To take a part of the Philippines and leave the rest to be a constant source of irritation will not tend to preserve the peace of the world.

The government of Spain has but one trophy of its conflict with this country, and that is the remnants of the battle-ship Maine on the bottom of Havana harbor.

California is rather a large state with many varied interests and industries and we very much doubt whether a candidate with but a single idea, like "Single tax Macquire will fill the bill for governor of such a state.

President McKinley is receiving congratulations from all parts of the world. The fact that he did everything in his power to prevent war, and that he did everything in his power to make it short, sharp, and decisive when once it had to be commenced, is remembered by all those who send in their greetings.

Of course the administration is to blame for the low price of wheat. Of course the president and Mark Hanna stopped eating bread for a few days, hence the demand for wheat ceased.

The trial of Mrs. Botkin for the murder of Mrs. Dunning promises to be one of the most celebrated in the annals of criminal jurisprudence.

The South Methodist Church has just finished an interesting annual conference session in this state. Just why the two great branches of the Methodist Church still find it necessary to maintain separate organizations, when the "ungodly" who fought out the issues of the war have long since forgiven and forgotten their former hostility, is one of the mysteries which unregenerate minds cannot comprehend.

Just at present the officers of the United States army do not seem to constitute a very happy family. Their relations are more of the ordinary "cat and dog" type. The general public is well assured that there is abundant cause for a row but does not feel prepared to fix the blame.

If Uncle Sam expects the young men of the nation to respond promptly to their country's call it behooves him to take better care of them after they have enlisted. Any man worthy of the name is willing to die for his country, on the field of battle, but none are willing to die in unhealthy camps, of disease and neglect because some sleek fat officer fails to perform his duty.

The French people who only a few short months ago were howling for the blood of Dreyfus, the supposed traitor, are now howling just as loud for the blood of the men who accomplished his ruin, and again threats of war are heard in the gay French capital.

French "honor" like Spanish honor is of a kind and quality which to the average American is incomprehensible. When colonel Henry who forged the letter that condemned Dreyfus, was accused of his crime, he indignantly denied it, but when finally his soldierly honor was appealed to, he admitted the crime.

If even a small fraction of the charges made against some of the army officials, relative to mismanagement and inefficiency, are true some one needs to be court-martialed and severely punished. The fact that so many of our soldier boys—all of them the very pick of the physical manhood of the nation are dying in camp of Typhoid fever and other "filth diseases" proves that some one is criminally guilty of allowing them to live under conditions that produce such diseases.

The peace circular of the Czar of Russia while attracting a great deal of attention amongst the powers of Europe and a number of congratulatory messages from peace loving but visionary ecclesiastics is hardly taken seriously by any one conversant with the facts.

The peace circular seems little short of ridiculous. When it is remembered that the military peace footing of Russia is one million armed men and that she has just accomplished one of the most aggressive pieces of land grabbing ever undertaken by any nation in time of peace and that Russia is even now meditating further aggressive action that may involve the whole civilized world in war, that great "peace circular" over which visionary theorists are going wild appears in its true light, simply as a hypocritical blind to deceive other nations into inaction while Russia digests her recent big bite of China and prepares for yet another. It may be safely concluded that while human nature remains as it is—and that will be always—the era of universal peace will not dawn, and, furthermore, that should a genuine peace circular ever be issued by any nation it will not emanate from the most cruel, war-like and despotic of all the nations of the earth.

Poor emperor "Billy" is in despair. The Czar has stolen his thunder. If there was any one thing of which "Billy" is more impressed than any thing else it is that he, "Billy," contains within himself all the wisdom of the earth. He is the world's greatest ruler, warrior, actor, preacher, author, or so far as that is concerned, every thing else. And "Billy" had intended, shortly, to perform an act which was to thrill the Christian World. He was going to visit the Holy land and, there, standing with one foot in the "holy sepulchre" and the other somewhere in the neighborhood of the top of the mount of olives, one mailed fist grasping his sword and the other over his heart, he would give himself up for the time being to holy emotions, to a contemplation of his own greatness and the ghost of his departed grandfather, and, then and there, announced to the world that he and god were going to bring peace on earth and good will amongst men. But alas for the most Christian "Billy" of the "Mailed Fist," the Czar has stolen his thunder and left Billy with no other employment than to meditate on his own greatness and to continue to invite treason against his Christian brethren in France and his warfare on the bugs in American fruit.

The gold in the treasury and in the country at large is piling up to unprecedented figures, farm products bring high prices, business is better than has been at any previous time in seven or eight years, and the country is prosperous and happy. This is what the people set for putting the Republican party in power. Of course, part of the big stack of gold in the treasury is due to the war loan, and is, therefore, borrowed money. But the amount of gold in the country at large is greater than every before and this is not borrowed. Nor is there anything fictitious about the business activity and general prosperity. No sane person supposes that we would have this prosperity now if the election two years ago had gone the other way. The people did a grand day's work on November 3, 1896, when they smashed Bryanism.—Globe Democrat.
