on Sunday after a few weeks visit in the Willamette valley.

Rev. J. G. Schmid organized a congregation at South Prairie of the Reformed Church on Sunday.

Mr. A. D. Farmer and Mr. E. B. Chamberlain were in the city on Tuesday and called upon the editor.

No one is kicking about the weather the past two weeks, for Old Sol has been smiling upon Tillamook.

If have a farm for sale or farm lands, and want a purchaser, you should advertise in the Headlight.

Tillamook County Teachers' Association will meet at Nehalem on Saturday for the discussion of educational topics.

Mr. C. D. Latourette, a prominent attorney of Oregon City, with wide-awake business ideas, was in the city on Tuesday.

Beginning next Sunday, a mission of three days will be given at the Catholic terday.

John Perry had the misfortune to meet with an accident at Kingley's camp, receiving a nasty cut across the right instep.

Mr. J. H. Jackson leaves for Portland on the Elmore, and will go from there to California, where he will remain next winter.

The editor bestows his blessing upon all the nice young ladies who have become wives and the newly initiated Benedicts.

A young man named Hill received a cut on the right knee at Hadley's camp on Wednesday which will lay him up for about a week.

settle in this county, coming from Cleveland, Klickitat county, Wash.

Mr. R. H. Barkley, assistant superintendent of the railroad mail service, was in the city Saturday inquiring into the recent mail irregularities in this city.

Is it not about time the city council was making some arrangements to fill up the three reservoirs on the Main street which have been covered up for a long time?

For rent, a house on the Bay City road, one mile north of town, half acre of land under cultivation, nicely situated.—Apply to J. Svenson, Tillamook, for further information.

Go to the Pacific Lumber Co.'s yard if you want lumber. The number of teams hauling lumber from there proves that people have found out where to get a good class of lumber.

B. H. Bunn has a general job shop in Bailey's building, where he is prepared to do all kinds of repairs in tin, etc., as well as fixtures and fittings neatly done. Work guaranteed first class.

Rev. W. S. Holt, D.D., Synodical Missionary of the Presbyterian church in Oregon, after performing various ministerial duties in this city and Bay City, left for Portland on Tuesday.

Mr. Claude Thayer is in possession of a genuine kissing-bug, who is studying its habits and is under the impression it will thrive wonderfully well in this city owing to the interest the young ladies will take in it.

We can afford to treat the editor of our contemporary with the utmost contempt seeing his great characteristic is to ridicule those who have the energy and enterprise to do something practical for Tillamook county.

It must be that, owing to the number of marriage licenses issued lately, that Tillamook young ladies are like the Boston girls who received a proposal by telegraph, which put her in such a state of ecstasy that she wired back, "Emphatically, yes."

What queer mortals we are. A few years ago the citizens of this county were worked up to a great state of excitement on account of the Venezuela boundary dispute. Today there is a revolution in that country and no one in the United States appears to care one iota.

Up-to-date citizens have electric lights in their business establishments and their private residences. It's cleaner, cheaper, brighter and safer than any light that can be obtained. There is no fear of spontaneous combustion. See the Tillamook Lumber Company about the cost of electric lights.

Mr. T. E. Allen severs his connection with the Presbyterian church in this city this evening, his four months' appointment having expired. Mr. Allen will leave to complete his studies before being admitted into the ministry. Rev. R. K.
Ross, from Michigan, has been selected to fill the vacancy in the ministry of the Presbyterian church of this city.

The tug Maggie, with the schooner Free Trade in tow, loaded with lumber from the Netarts Bay Lumber Company's mill, went ashore on the South Spit of Netarts bar on Thursday afternoon. The schooner threw overboard 40,000 feet of lumber, and on the next tide early Friday morning she got off, as did the Maggie the same afternoon. There was very little loss of lumber owing to it being rafted.

A new steam schooner is being built at Gray's Harbor for the Truckee Lumber Company of San Francisco, to be named the W. H. Kruger. She will have a carrying capacity of 400,000 feet and will be finished about January 1st. She will be brought to Hobsonville for lumber, and will then be towed to San Francisco, where her machinery will be put in, after that she will ply between Tillamook and California, carrying freight, lumber and passengers.

As the board of county commissioners appointed three sets of viewers of damages in proposed change of county roads, it may be interesting to the taxpayers of this county to know by whom the claims are made and the amount thereof. In the M. T. Chance petition, Jessie V. Embum claims the sum of $200; in the L. Parrish road, Mary Reiser Allig claims the sum of $300; and in the H. M. Farmer road, from Sand Lake to Spruce, the sum claimed for damages amount to $1920, made up as follows: Otto Walther, as administrator of the estate of Edward Senke, $520; Otto Walther, in his own behalf, $400; and H. H. Hays, $1000.

Mr. Will H. Fenelon, a well-to-do merchant of Rhineland, Wis., and Mr. A.
Siewright, a timber cruiser in that part of the country, are visiting this county, and are feasting their eyes on big timber and the developed and undeveloped resources of Tillamook. After cutting up timber in Wisconsin the size of a stovepipe it is enough to make the eastern lum-berman's eyes snap and neck ache looking at the kings of the forest in this county.

The first section of the thistle law, which was passed by the last state legislature says: "It shall be the duty of each roads supervisor, in addition to the duties heretofore prescribed by law, to ascertain from time to time and know whether or not there is in his district any weed known as the Russian thistle, or the Canada thistle, or the Chinese thistle, and he shall, as he ascertains that there is any of such weeds, and before any thereof has shed its bloom or commenced to form the seed, notify the county judge of the county in which his district is situated, in writing, of the existence of such weed, and in a similar manner notify the owner or occupant of the premises upon which said weeds or thistles may be."

The Headlight may be somewhat radical on the expansion question, but to stop all future quibbling we would like to see President McKinley recommend congress to annex all the territory which came into the possession of the United States in the late unpleasantness with Spain. There is no use to dole out a semi-independence to Cuba and the other possessions, the republican party had just as well formulate a policy to gobble them up at one bite and annex them as to beat round the bush with the same subject in view. This is in direct opposition to the spouters of the democratic party, but after a few years they, as well as republicans, will realize that this is the easiest way to settle the matter for all time.

Men will, in spite of the many inducements offered in country districts, flock to the large cities and invest their money and seek employment there. Possibly this is the reason why Oregon is being so slowly developed. Take for instance the dairy industry of Tillamook county.
Here is a safe money making industry, fully demonstrated by those engaged in it, which leaves not a particle of doubt as to its financial success, yet new comers will crowd into the large cities and allow opportunities of becoming well-to-do dairymen slip through their fingers. The attraction for city life draws together a tremendous lot of skilled and unskilled labor, which several months in the year may be seen going to waste in our large cities in idle men walking the streets with their hands in their pockets, with but little prospect that their condition will raise above that of the hand-to-mouth fashion of eking out an existence.

The editor was buttonholed on the street by a well-known citizen and asked for an opinion upon the suggestion to send a person to some of the eastern states to induce people to emigrate to Tillamook county. He also thought the Headlight should show a magnanimous spirit in trying to help out the proposition. To put the matter into a nutshell we think it a little premature at the present time, and although it may be a good thing for a state to undertake it would be too burdensome upon the business men of this city and others who would have to pay the fiddler. In the first place it would take nearly a thousand dollars to work the scheme to perfection, and if we are not mistaken those who have been in the habit of subscribing liberally to the numerous calls made upon them feel as though they would like a rest for a few months at least. But suppose that the conditions were different, success depends entirely upon the selection of the person to be sent on such an errand. It requires a wide-awake man, full of push and energy, a good rustler and persuasive talker, who should not have real estate bait to offer as a side issue. Such a person, with hotel, railroad fare and wages would cost from $1,250 to $1,500 per month, and for several months, with about $400 worth of literary matter to distribute, it can be seen that our estimate of the cost is a very conservative one. It would, no doubt, be easy to get plenty of men to go for a nominal figure, but they would be practically of very little use if they did not possess the qualifications, and whose real object is to make a trip back east —at other people's expense. If some of our citizens want to do something to encourage people to locate in this county, we feel sure the penurious Port of Tillamook Commission will be glad to receive donations, for it is far better to go cautiously and not attempt to bite off more than can be mastigated. As was pointed out by a prominent business man of this city to us not long since, the county will stand a certain amount of immigration each year, and no more.

And this amount: the HEADLIGHT in conjunction with the Commission, will try and bring in.

THE EFFECTS OF DRINK.

Herman Brown Commits Suicide in F. Severance Barn.

Drink is responsible for the suicide of Herman Brown in Frank Severance's barn on Tuesday last, an inquest on whose body was held by Justice T. H.
Goyne that evening.

Dr. David Wiley was the first witness called and testified that deceased had died from dislocation of the neck.

Edward Weston said the last time he saw him alive was about eleven o'clock that morning, when he was asleep. He had previously to that helped him milk two cows. Did not notice anything peculiar about him, except that he was sick. Was unable to milk more than two cows, although he was in the habit of milking about eight. The deceased had never said anything about making away with himself. Was intoxicated when he came home on Monday night.
Was usually ashamed of himself after being intoxicated. Between four and five o'clock on Tuesday afternoon Weston went to the barn to tell him to come and get something to eat and found him hanging by the neck by a strap. He appeared to be dead then.

His name was Herman Brown. He was a Scandinavian about 45 years old.
He had known him eight or nine years.
Was accustomed to have despondent moods. Was usually despondent after being intoxicated. Brown came to this country when about 14 years old with an uncle but had not heard of his relatives for many years.

E. W. Stanley testified that between five and six o'clock Tuesday he went to Frank Severance's barn and Ed. Weston showed him where the body was. It was cold and stiff then. There was no sign of any scuffle, but tracks showed where he had jumped from a partition from between the stalls.

George Handley testified that he came home with him Monday night. He was badly intoxicated and fell down several times and bruised his nose. He did not seem to be despondent. That was between eight and nine o'clock.

The jury brought in a verdict that the deceased came to his death by hanging, done by his own hands with suicidal intent.

Two Splicers Get Spliced.

Rev. R. Y. Blalock and Miss May Donaldson were married at the residence of the bride's mother at Fairview on the 6th inst., by Rev. W. W. Davis, who tied the nuptial knot. Miss Donaldson is a daughter of the late Mr. Joseph Donaldson, and is one of Tillamook's estimable and accomplished young ladies.
Rev. R. Y. Blalock is a Baptist minister stationed at Hebo, having the work of that denomination to look after in this county. He is much respected. The bride and groom have the best wishes of the community for their future happiness and usefulness, in which the Headlight chimes in with "Amen."

Married, on Monday, at the residence of the bride's parents in Tillamook City, Rev. A. R. Griggs and Miss Lottie Wiley.
Rev. W. S. Holt, D.D., tied the nuptial knot. The bride is the much respected and estimable daughter of Dr. D. Wiley, who, by her lady-like and affable disposition, was very popular with the young people of this city, as well as others with whom she came in contact with. Rev. A.
R. Griggs was formerly minister of the Presbyterian church in this city, but is now in charge of the Presbyterian church at Kelso, Wash. Mr. Griggs made quite a number friends during his stay in this county. The wedding was of a private character, only the contracting parties and members of the bride's family being present. The bride wore a beautifully trimmed white organdie dress. The happy couple left on the stage Tuesday, and it is almost useless to add carrying with them the best wishes of a large number of intimate and staunch friends to their new home. What is Tillamook's loss is Kelso's gain.

Birthday Surprise Party.

It was suggested by some of the ladies of the United Brethren church that they give their pastor Rev. F. H. Neff, a surprise party on his birthday. The idea was readily taken up and arrangements accordingly made. On Monday evening a company of about 60 persons assembled at the residence of Miss Lottie Freeman.
From there they proceeded to the parsonage, the company singing a song when it reached the door. This surprised the inmates, only to be doubly surprised to find so large a company of friends awaiting admittance on the out side.
The company filed into the parsonage as soon as the invitation of "Come in" was given, but the accommodation being so limited there was not sufficient room for all. It was suggested the party repair to the church, which was immediately done, and here arrangements were soon made to accommodate the crowd. The ladies having well filled baskets, the work bench was cleared of its tools and converted into a table. Then the ladies made every body interested in their dainties, and coffee having been provided, the company participated in a most pleasant and sociable time. There was another surprise in store for Pastor Neff, for after lunch the ladies presented him with a new suit of clothes as a birthday present. This the rev. gentleman accepted, and in expressing his thanks, appreciated the many acts of kindness the members of his congregation had bestowed upon him and his family.

At ten o'clock the party started for home, feeling that it had spent a most pleasant evening, and one that will be remembered.

To Tillamook Mountains.

As Arno Dosch has for years been watching the weather indications as they appeared of mornings coming through Tillamook gap in the Coast range, he was curious to see at close range what that gap contained besides weather forecasts. And so he shouldered his fishing tackle last week, and set out about from the comforts of the home orchard in Peaceful valley, and now that he has returned he gives glowing accounts of that part of Oregon, so near to Portland and yet so far, and is enthusiastic over the novelty of a trip through it. For miles to the westward were fine farms and orchards, with most excellent improvements, and beyond them the slopes of the Coast range, with many a mile devoid of human habitation. Through the gap and down toward old ocean's roar the tinkle of the cowbell is heard, and the land flows with butter milk and trout, and the scenery is wild and grand. It is a great dairy country, and will continue to become more so until it can butter the bread of the world and furnish pineapple cheese for all the fancy grocers on the Pacific coast.—Oregonian.

The friends of General Otis are becoming hopeful that they will succeed in having him retained in his present command. This week they were deeply encouraged, and one, a high official of the war department, openly admitted that he believed "popular clamor" would result in his friend's recall, and the assignment of General Miles or General Merritt to Manila.
