Attention! Old Soldiers.

All soldiers of the Rebellion and the Mexican War and Indian War veterans, and Spanish American War veterans and their families are cordially invited to attend a basket picnic, to be given by members of Corinth Post, No. 35, G.A.R., at Tillamook, July the Fourth, 1900, in G.A.R. Hall, over Todd's store. Dinner served promptly at 12 o'clock. (The bugle will sound to fall in). All those having families are expected to cook a little more than enough for their immediate families so that those having none will be provided for. Be sure that there is plenty of baked pork and beans, boiled ham and roast chicken and other substantial food, for we generally have too much sweet things. Those bringing baskets please turn them over to the Committee, so that the table can be ready a little before 12. Tea, coffee, sugar, and cream will be furnished by the committee.

By order of Committee,

Another Railroad Cud to Chew.

There is a good prospect that the California and Northwestern Railroad will in the near future be extended northward from Ukiah, Cal., its present terminus, through the counties of Northern California and Southern Oregon, to Astoria. So reports Samuel Connell, president of the Portland Board of Trade, who has just returned from a trip to San Francisco and other California points.

At a meeting of the Board of Trade yesterday Mr. Connell told what he had learned in regard to the matter. The California and Northern starts at San Francisco and runs through the coast counties to Ukiah. From there a survey has been completed most of the way to Ureka, in the extreme northern part of California. It is now proposed to push still further north, hugging the Oregon coast closely.

The route proposed is through Humboldt county, where there are rich timber districts, and on up the coast through Oregon, taking in Umpqua, Coos Bay, Tillamook and other coast districts, probably terminating at Astoria.

The people of San Francisco, Mr. Connell says, place faith in the enterprise, and the general impression is that it will be carried to completion within the next two years.

The effect of all this, it was pointed out, will not be advantageous to Portland. Unless a railroad from this point to Tillamook and the southern counties is soon constructed, the California and Northwestern will undoubtedly take much of the trade of those counties to San Francisco. It was thought, however, that the announcement of this project may spur the Southern Pacific to action in regard to the extension of its line to Tillamook from Sheridan.—Portland Telegram.

Passing of the Republics.

The press of the United States continue to criticize the Boer war, and it is plain to see how some of the newspapers are hostile to England for political purposes, for when considered in the light of the Philippine question there is very little difference between the United States and England in their expansion policy. But it is interesting to read newspaper comments upon the Boer war now that that conflict is drawing to a close, a few of which we give below:

Philadelphia Ledger: The Boer army was never a compact, well disciplined body. It was a gathering of "embattled farmers," who fought each for himself, and it is probable now that the mysterious disappearance of its troops is due to the simple fact that many of them have grown tired of the war and have returned to their farms.

Boston Globe: Then harken to the cry of jingo England, led by the poet of land lust, calling for the strangulation of two long established states and for the practical disfranchisement of the Dutch citizens of Natal. What then becomes of our Anglo-Saxon boast that we are the defenders of liberty? Inverting the words of Patrick Henry, one might well exclaim: "If this is liberty, give me death."

Kansas City Star: The occupation of Johannesburg is an interesting event to the world generally, as it makes Great Britain the owner of about the last of the great gold fields on the globe that does not happen to belong to the United States. Great Britain and the United States have possession now of nearly all the extensive areas of "pay dirt" on this terrestrial ball, and it is a fortunate circumstance for the civilized universe that it is so.

Chicago Inter Ocean: Lord Roberts' proclamation omits "Free" from the new territory's name. This was well done. The word has been wiped from the face of the land by the imperial armies. A free state has perished from the earth. An imperial colony has its place. And the saddest thought of all to the American citizen is that this outrage has been accomplished with the moral, though tacit, support of that branch of the United States government which represents the banner republic of the century in the eyes of the civilized world.

Minneapolis Times: The recuperative powers of the Boers are marvelous, true enough, but all friends of the Africans, as a class, will hope that the councils of discretion will prevail over those of useless valor, and that Kruger will propose peace. If Great Britain (which is not probable) fails to recognize that consideration is due to brave men and imposes terms at variance with latter day ideas of righteousness, it will be time for all the great powers—these United States being of the number—to file a protest, diplomatic if we may, denunciatory if we must.

Washington Post: Unhappily, the result, as things now seem, must be fatal to liberty, devotion and free institutions in South Africa. We have passed the age—if such an age ever existed—when gods come to the rescue of the righteous and the right. But it is our belief that these splendid fighting men—these Boers—the sons of the finest heroes in all history—the descendants of the martyred Dutch and the tortured Huguenots—it is our belief, we say, that the blood of British pirates will be shed a while longer ere the English rabble and their American sympathizers—eternal shame to them!—quite in brutal jubilation over the murder of a state.

An enterprising Philadelphia restaurant proprietor hung out a large blackboard sign the other day, with the following announcement: "You can't beat out 15-cent dinners." This sign proved to be a good drawing card until a young man of humorous turn of mind came along. The latter, seeing the sign, stopped, and, after scrutinizing it closely, smiled one of those smiles which bode no one any good. He waited until none of the employees were watching, and, taking out his handkerchief, he erased the letter "b" from the word "beat." The transformation was complete, and it was not until the crowd had collected that the proprietor of the restaurant discovered why there was a larger crowd outside than inside.

Barber Got In Mixed.

Henry Lamm, an attorney of Sedalia, told a story at the reception to the Missouri Bar association in Kansas City which caused a great laugh. Mr. Lamm was called on to make an impromptu speech. He said:

"This is taking an unfair advantage of me. I have a paper in my pocket which I am to read at the meeting tomorrow. It is a very dry paper and it will take an hour to read it. If I am given the slightest encouragement I will read it right now. That would be one on you wouldn't it?"

"And that reminds me. I was in Texas recently and there they have a new joke. A man asks you: 'Have you heard the story about the two dirty collars?' You are supposed to answer 'No' and then the man says: 'That's one on you.'"

"A Dutch barber who had been sold on this joke concluded to try it on the next customer who came into his shop. So as he was getting ready to shave the next caller he asked him:

"'Have you heard dot story about the two dirty collars?'"

"'No,' answered the customer.

"'Well, dot's one you got on.'"

Jolly Old Bachelor Girls.

They're free as the breezes that saucily kiss

Their faces so sweetly mature.

They're proud of the maidenly title of "Miss."

And laugh at the woes they endure.

Their hair may be frizzed in the up-to-date way

Or corkscrewed in old-fashioned curls.

Yet all are as fresh as the flowers of May—

The jolly old bachelor girls.

The follies of youth are to them but a dream

To laugh at—a dream of the past,

The giddy young maidens they scornfully deem

As too inexcusably fast.

They've outlived the era of maidenly shams,

And now as pure, beautiful pearls,

Wear graces more soft than the glittering gems—

The jolly old bachelor girls.

The nonsense that falls from the lips of the men

They take for just what it is worth;

An oasis to them is the bachelor den

In the great dreary desert of earth.

They look with a calm philosophical eye

On life with its eddies and whirls,

Yet hope for a heavenly change by and by.

The jolly old bachelor girls.

Here's luck to the frisky old dears, every one!

They're mighty good fellows to meet;

They're full of philosophy, logic and fun,

Are sensible, wise and discreet.

Though they may have lived through a pair of decades

And yet demurely scarce are the soured old maids.

In the ranks of the bachelor girls.
