Some of our citizens are not feeling well or robust after wrestling with the gripe for several days, especially B. C. Lamb, who has had a double dose of that undesirable malady.

Every republican in Tillamook should vote their ticket next June and vote it straight, and democrats might do many a worse thing by not voting the republican ticket also, for every taxpayer is desirous of seeing efficient candidates elected. And they are on the republican ticket.
Mr. G. W. Kiger has a contract from the government to furnish 2000 tons of rock to be placed behind the spur dikes recently constructed in Tillamook bay. As it is seen that the dikes are doing the work for which they were intended, the rock is for the purpose of making them permanent. Mr. Kiger will receive $1 a ton for the rock.

John G. Wooley, editor of the Voice, and who is called the "John the Baptist" in temperance work, is to lecture in this city next Thursday afternoon, May 17, at two o'clock, which will give the citizens of this county an opportunity to hear Mr. Wooley discuss the prohibition question.
Messrs. J. W. Farquhar and Eugene France, from Aberdeen, Wash., were in the city the first part of the week, leaving again on Tuesday. They were here for the purpose of making arrangements for the disposal and purchase to what is known as the Wooley property, all of which had to be again recorded.
Dr. W. Tyler Smith, the republican nominee for joint senator, will visit this county next week, commencing his campaign in the south end of the county with Mr. B. L. Eddy, republican nominee for joint representative, after which they will make a tour in Yamhill county, pouring hot shot into the popocrats.
By a vote of 225 to 35 the house passed the Nicaragua canal bill. If this decided the matter it would satisfy the people on the Pacific Coast, but the senate has to have its say, and, no doubt, it will decide to do nothing until the commission, which is investigating the most practical route and cost of construction, is ready to report.

We understand Dr. James Wiley will remain in this city for a time and practice with his father. Dr. James held the responsible position of house surgeon at the Good Samaritan hospital after he graduated. This gave him considerable experience in his profession which would otherwise have taken him years to acquire. With this experience, and having the ability to make a medical practitioner of some ability, there are not a few of his many friends who would like to see him remain here permanently.
A council meeting was held on Wednesday evening, with President A. J. Cohn in the chair and Councilmen M. Leach and Geo. A. Edmunds present. Besides an informal discussion as to patching up streets to be paid for out of the road fund, the only other business before the council was to allow the following bills: J. F. Jenkins, gravel, $47; recorder's salary, $10; water rent, two months, $80; Headlight, 90c.; marshal and commissioner's salary, $40.25; and accepting the bond of C. E. Hadley, with W. H. H. Cary and B. C. Lamb as bondsmen, for a saloon license.

One of our subscribers, writing from the Nehalem, has this to say: "As election day approaches we are naturally looking over the nominees for the various offices. The republican nominee for the important office of county commissioner is Mr. L. Parrish, who has been a resident of this county for nearly twenty years, has sound judgment, and although at present engaged in dairy farming, of which he has made a success, he is a master mechanic and a good mathematician, with a good knowledge of bridge and road work and correct ideas of county government. Moreover, Mr. Parrish is an impartial man and will work for the most good to the greatest number. The nominee for road supervisor at Nehalem on the republican ticket, Mr. N. P. Alley, has been a resident of Nehalem about fifteen years, is a property holder, and his interests are identical with that of the people, and is a man qualified for this important position. Nehalem's two last supervisors were transient men with no interest beyond the two dollars per diem, and who, when they could no longer hold the position, simply put their hats on and stepped out of the county. One of them used to go on the road arm. I with pipe, gloves and newspaper! Now we have had enough of these transients, and the people cannot do better than support Parrish and Alley for commissioner and road supervisor, whose interests are identical with their own. Now a few words in regard to roads. I presume both commissioner and supervisor will look over the ground and decide where work is most needed, but desire to say—and all residents of this place if they will put personal and sectional interests aside—will concede that the most crying need for a road is the completion of the main trunk road from Tillamook, if not to the county line, then, at least as far as the forks of the river, the centre of the community. And, secondly, a road from Nehalem city up the west side of the river, continuing on up the north fork. North of Nehalem city there is a fair road as far as settled; anything further looks for an outlet to Clatsop, while a good road to our county seat, where all have to go, should be the first consideration."

There are not a few citizens of this county who are under the impression that the dairymen and farmers of Tillamook have disposed of too much stock the past twelve months. This is, perhaps, true, but with the prevailing high prices for all kinds of stock to tempt them, no one can blame them for following good business prudence and disposing of their stock when it was profitable for them to do so. Even if they have done so, it is not without some good features, for it will stimulate the raising of stock in this county now it is reasonably certain the price of cattle will continue to be high for several years. Instead of knocking calves on the head as soon as they see daylight it will be profitable to raise them.

Drops the Admiral.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—A special from Springfield, O., says:
W. S. Thomas, chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee, states that John R. McLean has deserted his brother-in-law, Admiral Dewey, and jumped into the front seat of Bryan's band wagon. McLean has authorized the state convention, and has abandoned all thought of having the time when it will best suit Dewey's interests. Chairman Thomas stated further that there was no possible room for misconception of McLean's action, declaring that it meant that the Dewey candidacy, which has fallen flat the country over, is to be gradually abandoned. The plan is to let the people gradually forget the matter.
Rev. Dr. David Gregg, of New York, is likely to be the next minister to be charged with heresy. "The Presbyterian creed is dead," he says. "Two-thirds of the ministers of the Presbyterian church don't accept the confession of faith. The other third have forgotten its dogmas."
