We are asked to state that a meeting has been called for 7:30 p.m., at the M.E. Church, on Friday evening, to arrange for a united Christmas tree and entertainment. Members of all Christian churches are cordially invited to take part.
The committee appointed by Mayor Eddy to draw up a bill for the creation of a Port of Tillamook Commission has had several meetings, and it is expected the bill will be in shape in a few days so that it can be published in the near future.
Mr. J. P. Allen, who injured his leg a few weeks ago, has been having considerable trouble with it. It looked at one time as though the injury was going to develop to serious consequences, but the pain and inflammation having abated, it is much better now.
Ladies as a rule never do things by halves when they undertake to do anything. The ladies of the Presbyterian church made the court house, where the Presbyterians are holding service, small sweet and clean, showing that cleanliness is next to godliness.
Bro. Heins was the nice looking gentleman who was round bright and early on Friday morning to recover his lost badge, which he was glad had been found, for it had been presented to him. Printer's ink and a good country newspaper will soon advertise anything.
A Portland newspaper man writes the editor: "I am pleased to see you are giving the Tillamookers a first-class newspaper. I wish you success in your undertaking." Thanks, but it keeps one hustling to do so, and leaves no time to whittle wood on the street corners.
Mr. O. R. Chamberlain was in from Sand Lake on Friday, and informs us that the farmers in that vicinity expect to raise a thousand bushels of cranberries next season. He is canvassing the county with a book, the history of the recent war, which is edited by Thimball White.
When the $40 bill for water was read at the council meeting on Monday, each of the city dads gave a long drawn sigh, and after one of them had recovered his breath remarked: "Gentlemen, this is too much of a tax upon the city every month when we have to keep up the roads, with other expenses."
A complaint was made to the council on Monday evening about McKinley's deer being allowed to run at large, and which had knocked several children down and badly scared one lady with a child, which it also tried to get down. The marshal was instructed to notify Mr. McKinley to keep the deer up for it was a dangerous public nuisance.

The amount of money order business at the Tillamook post office for November embrace 348 domestic orders issued, the amount for which was $2,893.14; 82 money orders were paid, which amounted to $853.85. There were four international money orders issued amounting to $70, and 19 paid out, representing the sum of $1833.94. It will be seen that considerable more money was received at Tillamook county from foreign countries than was sent to them.
The city council on Monday evening had very little business to transact, for it principally consisted of ordering a number of bills to be paid, viz.: Frank Wheeler, $1.75; A. E. Imbler, $1.50; H. Chrenshaw, $1.50; J. J. Stewart, $1.50; F. A. Shanahan, $1.50; Mrs. Shanahan, $1.50; W. H. Reynolds $3.50; Frank Cerman, $1.50; Charles Bester, $1.50; W. C. King, $3; Water rent for Nov., $40; J. S. Lahmon, $31; C. N. Drew, $10; T. H. Goyme, $2; John Barker, $2; Tom Coats, $2; D. C. Pierce, $2; total, $107.75. The tame deer running around town was declared a nuisance and the marshal was ordered to take care of it providing the parties owning it did not.
Charles Hall, who left the city Thursday morning of last week for North Yamhill with Mayor B. L. Eddy, Mrs. Williams and child, and Mrs. Hutchings in his wagon, met with a bad accident at eight o'clock that night. It was his intention to make Sampson's mill that night. In going down the hill to that place Mr. Eddy preceded the team with a lantern. Part of the harness broke, throwing the tongue on the ground, and the wagon was capsized, turning the occupants out. Fortunately none of the passengers were injured, although they had a narrow escape. The accident scared the team and it went pell mell down the hill, landing in the mill pond, where one of the horses were drowned. The accident is loss to Mr. Hall of about $50.
We have received a copy of the general laws and joint resolutions and memorials passed and adopted at the special session of the state legislature, per kindness of State Printer W. H. Leeds. The act to regulate fees to be charged and collected by the clerk of Tillamook county, is as follows: "Sec. 1. The fees hereafter to be charged and collected by the county clerk of Tillamook county, as ex-officio recorder of conveyances of said county, shall be the same as those fees prescribed for similar service in section 2339 of the general laws of Oregon, as compiled and annotated by William Lair Hill, the fees hereby prescribed being only for services pertaining to the duties of the county clerk as ex-officio recorder of conveyances of said Tillamook county. Sec. 2. That all acts or parts of acts in conflict herewith are hereby repealed."
The members and friends of the M.E. Sunday school met at the parsonage on Tuesday evening to discuss and provide for Christmas entertainment and elected the following committee: Providing leaders, Mr. McCargar and Mr. Dunlap; soliciting funds, Miss Dora High and Miss Idella Ford; purchasing, T. H. Goyme and Dr. Hawke; programme, Mrs. Dunlap, Miss Ida High and Mrs. W. A. McGhee; decoration, Messrs. F. N. Wilson, W. A. McGhee, Rev. Dunlap, Clyde McGhee, Wicklund, Frank Mann, the Misses Luella Ford, Maggie Crawford, Dora High, Ida High, Nettie Watson, Ida Watson, Mrs. Fred Davies, F. N. Wilson, and Mrs. G. A. Edmunds; filling boxes, Mrs. Ford, Mrs. T. H. Goyme, Mrs. W. A. McGhee, and Mrs. Watson; distributing presents, Miss Ida Watson and Miss Bertha Leoper; calling names, Mr. B. L. Eddy and Mr. A. W. Severance.

BACK FROM MANILA.
And Visits Friends in Tillamook's Metropolis.
Mr. Lee M. Travis, of Company C., Oregon Volunteers, reached Tillamook city on Wednesday night on a visit to the editor of the HEADLIGHT. He, in common with a large number of the State University students at Eugene, volunteered their services when the call was first made for soldiers.
Mr. Travis graduated from the State University in 1897, and was studying law when hostilities with Spain broke out. He had distinguished himself at the university, for 1896 he was one of those chosen by the faculty to participate in the Oregon Inter-Collegiate Oratorical Association.
Mr. Travis was taken down with typhoid fever in Manila, and was sent home in the transport Rio de Janeiro. He spent about a month in the hospital at Presidio.
Mr. Travis remains in Tillamook city for several weeks, after which he has to report at Vancouver. He says:
Manila is not a desirable place to live in. Of course acclimation is possible, but the trouble is that acclimation consists in taking all the ambition and vigor out of one. The temperature is not generally above 90°, but there is so much moisture that the earth is continually steaming and the atmosphere is thick and sultry. All native animals are dwarfed. The horses are little creatures, such as we call Shetlands in a circus parade. The people are small, not to speak of the appalling prevalence of the most loathsome disease. They are inferior in every way to the Japanese. I would never be in favor of giving such people the right of suffrage.
But Manila, from a business standpoint, is a desirable acquisition. Vegetation springs up in most riotous profusion everywhere and tropical fruits and plants useful to commerce grow amazingly without any attention in the way of cultivation. With careful cultivation, one can hardly exaggerate the result. The policy of Spain for ages has been to retard commerce and to heavily tax all enterprise. American management is bound to do wonders. The law permitting only American ships to ply between American harbors will enlarge our shipping and our navy will have a place to coal with safety.
In regard to the treatment of the soldiers, I prefer to say nothing until I again wear citizens clothes. I admit, however, that the men are not satisfied in all respects.
I have frequently wished that I had joined the regular army and thus been with men trained to provide proper food and accommodations. The regulars suffered less from the causes which produced the most violent complaints from the volunteers.

My trip home made me forget many former hardships. We had first-class passage on a fine ship with a good captain. We stopped two days at Hong Kong, and other two days at Nagasaki, Japan. In filling a large trunk with curios, I had some dealing with the Japanese and Chinese, and I was surprised to find how much I had misjudged those races from specimens we have here.
The only shooting Travis did while in Manila was at two women who were trying to steal military stores one night when he was on guard.
Travis says the sailors on the American ships think their vessels can whip any ship.
All the Oregon Volunteers want to come home. Now that the excitement of the war is over they do not care about barrack life.
There is not nearly so much sickness in Manila as there was when we went there. The sewerage system was in a deplorable condition.
When Travis left Manila no women nurses had arrived at the army hospitals, at any rate not at Cavite. He said it seemed to him sometimes as if nobody there cared whether he lived or died, though he presumed all were doing their duty faithfully. The service was mechanical entirely, by men grown used to scenes of hardship, suffering and death. "There was lack of woman's nursing, there was death of woman's tears." His circulation was so low that his legs became numb and in his delirium he imagined the heartless doctors had stolen his legs so he could not get about or leave the place. He found a vast change when he reached the hospital at the Presidio, where women were employed, and he is convinced a great change for the better will come into the Manila hospitals when the women nurses are installed.
The fever-stricken patient feels the touch of his robust comrade to be rough and unsympathetic, and he longs for ministrations more gently and tender, which would do for him more than medicine would accomplish. Women miss the carnage of the battlefield and in many ways are qualified to give the service most needed by the sick soldier far from home.
Travis says, while he was in the hospital at Manila, that it put him in mind of being in a lunatic asylum with so many sick men out of their heads raving.
INVENTORY SALE.
Following January 1st, 1899, we shall invoice stock, and in order to reduce our stock as much as possible, we will offer our entire stock of MACKINTOSHES, CLOTHING, BOOTS AND SHOES, HATS AND CAPS, DRY GOODS and notions at cost.
Our stock is the largest in the county to select from. The sale will continue through the month of December, 1898, and will offer the best opportunity for saving you money that will again be offered in Tillamook for months to come.
EDMUNDS & Co.
