EXPRESSION OF PUBLIC OPINION.

But for which the Editor Does not Hold Himself Responsible

This department of the HEADLIGHT is devoted to communications received from the people and all are invited to contribute to it. The subjects treated must be subjects of general interest. Under no consideration whatever will anything of a personal nature be admitted.

Should Visit the Schools.

Editor HEADLIGHT: I have been impressed with the value of Prof. Walker's article in your last issue, on "Education for the People." I think it does in that respect, but while we are at it, let us also elect a superintendent that will make it his business to visit every school at least once a year in the county. This subdivision of Sec. 25 of the school laws of Oregon, imperatively commands. The common sense definition of the law is that he shall visit every district at least once during its school term session if it is only of three months duration each year. And there to "aid, instruct, inspire teachers as to the best methods of teaching, governing and conducting school," etc.; also, "he shall carefully observe the condition of the school house and surroundings, note all defects, and notify the board of directors of the same." Now how can he do this, unless he visits the schools.

A failure to perform a duty as provided in Sec. 25 lays the superintendent (see preceding issue) to the amount of $100.00. Now how many schools has the present incumbent visited during his term up to date? The writer may not be thoroughly posted in the matter, yet, as far as his knowledge goes, Mr. Walker has not visited as yet, more than two schools out side of the city of Tillamook where he is employed as teacher. If I am mistaken in this matter I will stand ready to be corrected.

While having great respect for Prof. Walker, as a citizen, teacher and his generally efficiency in his office with the exceptions above noted, yet as the law is imperative in this matter, we wonder how long this direction of duty is to be continued.

Taxpayer.

We live in a country of which the principal scourge is stomach-trouble.

It is more widespread than any other disease, and, very nearly, more dangerous.

One thing that makes it so dangerous is that it is so little understood.

If it were better understood, it would be more feared, more easily cured, less universal than it is now.

So, those who wish to be cured, take Shaker's Digestive Cordial, because it goes to the root of the trouble as no other medicine does. The pure, harmless, curative herbs and plants, of which it is composed, are what render it so certain and, at the same time, so gentle a cure. It helps and strengthens the stomach, purifies and tones up the system.

Sold by druggists, price 10 cents to $1.00 per bottle.

Commissioner Wheeler.

As noted in an editorial in this issue the Oregonian of the 9th, inst. contained an item that C. H. Wheeler had been naturalized, at Oregon City on the 8th, inst. The HEADLIGHT thought there might be some mistake in the matter, and so refrained from making any comment on the matter until it could be investigated. A letter was at once written, by a gentleman here, to the County Clerk of Clackamas county, before whom the naturalization was effected, asking information on the subject and the following reply was received:

County Clerk's Office, Clackamas Co. Oregon City, Or., Mar. 15, 1893.

Dear Sir:

In regard to C. H. Wheeler, I think he represented while here that he was from Tillamook and had a sawmill.

He took out his final papers, being from Canada.

Truly yours,

Elmer Dixon Clerk.

This letter proves beyond a doubt that the C. H. Wheeler, who was naturalized on the 8th, inst., and the C. H. Wheeler who for the past two years has held the office of County Commissioner are one and the same man. Mr. Wheeler certainly must have known that the law required that he be a citizen of the United States and of the State of Oregon, and his conduct in the matter places him in anything but an enviable light. Mr. Wheeler should resign his office at once, and in case he refuses to do so he should be compelled to resign.

Speaks Highly of Tillamook.

The following letter from B. S. Pague, Local Forecaster Official and Section Director for Oregon, written to Capt. Joseph Dawson will be of interest to our readers.

Captain Joseph J. Dawson, My dear Sir:-

I have to acknowledge receipt of your monthly meteorological Record for February, 1893, with your most excellent notes.

I wish to thank you for the copy of the "HEADLIGHT" and am pleased with the very complimentary editorial concerning your observations. Your remarks relative to Tillamook County being very wet, I considered as being somewhat sarcastic but as the remarks show the heavy rainfall, that indicates that you have a mild temperature, that you have an abundant timber supply, and that you have the ideal conditions for making your county a lumbering camp and a dairy county. There is no reason why Tillamook County should not supply this city with all the butter and cheese necessary for our people.

With kind personal regards, I am Very respectfully, B. S. Pague

Morgan Henry Parkhurst.

Morgan Henry Parkhurst, notice of whose death was published in our last issue was born in Herkimer county, New York, June 24th 1831, and died March 10th 1893, being 37 years 8 months and 16 days old. Some time ago Mr. Parkhurst was taken with acute bronchitis which developed rapidly into consumption from the effects of which he died. His death though not unexpected came very suddenly. Mr. Parkhurst had just finished reading the local paper and turning to his wife intimated that he was ready for his supper. A few moments afterward he began to tremble violently and shortly afterward expired. Mr. Parkhurst's father was a soldier in the late war and was killed in the Battle of the Wilderness. His mother, a brother and three sisters, and his wife, one child and three step children survive him.

Scolded the Wrong Woman.

A laughable but rather embarrassing case of mistaken identity occurred the other day in a large draper's shop, says Tit bits. A gentleman who is a little fond of joking entered the shop for the purpose of meeting his wife at a certain counter. Sure enough, there stood a lady dressed, to his eye, at least, just like the woman he was after.

Her back was turned and no one was near her, so he quietly approached, took her by the arm and said in a voice of simulated severity: "Well, here you are, spending my money as usual, eh?"

The face turned quickly toward him was not his wife's; it was that of an acid, angry, keen-eyed woman of about fifty years, who attracted the attention of everybody in that part of the shop by saying in a loud and shrill voice: "No, I ain't spending your money or no other man's money, and I'll be bound to say so."

"I beg your pardon, madam," cried the confused gentleman. "I supposed you were my wife, and—"

"Well, I just ain't your wife, nor no other man's wife, thank fortune, to be jowed at every time I buy a yard of ribbon! I pity your wife if you go about shaking her like you did me. If I was her I'd—"

The charmed joker waited to hear no more, but made his way out of the shop amid the titters and sly chuckles of those who had witnessed his confusion.

The Child Wanted to Know.

Business was just closing in a city bank when the dignified president came in behind the rail and asked one of the clerks—

"Can you tell me the story of Jack and the Bean-stalk?" I tried to tell my grandchild last evening and I was all mixed up. I couldn't do it."

"Jack and the Bean-stalk? Why certainly," said one of the young men. "It was this way: Jack brought home some beans, and his mother threw them in the well, and—"

"Yes, I know, but where did Jack get the beans?" asked the president.

"Get the beans?"

"Yes."

"Why—he had the beans, and the stalk grew up out of the well."

Then the teller told what he knew about the story, getting in here and there a scrap of Jack and the Giant Killer and other nursery lingoes to show that at one time he was acquainted with little folks lore.

"But where did Jack get the beans? That is what I want to know," inquired the persistent president.

"I can tell you all about that," said the newly-fledged bookkeeper. "He traded his mother's cow for them, and his mother was so angry she threw the beans out of the window, not into the well, and the stalk grew—"

"Never mind about the stalk. I've found out where Jack got the beans. That's where my grandchild puzzled me," said the president, and the vaults were locked and he hastened home to straighten out the story for the little one.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF THE STATE OF OREGON FOR THE COUNTY OF TILLAMOOK.

C. Thayer and E. Thayer Plaintiffs vs The Nehalem Mill Co. and Frank Patton Defendants

Notice is hereby given that by virtue of an execution, judgment, order and decree duly issued out of and under the seal of the above entitled court in the above entitled cause, to me duly directed and dated the 24th day of January 1893, upon a decree rendered and entered in said court on the 7th day of March 1892, in favor of the above named plaintiffs C. Thayer and E. Thayer and against the above named defendants. The Nehalem Mill Co. and Frank Patton for the sum of $1,377.35 with interest thereon at the rate of 8 per cent per annum from the 12th day of January 1892 and for costs and disbursements of this suit, taxed at $75.55 commanding me to sell the following described real property to wit: An undivided one half interest in all the Lots and Blocks in Nehalem City, Tillamook County, Oregon, except Lots 6, 7 & 8 in Block 13, Lots 7 & 8 in block 3 and Block 28. Therefore, by virtue of said execution, judgment, order, decree and order of sale and in compliance with the commands of said writ I will on the 6th day of February 1893, at the hour of 10 o'clock A. M. at the front door of the County Court House in the city of Tillamook, said County and State, sell at public auction subject to redemption, to the highest and best bidder for cash in hand, all the right, title and interest which the within named defendants had at the date of the mortgage mentioned in the complaint, or now have in or to the above described real property, or any thereof, to satisfy said execution, judgment, order, decree, interest, costs and all accruing costs.

H. H. Alderman, Sheriff of Tillamook Co., Oregon.
