If Germany intends to look after all its foreign trade on the Manila basis it will provide one ironclad to an average of one peanut stand.

The German Emperor's game of bluff doesn't seem to be working with any great degree of success. The trouble is that Dewey knows just what Billy holds in his hand.

The shot that Dewey fired across the bows of Admiral Diedrich's ship was a formal warning, not only to Diedrichs but to the whole German Empire that America proposes to stand on her rights, German bluff, bluster and venom to the contrary notwithstanding.

There are some of our people who express great fears of the damage that the great German army could do in case that the present strained relations with the country should terminate in actual hostilities. There can be no doubt that Germany has a standing army far superior to any fighting force that we could put in the field for many months, but as America commands the seas so far as Germany is concerned it is not easy to see how the German "War Lord" could land his forces on our shores. A conflict between the German navy and the American navy would show about the same results as that between the navies of the United States and Spain. It would be a matter of only a few months to either sink the German navy or drive it from the seas.

The preservation and increase of the food fishes of this State is a thing that should command more attention than it has hitherto had. There can be no doubt that the supply of fresh trout is growing scarcer every year. In this county the trout fishing is not half as good as it was a dozen years ago and each year is just a little worse than its predecessor. We presume the same condition of things prevail in other sections of the State. The remedy must be twofold. First we should more carefully protect the supply of fish already on hand, and secondly hatcheries should be established on every important stream in the country.

Now that the fishing season has begun it will be well for our officers to see that the law relative to throwing various kinds of offal into the sloughs and rivers is strictly enforced. Especially should the people of this city be protected against the pollution of Hoquartion slough by throwing into it the heads, entrails and other remains of salmon, salted along its shores. Last year the water was polluted for months by the indiscriminate dumping of such matter into it. The slough which is naturally an unusually beautiful and clear sheet of water was rendered utterly unsightly, the stench was intolerable and the health of the people was seriously endangered. Timely warning should be given to all salmon poachers along the water front and the law be strictly enforced.

The Netarts people are complaining, and justly too, that the county does not open the Cape Mears road, from the Tillamook ferry to the beach and the light house. The county has gone to the trouble and expense of building a good bridge across the Traek and of graveling the road as far as the Pacific Lumbering Company's Mill. The ferry is in good working order but the road from the ferry on to the light house and Netarts is impassable when a very little work would open it for travel. We would respectfully call the attention of the new county court to the matter. If that road and bridge was built for the benefit of the Pacific Lumbering Company alone it should have been done by it and at its expense, but if it was built for the public, the whole length of the road should be kept open that the people, of the county, may have the benefit.

Fishing out of season and by methods which the law proscribes should be prohibited by a strict enforcement already existing laws. The man who dynamites trout or who catches them out of season or with nets should be fined so heavily as to make him more careful as to future violations of the law. In this connection we believe it would be a wise thing for the law to offer a bounty on the heads of fish ducks and perhaps, king fishers. These birds are utterly worthless and a very few of them annually destroy more fish than are consumed by all the inhabitants of the county put together. A few thousand dollars judiciously distributed in bounties would rid the state of these pests and contribute enormously to the preservation of the fish in our streams. The importance of establishing hatcheries for trout should not be over-looked. These hatcheries are inexpensive and easily managed and their benefits are so entirely out of all proportion to the expense and labor involved that it seems strange more of them have not been established long ago.

An Editor's Hard Lot.

A melancholy picture of an editor's life in the State of Washington is drawn by the Re-align (Mich.) Sentinel: "There are always those who will kick. For instance, if you publish jokes with whiskers on them, some will say that you ought to be in a lunatic joint. If you don't print something to smile at, they say you are a pessimistic fossil. If you spread yourself and write a good, original article, they will say it is stolen. If you reprint an article, they say you can't write. If you say a deserving word for a man, you are partial; if you compliment the ladies, the men are jealous; and if you don't the verdict of the allies is to the effect that your paper is not fit to use in the construction of a hustle. If you stay in your office, you are afraid to remain on the streets; if you do, you are lazy. If you look seedy, you are squandering your money; if you wear good clothes, you are a dude and don't pay for them. If you play a social game of any kind and get stuck, you are a fish; if you win, you are a tin horn, and so it goes through one continual round of pleasant complications."

Stock Value in the John Day Country.

Pendleton Tribune One of the Jones brothers said in respect to prices of cattle on the John Day that dry cows were worth $25; cows and calves from $25 to 27.50, and yearling heifers, $14 to $1, a head. There are still a great many cattle in that section, and although there are no large herds owned by one man, there are a great many small bands, and fatteners are beginning to give the business more attention. Where a few years ago, and even last year, cows and heifers were sold both when they were cheap and high-priced, men are now keeping such stock and improving the breeds.

A Sweet Toad.

A. W. King, one morning last week, discovered a large toad perched on one side of his bee hive and catching bees as they alighted near. Mr. King killed the toad, and upon dissecting it found 32 bees in its stomach. —Ex.
