"Don't you know Lisk?" Well, he's the genius who manufactures tinware that will not rust. Mr. J. E. Tuttle is the sole agent in Tillamook, and has just received a large consignment of these goods, including rustless boilers, kettles, coffee and tea pots, pans, in fact, everything in the tinware line.
The portable saw mill for the county arrived on the last boat and the work of planking the county roads of this county will soon commence. No doubt considerable volunteer work will be done on the roads this year by farmers where the mill is located from time to time cutting out the plank.
There was some little complaint heard about holding two terms of court, but because the docket was light it should be taken as a good sign that the citizens of this county are law abiding. This county is entitled to two terms of court each year, but one judge to dispose of the whole business is quite sufficient. And why cannot this be arranged?
The only person who will get on the bicycle track in Tillamook county for a number of years to come will be the bicycle tax collector. It was all foolishness to ever include a county like this in a bill taxing bicycles, and as it is generally conceded that the bill is unconstitutional, would it not be advisable for the county court to make haste slowly in collecting the $1.25 tax, which will cost fifty cents or more to collect?

Mr. George Fernside was in from Nehalem this week.
Married on Wednesday, in the parlors of the Tillamook hotel, by Rev. W. Roehmer, Mr. William Crawford to Miss Katie Brannersreuther.
We are glad to hear that it is an assured fact that the tug Roberts is to be stationed in Tillamook for towing purposes and is to remain here. The tug left Florence on Saturday. Captain Johnson is a first class bar man, having had eight years experience in that line, with no accident or bad break against his record for towing or passing in or out over the bars. The Roberts is in first class condition, and will fully fill the bill doing the towing for Tillamook, Nehalem, Netarts and Hobsonville mills.
We understand a corporation is to be formed at Bay City, to be called the Oregon Electric Lumber Company. The company will set their saw mills in the timber and operate them by electricity, using the water power from the numerous rivers and streams, which are plentiful in this county, to generate the electricity. Lumber flumes will be constructed from the saw mills to Bay City, and the lumber, directly it is cut, will be flumed to that point. The logging in the vicinity of the mill will also be done by electricity.
Mr. T. S. Townsend has made satisfactory arrangements with the Astoria Push Club to erect and operate a creamery in that city. During his talk to the Push Club, the Astorian says Mr. Townsend told many interesting stories of prosperity in Tillamook county. He said "Before the people down there took up with dairying money was very scarce; there were no roads, and about all the farms were mortgaged. The first creamery was established seven years ago. Now Tillamook has good roads and money is plentiful—so plentiful, in fact, that a leading banker of the town complains that he cannot loan his money."
Joseph M. Terwilliger, who had been on a visit to his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Smith, wife of Mr. L. C. Smith, at Bay View, since the 2nd of January, died on Thursday evening of consumption, supposed to have been contracted from his wife, who died of that dread disease about four years ago in the city of Portland. The deceased was born in Lexington, Missouri, on the 29th October, 1862, and came to Portland in 1872, where he was well known. He was a butcher and conducted a butcher shop on First street for several years, where he did a large business. For about three years he was a councilman of the city of Portland. He married, nine years ago, Miss Minnie Maher, and leaves two children, a girl and a boy. He had been in the habit of making frequent visits to this county, and was favorably spoken of. The remains were brought by boat to this city on Sunday morning for burial in the Oddfellow's cemetery, and were met at the wharf by a large delegation of United Workmen and Woodmen of the World who escorted the remains to the cemetery, where the members of Star Lodge, A.O.U.W., conducted the burial service according to the ritual of their order, the Woodmen giving camp honors at its close. The deceased was a member of Industry Lodge, No. 8, A.O.U.W., Portland; Camp No. 107, Woodmen of the World, Portland, also a Redman and a Veteran fireman. Besides his mother and two children, he leaves a brother, David Terwilliger, a merchant of Walla Walla. The deceased realized that he was dying, and with the retention of his faculties to the last, his end was that of peace as he passed to the mysteries of the great hereafter. His sorrowing mother, family and relatives have the heartfelt sympathy of the community.

PROSPEROUS FARMERS
Supplied the Creamery Company with 2,315,771 Pounds of Milk.
The Tillamook Creamery Company came in for its share of patronage last year, being one of the baker's dozen of creameries operating in this county. The patrons of this creamery have reason to be proud that their products have been handled so successful and in a conservative, business manner, reflecting credit upon the creamery and a source of income for the patrons. Every year shows that this county is forging ahead in the manufacture of butter and cheese—and with butter and cheese for pureness, richness and superior quality after it is manufactured it is second to none in Oregon. The milk received at the Tillamook creamery during the year 1898 amounted to 2,315,771 pounds, which yielded 91,931 pounds of butter fat. When manufactured this produced 17,348 pounds of butter and 192,512 lbs. of cheese, which netted the patrons the sum of $18,615 20, averaging the butter fat at an average during the entire year at 20 cents and 3 mills per pound. This makes a good showing for the Tillamook creamery, and speaks volumes for the integrity and industry of the officers and managers of the company in bringing about such satisfactory results, as well as to the industry of Tillamook farmers who making dairying profitable. We believe this average stands second to none in the county, and surely the directors in their untiring effort for the good of the organization deserve great credit, and with as good a prospect for the coming season it stands to reason that the outlook in the dairying business, creameries and cheese factories of Tillamook county never looked brighter. An institution like the Tillamook creamery is deserving of all the co-operation the farmers can give it, for it is to their own benefit that they should do so.

CIRCUIT COURT.
Little Nestucca Damage Appeal was Thrown Out.
The circuit court convened on Monday, with Judge George H. Burnett on the bench. Those summoned to served as jurymen answered to their names and the grand jury was drawn as follows: A. M. Hare, foreman, Maurice Leach, J. B. Delsman, W. Kimball, J. H. Nolan, J. K. Craven and C. Christensen. After the judge had charged the grand jury he disposed of the following cases, which did not take long to do, after which he discharged the jury. The grand jury examined only two witnesses.
DEPARTMENT No. 1.
M. F. Johnson, plaintiff, vs. W. A. Butler, defendant. Daly & Hayter, attorneys. Continued.
Nels Thompson, plaintiff, vs. J. P. Allen and Nellie Allen, defendants. W. J. May, attorney. Sale confirmed.
F. Born, plaintiff, vs. Hunple & Wheeler, defendants, W. H. Cooper for plaintiff. Action for money. Settled.
R. W. Fisher, plaintiff, vs. William Scisel and Emma Scisel, defendants. Action for money. W. J. May for plaintiff. Judgment by default.
Chas. B. Willits, plaintiff, vs. E. H. Conner, defendant. Action for money. W. J. May for plaintiff. Settled.
E. G. E. Wist, plaintiff, vs. Wm. Finley and Florence Finley, defendants. Action for money. W. J. May for plaintiff. Settled.
State of Oregon vs. Wm. Tatton. Selling beer without license to W. Ten Eyck. Continued from last term, was again continued.
State of Oregon vs. C. Oskalwis. Lewd and lascivious cohabitation. Continued from last term, was again continued.
State of Oregon vs. F. Martin. S. L. Hayden and W. J. May, attorneys. Selling liquor without license. This case was continued from the previous term. District Attorney Hayden moved that the case be dismissed on the grounds that he was doubtful whether he could convict Martin, who had forfeited his bail, and holding the jury over another day would put the county to the expense of one hundred dollars, and considering all these things he asked the judge to dismiss the case, which he did.
K. Bailes, claimant and appellant, vs. Tillamook County, defendant and respondent. Appeal from County Court. T. H. Goynes and A. W. Severance attorneys for claimant. This case grew out of the county court ordering a county road opened at Little Nestucca, the parties through whose farms the survey for the new road run claim they are damaged and sought to recover, and failing to recover from the county court appealed to the circuit court. Judge Burnett dismiss the appeal on the ground that the claim did not specify what land was damaged.
DEPARTMENT No. 2.
Judge Boise failed to reach the city up to the time of going to press to dispose of the cases in this department, there being 25 cases on the docket.

C. E. Whitney & Co. of San Francisco, have contracted for the entire output of the Coos Bay Creamery Company. The output of butter from now to August 1 will be canned for the Alaska trade, and it is estimated that the amount manufactured up to August 1 will exceed 100,000 pounds. The number of cheese contracted for is 1500, and the net weight will be about 5000 pounds.
The fishing season commences on April 15, and the fishermen on the Columbia river have about finished the work of placing their gear in condition. While present indications are that many will not immediately begin fishing, the prospects for an early run is good, and fishermen anticipate a lively year. Conditions up to the present time make it appear probable that the gillnetters will reap the greatest harvest this year.
WHATEVER may be said to the contrary, we are unalterably of the opinion that a postal savings bank system should be adopted in the United States, for it encourages thrift. It is strange that so many leading newspapers oppose its introduction because they claim it is a populist theory, yet postal savings banks have been national institutions in some of the countries in Europe and England years before populism was ever thought of in this country. We are glad to note that quite a number of influential republican newspapers are advocating the adoption of the system. Nothing will tend to create a spirit of thrift amongst the working classes more than a postal savings bank system. This is a well demonstrated fact by the countries which have adopted the system.
TILLAMOOK city has grown large enough to warrant the introduction of a public library. This is one of the many educators where citizens with studious turns of mind can procure much useful information and pleasure at a nominal cost. A public library is always a useful institution in any city and a pretty good index of public enterprise, and when judiciously managed always turn out a success. Here, principally, lies the trouble in sustaining public libraries in our small cities. It appears to us if the fraternal orders of the state took this matter in hand it would redound to their honor and create not only a greater fraternal spirit amongst the different orders, but it would bring them into closer touch with the general public. It can be seen there is a reading public in this city by the number of persons who regularly peruse the daily newspapers and other literature which can be found in the hotels. If we had a Standard Oil Company magnate or a Carnegie in our midst to endow a public library we might soon expect one, but unfortunately—or fortunately, perhaps, some will say—we have not.
