Outlawry in Philippines.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—The execution of Morales and Gonzalez, the Philippine leaders, marks the inauguration of a new policy in the Philippines. This is the execution of the death sentence by order of military officers in command in the cases of persons, natives or others, convicted and sentenced by military commissions organized under the rules of war. Morales and Gonzalez were convicted by a military commission of the murder of Filipinos, and were sentenced to be hanged near Dayabang March 30, and the press dispatches from Manila show that the sentence was carried into effect. No official report of the cases has been received at the War Department. There have been several cases where the death penalty was imposed by military tribunals, but up to the present instance no case where the death sentence was carried into effect. All the previous cases were submitted to the President for final action, and in every instance the sentence was commuted to imprisonment for life. It is stated that General Otis' action is undoubtedly intended to suppress brigandage and outlawry in the Philippines, but some conservative officers fear that his summary action may jeopardize the safety of American prisoners now in the hands of the insurgents.

WALKED INTO BOER TRAP.

Six British Guns and Convoy Taken With Little Fighting.

BUSHMAN KOP, Saturday, March 31.—The British force commanded by Colonel Broadwood, consisting of the Tenth Hussars, Household Cavalry, two horse batteries and a force of mounted infantry under Colonel Pilcher, which has been garrisoning Thabanchu, was obliged, in consequence of the near approach of a large force of Boers, to leave last night.

Colonel Broadwood marched to the Bloemfontein water works, south of the Modder, where he encamped at 4 this morning. At early dawn the camp was shelled by the enemy from a near point.

Colonel Broadwood sent off a convoy with the batteries, while the rest of the force remained to act as a rear guard. The convoy arrived at a deep spruit, where the Boers were concealed, and the entire body walked into ambush and was captured, together with six guns.

The loss of life was not great, since most of the British had walked into the trap before a shot was fired.

General Colville's division, which left Bloemfontein early this morning, arrived here at noon and is now shelling the Boers.

A PARTY BLUNDER.

Why Simon Will Vote Against the Puerto Rican Bill.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Senator Simon occupied the floor of the Senate for a few minutes this afternoon, and stirred up quite a little controversy over pledges to Puerto Rico. Senator Foraker sought to discredit his statement of any pledges, but Simon retorted that General Miles had made pledges, supplemented by the Secretary of War and the President. Senator McBride and Representative Moody were present when Senator Simon spoke, although it was quite late.

In the course of his remarks Senator Simon said:

"I shall vote against this bill. I shall not do this, however, without some hesitation and embarrassment, for I deeply regret the necessity of differing from so many of my party associates on this floor; but I do not consider this a political question, and, as I am so firmly convinced our plain duty is to abolish all customs tariffs between the United States and Puerto Rico, and give her products free access to our markets, I cannot see my way clear to do otherwise than to express my dissent from the tariff features of this bill by voting against it."

"While my own view on this subject is a matter of no great concern, it is some satisfaction to me to know that the overwhelming sentiment of the people of my state is in accord with the view I entertain, and indorse the vote I propose to cast. The State of Oregon, which I have the honor in part to represent, is intensely earnest in its demand for free commercial intercourse between this country and Puerto Rico, and the people of my state are especially insistent in their demand for fair dealing with the people of the Island of Puerto Rico. They cannot understand why we should refuse to do that which was promised, and which, by consideration of good faith, requires should be done."

"I am not prepared to say that the legislation with the Republican majority in this Congress seem determined to enact, in violation of the pledges made to the people of Puerto Rico, will cause a loss of the State of Oregon to the Republican party in November next, but I do say—and I say it with much confidence—that if there is any one act of this Congress that will render doubtful the vote of that state, it is the passage of this bill in its present form, in which it is proposed to repudiate the pledges heretofore made to the people of Puerto Rico. I am not so pessimistic as to believe that the enactment of this legislation will result in the defeat of the Republican candidate for President in November, although I have no doubt that a very large element of the Republican party will be greatly disappointed with the enactment of this tariff legislation, and that it will lose to that party more votes than it otherwise would receive, but I have an abiding confidence that very many of the people, offended by this proposed legislation, especially the business element and the conservative people of this country, upon sober second thought, will never consent to turn the administration of Government affairs over to Mr. Bryan and his associates upon a platform akin to that adopted at Chicago in 1896, and that, notwithstanding what I conceive to be a serious party blunder, President McKinley will be triumphantly re-elected in November next."

The following are extracts from the remainder of the speech:

"Who is it that opposes the performance of our plain duty to the people of Puerto Rico? The claimer about the Capitol from the 'protected interests' must not be taken for the voice of the American people."

"If we cannot afford to permit Puerto Rico to have free commercial intercourse with the rest of this country, it is high time for us to declare that we are incapable of either governing or protecting that island, and we should haul down our flag and abandon our efforts to do either."

"The proposition to discriminate against the people of Puerto Rico is, in my judgement, wrong in principle. It is not protection, because it does not protect a single industry that requires protection. It is not free trade, because it

Roberts on Death of Joubert.

BLOEMFONTEIN, Friday March 30.—Lord Roberts has sent the following dispatch to President Kruger:

"Have just heard of the death of General Joubert, and desire to offer my sincere condolences upon the sad event. Would ask you to convey to General Joubert's family an expression of my most respectful sympathy at their sad bereavement, and to assure them also from me that all ranks of Her Majesty's forces share my feelings of deep regret at the sudden and untimely end of so distinguished a gentleman, who devoted his life to the service of his country, and whose personal gallantry was only surpassed by his humane conduct and chivalrous bearing under all circumstances."

imposes what I conceive to be an iniquitous charge and burden upon the island.

"If conditions have so changed since December 5 last that it is apparent now that discrimination should be made between the people of the United States and the people of Puerto Rico, and it is no longer our plain duty to abolish all customs tariff, ought not the people of this country to be apprised of these changed conditions, the cause predominating them, and the apparent necessity for violating the pledges heretofore made? I have not been convinced, nor have the people been convinced, that conditions have changed, or that there is justification for the action proposed."

Adrift on the Pacific.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 1.—Advises from Honolulu, under the date of March 21, state that the well-known steamer Cleveland, bound for San Francisco, with a $100,000 cargo of sugar from Kahalul, is adrift with a broken shaft and practically helpless in the open sea. When last heard from she was several hundred miles from Maui. Three of its crew left the steamer in a small boat to go to Maui for assistance. They were spoken by the steamer Eric March 20, 40 miles from Maui.

The men in the boat stated that the Cleveland, when they left her, was 320 miles north-west of the Island of Maui. The little boat had traveled 280 miles of the journey to Maui, a trip that must have required six days, so that the Cleveland must have moved a good deal since she was last located. She has two yards and can put up a little sail, but not enough to control her movements. A steamer has gone to search for her.

About two years ago the Cleveland met with a similar accident between San Francisco and Puget Sound. After being abandoned by her crew she went ashore on Vancouver Island.

During the Civil War the Cleveland was a blockade runner, and was captured on one of her trips to Charleston. She was built in 1861, and has seen service of all kinds, all over the world. Her name has been changed many times. Lately she was used as a transport for the Philippines.

Casualties in the Philippines.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—General Otis has cabled the War Department, probably with the view of correcting erroneous impressions that exist in this country as to the state of the insurrection in the Philippines, a summary of the rise of development of the campaign since the first of the calendar year. His figures go far toward offsetting the belief that exist in some quarters that since the addition of guerrilla methods of warfare, the insurgents have inflicted more substantial losses upon the American armies in comparison with the punishment which they have themselves received.

A significant sentence in the report differentiates insurgents and ladrones, showing that Otis has taken cognizance of the fact that a considerable number of hostiles are not soldiers under the rules of war and may not expect the same treatment. The report, which is dated Manila, April 3, is as follows:

"Since January 1 124 skirmishes in the Philippines have been reported, mostly light affairs. Our casualties were 10 officers and 78 enlisted men killed, 13 officers and 151 men wounded. Insurgents and ladrones loss is killed and left on the field, 1425; captured (mostly wounded), 1453; small arms secured, 3051."

pieces of artillery, 165; large captures of other insurgent property.

"A number of important insurgent officers are surrendering and the situation is gradually becoming more pacific."

An immense concourse of sea gulls—10,000 of them, more or less—were seen over the lake near town on Tuesday—sporting, fighting and making noise enough to rouse the dead, says the Klamath Falls Republican. They came from the Pacific Ocean, and the come in force to the lakes of Klamath County every Spring, though generally not so early as they have this year.
