NEHALEM.

Quite a lot of freight for our merchants has been brought up the river the past week, shipped via Garibaldi.

St. Patrick's day was duly celebrated by a dance at Macklin's hall. The gasoline launch Irene conveyed quite a large party from and to Blackburn's logging camp.

The launch Irene took a pleasure party to the beach on Sunday. A pleasant time is reported.

Assessor Stephens is on the river, making his annual assessment.

The Nehalem Literary Society adjourned for the season on Thursday night. It has been a source of much pleasure and instruction to those attending.

A few fine days have crept in this month, but still winter appears very loth to let go altogether.

Nehalem is to have a creamery. Two of our young men had arranged to start a cheese factory, but Mr. Townsend, the creamery man, has been on the river several days looking over the situation, and the cheesemen have given way to him, and he will establish a creamery.

News has been received that W. T. Baxter, who in company with his son-in-law, D. C. L. Pike, went to the Klondike a year ago, died near Dawson.

Mrs. E. K. Seovill and Mrs. Gus David, son are daughters, and have the sympathy of the community in their sad bereavement. Mr. Baxter was one of Tillamook's early settlers, and was 68 years old.

WOODS.

The familiar sound of the Woods' saw mill greeted our ears last Tuesday.

Mr. Collard has commenced the erection of a barn on his lots at Ocean Park, and will move there the first of next month.

Lon Miller has moved up on Three Rivers and started a shingle camp.

School commenced here last Monday, with Miss Minnie Nelson as teacher.

Mr. Finigan left for Newburg last Monday.

Mrs. David and her daughter, Jessie, of Beaver, were visiting at G. T. Shaw's last week.

Woods is blessed with two doctors now, Dr. Bisell and Dr. Scott.

Some fiend entered the house of Mrs. Lottie Standley, of Sand Lake, a short time ago and searched her trunk and house thoroughly, and not finding the object of his search, departed just in time to evade detection, as Mrs. Stanley was not gone from the house very long. The same evening some one went into her barn and helped themselves to her hay. She tracked the party by the scattering hay far enough to satisfy her where the hay went to.

BEAVER.

Rev. C. Mills returned on Monday from Hebo, where he preached last Sunday. He is greatly rejoiced to be able to report an organization into a Union band of Christian workers of 14 in number.

Rev. Dollarhide reports a good meeting at Blaine where he received two members into the F. M. church.

Rev. Armstrong preached to an attentive audience at this place. This coming Sunday at 11 A. M. he is to speak at Hebo.

On Tuesday of this week at 2:30 p.m. a bible reading was held in the U. B. church at this place which was well attended.

Elzie Finley went to the hub on Monday, returning Tuesday bringing an excellent new stove and three fine lamps from McIntosh and McNair's hardware store, all for the U. B. church. Beaverites appreciate the firm's kindness in letting the church have them at wholesale price. Tillamook citizens generally have lent us a helping hand.

Never was there a time when Beaver people were more busy clearing, plowing, making garden, sowing oats, making fence and all seems to be truly happy, singing song and making melody in their hearts.

You will also find the Headlight in almost every home and appreciated as a county paper.

As we look out and see the bright warm sunshine, our sparkling, clear, beautiful streams full of trout, salmon and fish, wild duck, pheasants, geese and deer, with our beautiful valley and mountains, fields with pastures green, and with so many cows, horses, sheep and goats, with lambs and kids romping and playing, it is enough to make you say, as the story runs of an aged and almost deaf man, who was attending a protracted meeting, and being asked by the good preacher if he did not think it was high time he should be making preparations to go to the better world, replied, "No, indeed, Oregon is good enough for me! Good enough for me!"

WILSON RIVER.

The school house is being used so much for meetings it ought to have a new stove, as the old one might be the cause of fire. It would be cheaper to pay for a new stove than a new school house. Last school term the children complained of being almost smoked out. Who is gritty enough to start a subscription for a new stove?

The U. B. in C. denomination held their second annual conference at the Wilson river school house last Saturday afternoon.

Andrew Anderson brought a horse from Mr. Curtis on Fairview.

BARNEGAT.

Mr. J. R. Hunter and Mr. Robert Sargent went to Bay City Friday.

Mr. Bert Biggs and son went to Tillamook Friday.

Bert Biggs and son paid Hobsonville a visit last week.

Will Dodson of Upper Salmon river, is teaching school in the joint district of Tillamook and Lincoln counties.

On the 16th inst. the men in school district No. 34 commenced to build our new school house. We feel proud of our new house, for it will be more convenient for all interested, with the exception of one family.

Mrs. E. H. Sloan is selling off her stock preparing to go where her husband has employment in Washington.

Joe Altenburger's new house is showing up in good style.

NEWS ITEMS.

DURING the trouble between the Havana police and the populace Monday night three policemen were killed and 25 wounded on both sides. Public opinion sounded the police without reserve. The city is much excited over the rioting, and the bravery and determination shown by the police is much commended, with the result that the force is rapidly regaining prestige.

The United States Philippine commission has held its first meeting and decided to issue a pronouncement to the inhabitants of the islands. President Schurman will prepare it. The document will explain the spirit in which the United States intends to fulfill the trust imposed and will call upon the people of the islands to lay down their arms and cooperate in the interests of good government.

The British ambassador, Sir Julian Pauncefote, conferred with Secretary Hay in reference, it is understood, to a modus vivendi to be observed along the Alaska border in order to obviate the possibility of a clash, pending the final delimitation of the border. The need of this has been emphasized within the last few days by reports of a battle between the Canadian and the American prospectors on the Porcupine river. These reports have caused considerable uneasiness in official circles in London, and efforts have been made to learn the facts. There has been no official information, however, either here or in London. Just such a clash has been expected, and the reports have served to direct the attention of officials of the need of effecting a border arrangement. The preliminary move in this direction was made as soon as the Anglo-American commission adjourned without settling the border question. Sir Julian then suggested that a temporary arrangement be made. This would maintain the status quo, each side making no further advance pending a final agreement on the boundary.

The Columbia river is crowded with chinook salmon at the present time, and it gives every promise of being a good season. There are a few fishermen making drifts along the Washington shore, and they are catching all they can safely dispose of. As the tug Samson was passing the Barbary coast, near Pillar Rock, a few days ago, they saw a fisherman pulling in his net, and he got a fish at nearly every lift.

SATURDAY the mohair raisers met in convention in Dallas. There was a discussion of whether a pool should be formed placing the product of the association in the hands of a committee of five members, which was agreed to after some debate. The committee is instructed to sell the product of the association to the highest bidder, bids to be opened April 1. This pool represents from 5000 to 8000 goats, and the yield will be from 15,000 to 24,000 pounds. The association will meet April 1 to consider the bids.

The legislature of California adjourned sine die without a United States senator, to succeed Stephen M. White, having been elected. When the hour of adjournment was extended from midnight until Sunday, it was expressly understood that the senatorial matter was settled, and that the question of the election of a senator was not to be broached. Nevertheless, just about 11 o'clock Governor Gage sent a message to both the senate and the assembly in which he charged the legislature with having left its duty unperformed. In the message he implored the members to no longer delay, but to proceed to the election of a senator at once.

MRS. MARTHA PLACE was executed at Sing Sing prison on Monday. She was the first woman to die in the electric chair in the state of New York, and she went to her death quietly. Her death was instantaneous. But two shocks were given. State Electrician Davis threw down the lever at exactly 11:01 a.m. The voltage of the current was 1760, and it was continued for four seconds. Mrs. Place murdered her stepdaughter, Ida M. Place, a mere girl, February 7th, 1898. She first threw acid in the girl's eyes and then smothered her. This was early in the morning, in their home in Brooklyn. She waited the entire day for her husband to return, and then attacked him with an ax, fracturing his skull and otherwise seriously injuring him. Place, however, recovered. Mrs. Place was convicted and sentenced to death, but she never for a moment believed she would be electrocuted. She at first claimed she could remember nothing of the murder and later the plea of insanity was submitted in her behalf.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Associated Press at Manila says: "An army has seldom operated under harder conditions than have been encountered by the Americans. The nature of the country is such that the enemy cannot be seen 100 feet distant. During the charges the Americans are ignorant as to whether they are attacking a hundred or thousands of rebels. A prisoner captured by the Americans says the leaders boast that they can keep up the war for years, depending upon the American forces being weakened daily by 20 men killed, wounded or invalidated. Some high officials think 10,000 reinforcements are needed, as the troops now on the island are hardly more than enough to maintain the line around Manila and police the city."

A series of wind storms swept through portions of Alabama, Mississippi and Arkansas on Saturday, doing an immense amount of property damage and killing a number of people. The storm covered a radius of several hundred miles, destroying telegraph wires and cutting off communication with a large section of the country. Cleburn county, Alabama, seems to have suffered the most severely, the storm assuming the proportions of a tornado. At Sellers Leverene, Ala., much damage is reported, and at Bob Roy, Ark., one man was killed and several badly injured. Dumas, Ark., was nearly wiped out of existence, and several others towns in the vicinity suffered severely. One person is reported killed at Hickory Flat, Miss., and as the farmhouses in the vicinity suffered heavily, it is not unlikely many fatalities occurred which have not yet been reported. Reports from different points in the three states indicate that 18 persons were killed outright and 21 injured, as follows: Alabama, 16 killed, 10 injured; Mississippi, one killed, 10 injured; Arkansas, one killed, seven injured. The property loss will run into the hundreds of thousands.

FIGHT AT ILO ILO.

Rebels Attack Repulsed by Miller's Brigade.

NEW YORK, March 21.—A dispatch to the Herald from Ilo Ilo, island of Panay, says: A battalion of the Eighteenth infantry, a platoon of the Sixth artillery and the machine gun battery made a reconnaissance in the direction of Mandurionio and Santa Barbara Thursday. While they were returning the insurgents attack the outposts on the right.

Although fatigued from marching in the broiling sun for two hours, the entire command proceeded to the assistance of their comrades, the artillery pouring shell and shrapnel upon the insurgents, who were strongly entrenched in large numbers. Companies C, K and H, of the Eighteenth, deployed to the right, driving the insurgents back, and then, wheeling to the left, made a junction with companies B and I. A heavy engagement ensued.

Companies B, C, M and I, of the Tennessee volunteers, Major Cheatham commanding, arrived later and formed on the left, and two more companies of the Eighteenth marched from Ilo Ilo to act as support to the other troops. Colonel Van Valzah and Major Keller commanded the battalions of the Eighteenth regiment.

General Miller was on the scene early and directed the operations from immediately behind the firing line. He had several narrow escapes.

The line advanced by rushes 3000 yards under a hot fire, pouring deliberate volleys upon the insurgents position, the artillery making good practice.

By the time the forces were within 300 yards of the enemy's final position darkness prevented the charge for which the Tennessee men and the companies of the Eighteenth on the right had already prepared by fixing bayonets. The advance upon Jaro was accomplished in good order.

The engagement was brought on by the enemy's persistent attack upon the outposts of Jaro bridge.

Nothing could be gained by forcing the enemy back, as it was impossible with the limited number of troops to hold the position.

The American troops were exhausted by the fighting and having to wade knee-deep through the rice fields and sugar cane. There were several cases of prostration by the heat.

The only man killed was Private Louis Biehl, of company B, Eighteenth infantry. The wounded of the Eighteenth were:

Privates Joseph Daly, knee and thigh; Theodore Burr, arm and chest; Preston Savage, forearm; William Brusckke, chest; all of company B. Max Holme forearm; company L; Joseph R. McCrary, hand; William Loreman, leg and thigh; William Trixman, leg, all of company C. Riley Callaghan, scalp; company H; William Rovenberger, wrist, company H; William Buster, finger, company E; William Markwood, leg, company K; Corporate C. E. Bates, foot, company L.

Private T. A. Marlowe, of company L, First California, serving with the artillery, was wounded in the side and back, and Private Samuels, of company F, Tennessee volunteer was slightly wounded in the face.

A bullet passed through Rovenberger's wrist and entered his mouth between the gum and cheek without injuring his head. There were other miraculous escapes as the men advanced amid a perfect hail of bullets.

The severity of the engagement may be judged by the fact that the Eighteenth regiment alone fired 62,800 rounds. It is estimated that the insurgents, with their more than 2000 rifles, fired double our total of ammunition.

Private Biehl brought in Daly, wounded, and gave warning to hurry up some ammunition, as most of the men were short. He then returned to the fighting line and was struck in the chest. He fell, saying: "I'm done for," and died in 10 minutes.

It is impossible to tell accurately the insurgents losses, as the American troops converged at a given point without traversing the ground shot over, but on the day after the battle one could see from Jaro belfry the enemy carting away the dead. The minimum estimate of their losses is 20 killed and 300 wounded.

The evolutions were prettily executed, and the highest credit is due the battalion and company commanders. The men are chafing at being robbed of the fruits of their victory. A charge would probably have resulted in the capture of the enemy's arms and ammunition, but from the configuration of the ground and the position of our troops it was impossible to allow an advance in the darkness. The behavior of the troops was admirable. There has been only desultory outpost shooting since this engagement.

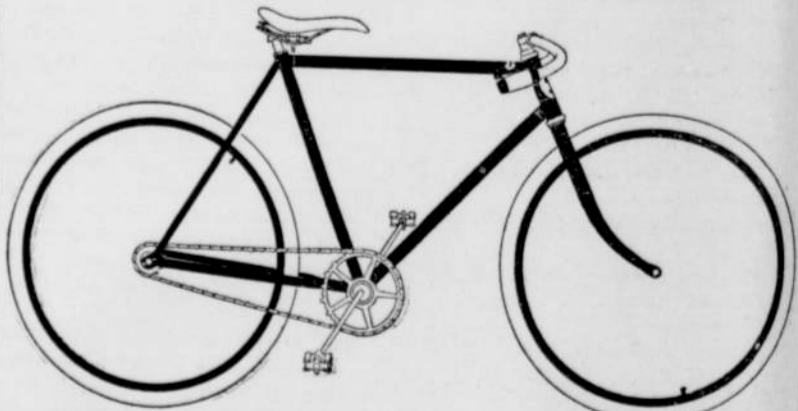

The instructions printed on the captured cases of ammunition were in German, and showed that the cartridges came from the artillery depot at Mayenne.

It is suspected that the ammunition and arms have been supplied to the insurgents from German and Japanese sources and from the French colonies.

The city is quiet and business is reviving.

Private Walter Parrish, of company C, Tennessee volunteers, accidentally killed himself yesterday with a revolver.
