TOLD OUT OF COURT.

"What is your occupation?" the lawyer ask a boy on the witness stand.
 "I work on my father's farm," the witness replied.
 "You don't do much but sit around, do you?"
 "Well, I help my father."
 "But you're worthless, aren't you?" was the attorney's decisive question.
 "I don't know whether I am or not," retorted the witness warmly.
 Then the attorney took another tact. "Your father's a worthless man isn't he?"
 "Well he works about the farm."
 The attorney here fastened an eye which gleamed with triumph on the jury and nailed the boy with a glance from the other and said: "Isn't it true that your father doesn't do enough work to prevent his becoming called worthless?"
 The boy had chafed under these unpleasant questions, relates the Baltimore News, and summoning up courage, he said loudly: "If you want to know so had if my father's worthless, ask him; there he is, on the jury."

When Robert F. Thomas was called as a witness in a suit he had brought to recover a partial payment which he had made on a horse that he considered was not as represented at the sale, he asked the court's permission to pray before giving his testimony. This being granted he prayed aloud for ten minutes, asking that everybody might testify that the jury must see the horse was not sound, and would be inviting a blessing on the "good democratic judge" (who was trying the case), who had just been endorsed by a solid republican party of Lehigh county. The jury brought a verdict against Mr Thomas and he will have to pay the balance due on the horse.

Jim Webster was being tried for bribing a colored witness, Sam Johnson, to testify falsely, relates the Detroit Free Press.

"You say the defendant offered you $50 to testify in his behalf?" ask the lawyer of Sam.

"Yes, sah."

"Now, repeat what he said, using his exact words."

"He said he would gib me $50 if I—"

"He didn't speak in the third person, did he?"

"No sah; he tuck good care dat dar were no third person round; dar was only two—us two."

"I know that, but he spoke to you in the first person, didn't he?"

"I was de fus pusson myself, sah."

"You don't understand me. When he was talking to you did he say, 'I will pay you $50?'"

"No, sah; he didn't say nothin' 'bout you payin' me $50. Your name wasn't mentioned, 'ceptin' he told me ef eber I got into trouble you was de best lawyer in San Antonio to fool de judge and de jury—in fac' you was de best in town to cover up rekletly."

For a brief, breathless moment the trial was suspended.

Village Lawyer (from Skeduk) — You think I must have lots of idle time? By George, I can beat any man in forty miles of my town playing checkers!

Village Lawyer (from Spiketown)—I can't play checkers, but I can lean back in a chair and balance it on its hind legs for fifteen minutes by the watch, and there ain't another man in my congressional district who can do that.

CONNUAIALITES.

A Kansas City couple gave as an excuse for marrying suddenly that both had the "blues."

Baron Rolf Zederstrom, who is to marry Madame Patti, is only 25 years old. The diva is 55.

The "marrying squire" of Jeffersonville, Ind., is dead and his books show that he had performed 9,000 marriage ceremonies.

Miss Pauline Astor, the only daughter of William Waldorf Astor, is reported to be engaged to marry the young duke of Roxburgh. Miss Astor is 19 years old.

As a wedding present to his daughter Franklin Farrel, millionaire, of Ansonia, Conn., gave his check for $250,000. As a wedding present to the bridegroom, he gave a check for $100,000. In addition, he gave the young couple $20,000 to be used exclusively on their wedding trip.

There is one young man in Somerville, married three months ago, who keeps pulling buttons off his coat because he so enjoys having his pretty wife stand up close and sew them on for him.

It is rumored in New York that Burke Cockran, the lawyer and orator, wants to marry Miss Virginia Fair, Mr. Cockran is just now cutting something of a dash in the fashionable society of New York and is very attentive to Miss Fair.

With the greatest secrecy an anti matrimonial club was recently formed in Boston, with a membership of just twelve. The secret was too much for one or two of the young men, and now nearly all about the unholy compact is known. It is proposed to dine annually as long as the men hold together, and should one of them be married he must give a farewell dinner costing not less than $10 a plate, and as much more than that as he cares to afford, to all the other members, and must also pay into the general treasury for the accumulation of a club fund the sum of $500 as a slight "penalty" for his treason to the cause in taking unto himself a wife.

Those who think that the queen of the Netherlands will marry Prince William of Wied tell this story of how it came about: Princess Pauline of Wurtemberg, who is the intimate friend and sole confidante of Queen Wilhelmina, married the older brother of Prince William of Wied. Before her marriage the princess used to spend a part of the year with the presumptive heiress to the throne of Holland, and the two friends at times would dream dreams of the future, as young girls will do, be they princesses or peasants. Engaged in this pleasant occupation one day, they thought to themselves how pleasant it would be if they were to marry two brothers and thus unite themselves by bonds of kinship as well as affection. The idea grew on them and they determined, if possible, to carry it into effect.

"N. L. Francis," says the Boston Transcript, "whose engagement to Miss Jane Fuller, daughter of Chief Justice Fuller, has just been announced, is a Harvard man, class of '92. He prepared at Chauncey Hall school. In the last year or so before graduation he came into a fortune amounting to nearly $1,000,000. During his last year at college he began to take an interest in yachting. He first bought the cutter Saracen. Subsequently he sold this boat and built the fast schooner yacht Sarkara. After one or two years he bought the famous English cutter Queen Mab. Last spring he sold this boat, but still retains his membership in numerous yacht clubs. Mr. Francis is now 28 years old. Since his graduation from college in 1892 he has spent a greater part of his time in travel, having been abroad several times."

PRATTLE OF YOUNGSTERS.

Mrs. Newcomb (who is anxious for supper)—What can your grandfather be doing Willie?

Willie (visiting at the farm)—I left him pinning the cow, grandma when I came in.

"Little Dick tried when he wore his new shoes."

"Don't they fit?"

"Yes, but they don't squeak."

The Minister—Little boy, do you know where little boys go who skate on the Sabbath?

The Little Boy—Yessir. They go where there an' never no ice.

"You are late this morning, Tommy," said the teacher.

"Yes'm," responded Tommy, "They was a lot of bad boys chasin' me along a fence an' I was runnin' away from 'em, an'—"

"Tell a straight story, Tommy!"

"I—I can't, ma'am. It was a rail fence."

They had gone through the fire drill for weeks and the other day when visitors were present the teacher thought it well to show the result of their training. "What is your first duty in case of fire?" she inquired of the school.

"Ene the insurance company," shouted a youngster whose father's place of business had been burned out several times.
