on Long Prairie last Saturday night. The party consisted mostly of residents of Fairview, South Prairie, and Long Prairie, also a number from town. The music was unusually fine, and every one united in saying that there had not been a pleasanter party given on the prairie for a long time.

W. N. Carter, formerly editor of the Albina Courier, was in town Monday morning enroute to Portland by wheel. Mr. Carter has been taking a pleasure trip through this county, and is much impressed with its resources and future prospects.

The HEADLIGHT has been doing some handsome poster work lately. Some handsome fonts of large poster type have been added to our stock. If you need anything in the poster line call and see our samples. The HEADLIGHT office is the only place in the county where such work can be done.

The dynamite fiends who have been at work on Trask river have been routed out from there, and are now at work somewhere on the upper waters of the Wilson river. If caught they will be summarily dealt with—in fact, there may be rougher handling in store for them than the law may warrant.

Mrs. R. R. Hays is making preparations to take place after the conclusion of her school. Something really nice is promised and expected.

Glynn Alley, who has been in the Forest Grove University for a number of years, passed through here on Sunday remaining over Sunday night. He is on his way to his home in Nehalem for a visit to his parents. He will return to school this fall. Mr. Alley says that the school is in excellent condition. President McLelland is now in the east endeavoring to raise $100,000 endowment, which if he succeeds in doing will be supplemented with $50,000 more by Dr. D. K. Pearson, of Chicago. Mr. McLelland at last reports lacked but $10,000 of having the entire amount.

Base Ball

Our base ball reporter was out on the diamond as usual last Sunday, and reports as follows: Tillamook nine—men: 5, Tillamook nine—kids: 1. The kids were apparently rattled on the first inning. The game was postponed on account of the swimming lesson in Trask slough, and for various other reasons. For full particulars inquire of the umpire.

B. R., Reporter.

Notice for Bids.

On Saturday, June 20th 1897, at the creamery south of town, at 2 p. m., I will receive bids for the construction of a 200 ft. trestle on the road between said creamery and Trask river.

All who wish to bid on said work must be there, as I will explain what I want done at that time.

W. W. Conder.

BORN.

Reynolds—In Tillamook, Oregon, Monday, June 14th, to the wife of Frank Reynolds, a son.

Stokes—At Forest Grove Oregon, May 30th, to the wife of C. B. Stokes, a daughter. Many persons here will remember Mrs. Stokes as Miss Lola Bester. The happy father wears a grin of smile. The girl weighs 8 pounds.

The Fish Liar's Club.

The Fish Liar's Club held an emergency meeting on Sunday evening in the back room of a wet goods establishment. A chapter was read from the book of Jonah. The narrative of how the whale threw up Jonah was commented on at some length by the president, who observed that Jonah must have worn his rubber boots for several days without changing his socks, to have had such an effect on the whale, and he thought that a new emetic might be suggested by the incident to be known as ext. soc., but a young doctor present observed that as it took three days for it to operate, the patient might be dead before he succeeded in relieving himself of the contents of his stomach.

The emergency for which the meeting was called was to deal with the dynamiters, who now infest our streams. It was decided to print 10,000 pea-green posters, of the size of Charlie Reynolds' "not for ladies only" dance posters, and paste them up along all the streams, requesting everybody who read them "not to say anything about it," but, stating that we had a detective on the track of the dynamiters. It was further decided to send a courier ahead of the detective, heralding his coming. It is earnestly hoped that the special detective will, by this means, succeed in capturing the dynamiters some time about the middle of the next century.

Ex-Governor Bowers said he was certain that there was some dynamiting being done. Some days ago he was seated on a log overlooking a pellucid pool in Horn creek. He saw a trout about 12 inches long engaged in the somewhat difficult gastronomic feat of swallowing a mud cat. He had swallowed the cat fish, tail first, as far as the protruding fins and had just placed the cat fish's head against a rock, preparatory to pushing it down. Just then came the explosion. It hit the trout's tail, and drove the cat fish down its throat, but with such violence that it split the trout in three pieces, endwise. The cat fish emerged at the tail end of the trout, and after shaking itself together, proceeded immediately to swallow the trout. He said that if dynamite and mud cats proposed to stand together he was firmist the whole business.

The Coroner arose at this juncture, and remarked that dynamite wasn't the only thing to be guarded against. He believed that this thing of washing Tillamook sinners in our trout streams should be stopped. Every batch that was washed, he said, raised particular hob. Their sins floated down stream, green as verdigris, and, even as the devil entered into the swine at Gadara, so this entered into the fish and raised gehenna. Such conduct as those trout were guilty of was positively scandalous. They rioted, and fought, stole each others worms and crawfish, jumped each others claims, threw all kinds of missiles at each other, stole each others salmon eggs and misbehaved generally. He was afraid to eat trout caught in streams filled with the cast off sins of other people, for fear it might raise the dence with himself.

At this moment the county clerk arose to give a supplement to his "skinned pole and basket" story, but there was a howl of objections. The editor and deputy clerk averred that they had skinned all the siders on Skookum lake, and nary a fish could they get to climb them. The clerk wanted to explain, the jeweler had a new fly to describe, the cashier had tried a new dog, and the barber wanted to tell his experience as a detective. Just then a bottle was heard to pop in the next room, and in just three quarters of a second the club room was empty.

Coming Attractions

Tillamook's New Opera House to be Opened by the Famous Frank Readick Co.

The handsome and commodious new opera house will be opened on Friday and Saturday, June 25th and 26th, under the most auspicious circumstances by the world renowned Readick Dramatic Company, who have just finished an extended engagement of six weeks at Cordray's theatre in Portland, headed by Frank Readick and Miss Millie Freeman, and supported by a host of others who are coming recommended as stars of no mean lustre.

The opening play will be the sensational and interesting drama Unknown and followed on Saturday by the Fugitive, closing with Kidnapped, all of which plays are said to be full of strong sensational situations, and are made more realistic by the vast amount of special scenery carried by the company. Each act ends with a thrilling dramatic climax.

The Opera House management are to be congratulated on securing such an array of talent to open their house, and at the same time start a season of amusement in Tillamook City.

Popular eastern prices will prevail, reserved seats on sale at Lamb's. Get in early and avoid the rush at the box office.

Mrs. May returned from Portland Tuesday evening.
