Hans Heisel is having a brand new house erected on his ranch. It is rumored that Hans intends taking into himself a better half and make this his future home.
Mr. Knight seems to be somewhat skilled as a veterinary surgeon. He performs his operations with neatness and dispatch.
Gents, whenever a rainy day comes, I mean bachelors, be sure you have everything arranged orderly, yourself looking half way respectable, and in fact have everything tasty and inviting. We will not endeavor to relate to the readers of the Headlight as to what transpired not many days past.

SOUTH PRAIRIE.

I saw, Esaw, kissing Kate,
The fact is, we all three saw,
For Esaw, saw, that I saw Kate,
And Kate, saw, that I saw Esaw.
It is not so much a question with us now, as to "who struck Billy Patterson," as it is to the question of who's "rattled" at Beaver.
Lyman Lamb is the book-keeper on a $200,000 ranch at Ryde, Cal.
John Marolf, is, or was, lying sick in a New York hospital.
The county saw mill, with a crew of 28 men is cutting lumber for and laying down about 24 rods of planking on the roads per day. Let the good work continue indefinitely.
Reliable parties from the Necanicum, Clatsop, report here that those so called timber cruisers that were found dead in the woods near that place were not timber cruisers at all, but were men sent to look out a pass for a railroad through to the lower Nehalem, as their instruments were mainly those for taking levels, &c.
Between the county mill buzzing and whistling on our Southern borders, our new creamery now in successful operation down the Prairie, a prospective telephone line, and some new fangled neighborhood rackets and disturbances, the old settlers are getting so "rattled" that they don't know part of the time whether they are a foot or a horseback.

NEHALEM.

Mrs. P. D. Newell has gone to Tillamook on a visit.
Miss Theresa Cronen is home from the Academy on a short visit.
The Rev. Nangle preached at Nehalem on Sunday afternoon, and gave a lecture to the young folks in the evening.

The Lower Nehalem extends congratulations to their neighbors up the river on their railroad prospects, and hope to do the same for ourselves in the near future.

J. Biggs returned home Saturday with his son much improved in health.
Miss Ida Watson began her school the 15th.

The last report the land slide had moved about 60 or 65 feet.

HEBO.

We organized a Sunday-school last Sunday. Mrs. Conder was chosen superintendent and Mrs. Stone as assistant.
It is cold and cloudy and nothing new under the sun at Hebo to report this week.
Mr. Wm Rhoads went to the valley the first of the week with a load of cheese.
Mr. Getchel's child was burned quite bad last week. It caught a fire playing around some logs that were on fire. Its father was burned in rescuing the child. It is hoped that neither are burned seriously.
Some of the Hebo young people went down to meeting and basket dinner at Arstall school-house last Sunday. They report large crowd and good meeting.
Rev. Blalock went out to Sheridan Tuesday. He will be out in the valley two or three weeks preaching and raising money to build a churchhouse.
It is reported some of the young men at meeting Sunday, at the Arstall school-house, got off in the woods near and had a fight. Young men should have more respect for themselves, to say nothing of their parents and the Christian people, to go to church to settle difficulties with a fight.
FOR THE NESTUCCA BELLE POET.
Does she think there is no boy but me?
So I am the Nestucca belle you see.
She loves a boy with all her heart,
And he is her choice, I must "impart."
He is no Hebo poet smart,
She knows that breaks my heart.
Tell me, dear, how this love I can convey,
If it is not the Hebo poet by the way?
But now to the Nestucca belle,
My dear I'll proceed to tell.
The one who is the choice of my life,
Is the lady who is called my wife.

He—I'm not at all pleased with that new party dress of yours.
She (coldly)—Aren't you?
He—No, the dress itself is altogether too low, and the bill for it is altogether too high.
"Jones got broke of walking in his sleep."
"How?"
"His wife made him carry the baby."
"I hardly know," said the Cornfed Philosopher, whether it be better for a man to remain single and disappoint several women for a time or marry and disappoint one woman for life.

It is doubtful if a man ever, strictly, makes a good husband; a man merely furnishes the raw material for a good husband.

Colonel Summers' Troops Captured San Isidro.

MANILA, May 17, 11:40 a.m.—General Lawton's advance guard, under Colonel Summers, of the Oregon troops, took San Isidro, the insurgent capital, at 8:30 this morning.
The expedition, under Major Kobbe, of the Third artillery, consisting of the Seventeenth infantry, one battalion of the Ninth and one battalion of the First artillery, left Calumpit at daybreak today, marching up the Rio Grande to General Lawton, at Araya. A flotilla of canoes loaded with supplies also proceeded up the river. Both forces were conveyed by the "tinclad" army gunboats under Captain Grant.
Aguinaldo's ex-secretary, Escamillo, who was arrested here February 21, is employed as official interpreter by the authorities.

Prisoners Released by Luna.

MANILA, May 16th, 6:25 p.m.—Messrs. Carrick and Holmes, the American civilians, captured at the Calumpit rice mills, have been released by the rebel General Luna, who saw them through his lines with several Englishmen, who received 48 hours' notice to leave rebel territory.
The United States cruiser Charleston has arrived here from Hong Kong. She touched at Aparri, communicating with the United States gunboat Concord, stationed at the mouth of the harbor. Some native archers shot arrows at the man-of-war's boat, which was sent ashore for sand, and no further attempt to land was made. The Charleston also spoke the United States gunboat Wheeling at Lingayan. All was quiet there.
General Lawton's advance forces have left San Miguel, and are moving in the direction of San Isidro. A rain storm impeded the progress of the troops and severed the line of communication when the force was within seven miles of its destination.

Second Oregon's Return.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Senator McBride has had further conferences with the war department regarding the return of the Oregon regiment to Portland. Colonel Summers has again cabled saying that the regiment prefers to go by way of San Francisco, and be mustered out at Portland. Secretary Alger said today that the camp tentage and other equipment at San Francisco made it more practicable to muster out the troops there. It is possible, if the ship is sent up the Columbia, it may be used for quarters until the muster out.
Secretary Alger told Senator McBride that Oregon should have her share of the captured cannon. It is expected two will be obtained from the navy department and two from the war department for the soldiers' monument.

"MEIN GOTT, IT IS UNHEARD OF."

Austrian Officer's Comment on the Destruction of Cervera's Fleet.

Captain Taylor gives an amusing account in the May Century of his interview with an Austrian lieutenant, who boarded the Indiana immediately after the fight at Santiago.
He was in full uniform, with a brilliant display of epaulets and gold lace, white waistcoat and trousers. He found us covered with smoke and dust of battle, groups of half-naked men lining up to salute him as he passed, the faces streaked with powder, smoke and coal dust. He reached me on the bridge, finally, in a state of polite bewilderment, and presented his captain's request for permission to pass in through our blockading lines and bring out from Santiago. Austrian refugees desiring to leave that besieged town. After referring to him to Admiral Sampson and telling him he would be found some distance to the westward, he asked for news, and I told him we had just come out of action with Cervera's squadron. He showed great surprise and said:
"Then there has been a battle?"
"Yes," I replied.
"And the results? he asked, eagerly.
"We have defeated them."
"But where is Cervera's fleet now?" he inquired.
"His flagship, the Maria Teresa, is there, lieutenant," I answered pointing at the same time to the beach a few miles distant.
"But I see nothing there but some smoke, captain!"
"It is the smoke of the Teresa burning, lieutenant; it is a wreck upon the beach."
He was silent, and I continued:
"Close to it on the beach you will see another column of smoke; that is the Oquendo burning. On the side, nearer to us, is the Platon, sunk in the breakers, and the Furor is near it, but is on the bottom in deeper water and is not visible."
"But," he interrupted, "you have then destroyed half those splendid vessels of Cervera's?"
"Wait, lieutenant," I continued, "and look a few miles further to the westward and you will see another column of smoke, that is the Viscaya, on the beach near Aserraderos. As to the Colon, it is still farther to the westward, out of sight from us here, but you will see it presently as your captain steers in that direction to find Admiral Sampson, who is that end of our line."
His eyes ranged along the shore as I pointed out the different vessels.
"Mein Gott!" he exclaimed. "Then you have destroyed the whole of that splendid squadron! I did not think it possible."
After a moment more of silent astonishment, he said, with a polite sympathy which concealed eager professional curiosity:
"And what injuries, captain? What losses has the American squadron sustained?"
"None," I replied.
"But, captain, you do not understand; it is what casualties—what ship lost or disabled—that I ask."
"None, lieutenant," I said. "The Indiana was struck twice, suffering no injury, no loss. The other ships are virtually in the same condition. We are all of us perfectly ready for another battle—as much so as before Cervera came out this morning."
His astonishment was now complete.
"Mein Gott!" he exclaimed again. "Admiral Sampson's fleet has destroyed these great Spanish ships, and without injury to his own squadron! Sir, it is unheard of! I must go and inform my captain."

QUAINT FEATURES OF LIFE.

While the Ohio river was at flood tide the "backwater" filled a pond on a farm in Washington township, Harrison county, O., some distance from the river. When the water went down the pond was found to be filled with fish of every variety native to the main stream and the people for miles around had an abundant supply for several weeks.
At a fashionable party in Atchison, Kan., the other day, each lady guest was required to thread a needle while sitting balanced on the slender end of a jug with her feet raised from the floor and extended. Without more than referring to the acrobatic nature of this performance, we must turn with profound gratification to the knowledge that at last Atchison is beginning to temper its amusements with a little intellectuality. It takes brains to thread a needle under such circumstances.
Two years ago a Maine lumbering party, not being able to find the conventional green ash for planking their shad, had recourse to a green rock maple slab. The heat started the sap in the wood, which bubbled and hissed about the fish, imparting its delicate flavor to the dish when ready to be served, and lo! it was discovered that a new table delicacy had been added to the world's cuisine. Now there is no more green ash planked shad for the Maine people, but sugar maple every time.
There has not been a failure or a fire in Mazatlan, Mexico, for almost fifteen years, and losses on account of bad debts amount to very little. There are three banks, and three of the largest merchants have a banking department connected with their stores.
A firm of English tea merchants offers to every married woman who buys a pound of its 50-cent tea for five consecutive weeks a pension of $2.50 a week in case of the death of her husband, provided he was in good health when she began to buy the tea. The pension is to continue as long as she remains a widow.

Out of the Ordinary.

Mont R. Vickere, of Esteline, S.D., is only 20 years old, but he is six feet seven inches tall and weighs 348 pounds.
There is a quicksilver mine in Peru 480 feet deep. In this abyss are streets, squares and a chapel where religious worship is held.
Dr. James B. Hodgkin, of Washington, owns a pair of silver spurs worn by General Robert E. Lee on the day of his surrender.
It is estimated that the great Salt Lake, in Utah, contains 1,568,160,000,000 pounds of sulphate of soda and 17,560,339,200,000 pounds of salt.
The largest loaves of bread baked in the world are those of France and Italy. The "pipe" bread of Italy is baked in loaves two or three feet long, while in France the loaves are made in the shape of very long rolls, four or five feet in length, and in many cases six feet.
A Krag Jorgensen rifle tested in Kentucky sent a bullet through a black locust tree six feet in circumference, and the bullet, glancing on a rock, went into the ground over two feet. The experiments indicated that the range of the gun is over three miles.
Most of the rag carpets covering the floors of the Washington mansion at Mount Vernon are woven on an old-fashioned loom by an ancient colored woman, "Aunt Phemy," whose forbears have for generations been connected with the Washington estate and family.
The two Pacific liners to be laid down soon at Newport News will rank third in displacement among the world's big steamers. Each will have a displacement of 18,500 tons. In this respect they will have been exceeded only by the Great Eastern, 27,000 tons; the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, 20,000 tons; Oceanic, 28,500 tons.
The cows in Belgium wear earrings. This is in accordance with a law which decrees that every animal of the bovine species, when it has attained the age of 3 months, must have in its ear a ring to which is attached a metal tag bearing a number. The object is to preserve the exact number of animals raised each year.

The focusing of the sun's rays by an electric light bulb set fire to a curtain in the home of John M. Sager, 71 East One Hundred and Forty-fourth street, New York. His 3-year-old daughter Lily was burned by the blaze, she being seated in a chair near the window at the time. Her condition is not dangerous. Her mother extinguished the blaze with a blanket.

James P. Scott, clerk of the Waldorf Astoria hotel, New York, is said to have made $15,000 in Wall street in a few days. James Seck, head waiter in the cafe, is credited with a winning of $15,000 and Max Cohen, another waiter, $10,000. All this was made from tips on the market given by patrons of the hotel. Other employes are winners in smaller amounts.

Trouble Brewing.

PRETORIA, TRANSVAAL May 16.—The arrest at Johannesburg this morning of eight alleged British ex-officers has caused intense excitement here. The prisoners were brought to Pretoria by special train. After they had been lodged in jail they were visited by the British diplomatic agent here.
The arrests were effected by a detective, who joined the movement, which, it is asserted, was for the purpose of enrolling men in order to cause an outbreak of rebellion. Incriminating documents were found on the prisoners, and it is expected further arrests will be made.

Cubans are Excited.

HAVANA, MAY 16.—The manifesto which General Maximo Gomez is preparing to issue will not only review his own position as to the payment of the Cuban army, but probably will direct the forces to disband. Its issuance is expected tomorrow. Colonel Carlos Cespedes, who is engaged in the supervision of copying the manifesto, declines to give any information as to its contents, further than to say that Gomez recounts his faithful labors for Cuba; asserts that he has no ambition other than to free Cuba, and call upon all loyal Cubans to work, in order to show that by building up the country they are Cuban citizen in the highest sense. The manifesto, according to Cespedes, will say that General Gomez has arranged with Governor-General Brooke that the mayors of the various cities shall be repositories for the arms. The manifesto will call upon all Cubans to display real patriotism by laying down their arms and taking up agricultural implements.
Following its publication, Governor-General Brooke will issue a modified or der eliminating the necessity for the participation of any Cuban commander in the distribution of the distribution of the $3,000,000.

The death-roll of the Second Oregon now contains fifty-three names, says the Oregonian. Most of them represent young men who were boys until they became soldiers, and whose patriotic eagerness to enlist is a memory of but yesterday. The services of Memorial day will this year take on a new significance to the generation that has grown up since the grass grew green over the graves of the civil war. They will be more in keeping with the intent in which this day was set apart than for many years past. The pathos and bereavement of war are, unhappily, not now entirely of the past, but they touch the present through these names added to the list of the nation's dead with new tenderness and power.

He quoted the old chestnut.
"In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love," he said.
She sighed and shook her head.
"That's the trouble," she replied. "They turn lightly instead of seriously."
For she was a girl who had been through several spring engagements.
