Style is everything in a newspaper of fice, and some papers spell "theater" "center," "live," and so on with a final "er." That is why one of these papers awhile ago announced that a celebrated French actor received a salary of "300 livers."

It would be a long story to tell in detail how mixups happen, but that they really do happen can be doubted by no newspaper man whose knowledge of the business ever led him to explorations of the mysteries of the composing room, as well as the somewhat intricate mazes of the editorial room. And so this heartbreaking account of a marriage may be vouched for as an actual occurrence.

The church was finely decorated with holly and evergreen and the altar was intirely hidden in a wealth of flowers. Out of the recesses rose rare tropical plants and from the ceiling hung fifteen veils, which just at this time of the year are scarce and correspondingly dear, at 6 cents to 8 1/2 cents per pound. There was also an active demand for choice lambs and farmers living east of the Mississippi river can now profitably turn to sheep raising and take the bride who wore a gown of white corded silk, a creation of Worth's, with pearl ornaments.

"Then came the maid of honor, the cousin of the bride, a Miss Henrietta Blower, of Chicago, wearing a dress of white tulle, with diamond ornaments, and she was closely followed by a small bunch of Montana sheep, which bleated most piteously as they were driven on board and shipped to the winter hotels in Bermuda. They will be there but en traine and slightly decolette, and after the remainder of the party had reached the rail the minister turned and said in a most impressive voice. 'I cannot bid more than 6 1/2 cents for state veil, but cablegrams from London quote refrigerated beef at a price that will enable me to pay $4.90 for a car of choice Indiana beves, and hearing this, there was a rush for the young married couple and the bride fell into the arms of her father, who is known to bear a very striking resemblance to a Connecticut ox weighing 1,875 pounds. The market here took an upward turn and advanced 1 to 2 cents, and the guests, who numbered about 200, were served with a sumptuous dinner at the house of the bride."
