PRATTLE OF YOUNGSTERS.

A little girl in a town near Boston, who had gone to school but a short time, one day heard an older pupil remark: "Girls are made of rice, spice and everything nice." So directly after school she ran home to her mother and asked if it were true. "Supposing you try it," said her mother. So she planted some rice and some spice—evidently forgetting the "everything nice" in her hurry—and every day went out in the garden and carefully watered the little mound. In course of time a tiny leaf appeared and our enthusiastically happy little friend rushed in to her mother and joyfully exclaimed: "Mamma! mamma! sister has come!" She was now doubly attentive to her little "sister," and every spare moment was spent in watching the little leaf. But as time went on and there was no appreciative gain in the size of the plant she grew impatient of waiting and in her efforts to make it grow faster pulled it up by the roots.

Mrs. Naborly—So your name is the same as your papa's, Harry?
 Harry—Yes'm.

Mrs. Naborly—How do you know when your mamma calls whom she means?
 Harry—Oh, she always calls me kind of coaxing.

"Ellen, has George come home from school yet?" called Mrs. Snaggs to her servant.

"Yes, ma'am," came back the answer.

"Where is he?"
 "I haven't seen him."

"How do you know, then, that he's home?"

"Because the cat's a-hidin' under the dresser."

"I am sorry, Tommy," said Mr. Tucker, with grave rebuke in his voice, "to see such a report card as this from your teacher. In arithmetic you stand only 59."

"Them figgers ain't right, paw," sniffed Tommy. "I worked like sixty on my rithmetic."

Johnnie was trying on his first pair of trousers.

They were a great success.

Johnnie looked at them critically from every possible point of view.

Then he glanced up.

"Now, see here," he said in a tone of authority, "I ain't a-doin' to have muvver go froo dese pockets every night. No, sir!"

"And you must remember, George, that the good things of this life will be dealt out to you in just about the way you deserve them."

"Are you sure, mamma?"
 "Yes, my dear."

"Well, I don't know about it, mamma. Yesterday you said I didn't deserve any pie, an' after dinner I sneaked in the pantry and eated a whole one. Guess meebey you don't always know what I deserve."

The Time to Trust.

What is the time to trust?
 Is it when all is calm.
 When waves the victor's palm,
 And life is one glad psalm
 Of joy and praise?
 Nay; but the time to trust
 Is when the waves beat high,
 When storm clouds fill the sky.

When is the time to trust?
 Is it when friends are true?
 Is it when comforts woo?
 And in all we say and do
 We meet but praise?
 Nay; but the time to trust
 Is when we stand alone,
 And summer birds have flown
 And every prop is gone.

What is the time to trust?
 Is it some future day,
 When you have tried your way,
 And learned to trust and pray
 By bitter woe?
 Nay; but the time to trust
 Is in the moment's need,
 Poor, broken, bruised and red!
 Poor, troubled soul, make speed.

What is the time to trust?
 Is it when hopes beat high,
 When sunshine glides the sky,
 And joy and ecstasy
 Fill all the heart?
 Nay; but the time to trust
 Is when our joy is fled,
 When sorrow bows the head
 And all is cold and dead,
 All else but trust.

A crusade against American chewing gum has set in in London, the health authorities issuing a warning against its use and declaring that it is more dangerous than the ice cream sold from the penny carts.

Veneer cutting has reached such perfection that a single elephant's tusk thirty inches long is now cut in London into a sheet of ivory 150 inches long and twenty inches wide, and some sheets of rosewood and mahogany are only about a fiftieth of an inch thick.

A few days ago a well dressed intelligent looking woman stepped up to one of the attendants in the Boston public library and said: "Is there such a book as 'Even How' in this library?" The attendants are used to such conundrums and it was only a second or two before it was ascertained that Sir Walter Scott's "Ivanhoe" was what was wanted.

Isaac Wyman, a prominent citizen of Salem, Mass., holds a note for $40,000 given to his grandfather in 1776 with the signature of George Washington attached. The note was given by Washington for money advanced by Mr. Wyman's great grand-father to supply the pressing needs of the revolutionary army, of which Washington had been placed in charge.

New Routes for Drummers.

When the commercial travelers return from present trips; And walk into the office, to obtain their new route-slips, Perhaps they will encounter some surprising changes when They glance o'er the schedule (some sections I append).

"From Chicago unto Denver, and work Seattle too— Then take a run up the Yukon and Dawson City, do.

Come back to San Francisco, next Hawaiian Islands take From there, perhaps, the Ladrones Isles you had better investigate.

"Now work our new possessions round Manila, best you can; And I reckon we will branch out and try China and Japan.

There is bound to be some business 'long the new Siberian route; But don't bother now with Europe—from Moscow southward 'scoot.'

"Work in Asia Minor, before the Germans gobble all The trade, the kaiser's trip most surely will install.

Then tackle the Nile valley, and Fashoda and Khartoum, Wake up with our advertising and make those sections boom.

"Run around by Madagascar—next Paul Kruger interview— Then see if Cecil Rhodes don't want a cargo lot or two.

Take the steamer then for Sydney, but don't linger long time there, For we want you quick as possible to get to Buenos Ayres.

"Through Mexico and Yucatan, a flying trip will do, For we want the Isle of Cuba worked through and through, And after a short canvass in Porto Rico's little isle, Perhaps you may run in a week—just to see your wife awhile."

Great Scott; if the "Expansionists" continue to annex, I wonder where the firm will think of sending us next?
