Captain Shields and Party Captured in Marinduque.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—The War Department has received the following cablegram from General MacArthur:
 "Manila, Sept. 28.—Adjutant-General, Washington, September 11, Captain Devereaux Shields, with 51 men of Company F, Twenty-ninth Regiment United States Volunteer Infantry, and one hospital corps man, left Santa Cruz, Marinduque, by the gunboat Villalobos, for Torrijos, intending to return overland to Santa Cruz. Have heard nothing since from Shields. Scarcely doubt that the entire party has been captured with many killed and wounded, Shields among the latter. Information sent by letter from the commanding officer at Boac, dated 20th, received September 24th, consisted of rumors through natives.
 "The Yorktown and two gunboats, George Anderson (Colonel Thirty-eighth Volunteer Infantry), with two companies Thirty-eighth Volunteer Infantry, sent to Marinduque immediately. Anderson confirms the first report as to capture, but was unable, on September 27, to give details and present whereabouts of Shields and party, or names of the killed and wounded. His information will probably be available soon. Anderson has orders to commence operations immediately and move relentlessly, until Shields and his party are rescued. Logan will be sent to Marinduque, if necessary, to clear up the situation.
 "MACARTHUR."

The Twenty-ninth Infantry was recruited at Fort McPherson (Atlanta), Ga. Captain Shields was Lieutenant-Colonel of the Second Mississippi during the Spanish War. He was made Captain in the Twenty-ninth Infantry July 5, 1899. He was a resident of Natchez, Miss., where his wife now resides.

The scene of this latest reverse is a small island lying due south of the southern coast of Luzon and about 300 miles from Manila. Marinduque is about 24 miles in diameter and was garrisoned by two small detachments of United States troops. One of these was at Boac, on the west coast of the island, and the other was at Santa Cruz, the principal port on the North side. Captain Shields appears to have started from Santa Cruz on a gunboat for Torrijos, a small coast port, and it is inferred that the boat as well as the body of troops under that officer has been captured, for the dispatch makes no reference to her return.

The officers of the gunboat Villalobos were: Lieutenant Edward Simpson, commanding; Ensign I. F. Landis and Naval Cadet R. W. Vincent. Lieutenant Simpson has seen over 14 years active sea service. He entered the Navy June 17, 1888. He returned from his last tour of sea service in May, 1896, and was assigned to shore duty. February 1, 1898, he was ordered to the Brooklyn. Ensign Landis has seen not quite three years of sea service. He joined the Navy September 6, 1893, and his last cruise expired in May, 1899. He was ordered to the Asiatic squadron December 22, 1899. Cadet Vincent has had one year and seven months of sea service. February 1, 1899, he was assigned to the New Orleans.

The ideal husband is the one who always does exactly as his wife wants him to.

The Bryanite managers announce that they hail the coal miners' strike as a distinct aid to Bryan and his cause. Is it not remarkable that a candidate for the highest office in the land should regard with favor a strike which means incalculable loss and hardship to thousands of people? What a commentary on the Bryan stock-in-trade when such a calamity is welcomed as tending to promote democratic success.

James Oliver, a prosperous farmer of Kenova, W. Va., lost his wife three months ago. He was inconsolable. She was buried on the farm and a fine marble shaft placed over the grave. Arrangements were also made for memorial service and sermon at the grave. Meanwhile Miss Henrietta Cowper, young, graceful and charming, arrived in town. The weeping Oliver "noticed" her. On the day of the memorial service, with hundreds of people participating, the solemnity of the occasion was at the close changed to a joyousness for two of the throng. The minister was standing as though in expectancy and while the waiting people watched Oliver arose and advanced toward the chancel and stood in waiting. In a moment he was joined by Miss Cowper, who, approaching, placed her hand in his. Then all was plain. No one now thought of leaving and James Oliver and Henrietta Cowper were pronounced one. The happy couple drove at once to Mr. Oliver's home and far into the night could be heard the gay voices of the young people who had accompanied them. Across the field, like a specter, gleamed white in the moonlight the marble shaft above the grave of the first wife.

Quaint Features of Life.

It is not often that one pair of shoes will do two men, but in Middlesboro Ky. there are two men who wear the same pair at the same time. One has the right foot off, while the other is minus the left. They wear the same size shoe and make it a point to buy together and only have to get one pair. By this method they are able to try their footwear at half price, as they divide the cost.

Willie Fahn, aged just 2 years, lives with his parents half a mile from Kaiser's lake, near St. Joseph, Mo. One day last week Willie disappeared in the morning and was discovered thirty-six hours later stalled in the mud of the lake shore, nothing but his head being visible. As near as can be learned from his baby talk he got stuck there shortly after his disappearance and had slept as he stood all night. The little fellow was weak and desperately hungry when rescued, but soon recovered and is now as well as ever.

An Illinois paper contains the following comprehensive ad: "I take great pleasure in announcing to the people of Wellington and the surrounding country that I have purchased the J. N. Barritt stock of furniture and will not only enlarge the stock, but will put in a full line of undertaker's goods. I am a licensed embalmer and will attend calls night and day. Will furnish a funeral car when desired. I also do all kinds of repairing and make screens. I am also an attorney and notary public and will give legal advice and draw up legal papers of all kinds. Farm loans a specialty. I solicit a share of your patronage and invite you to call and get acquainted."

Rather than write his name 54,000 times A. M. Moreland, secretary of the Carnegie Steel company, tendered his resignation. This is the basis of the recent sensational story about Mr. Moreland being forced out of the Carnegie concerns and his retirement being followed by that of other officials. Mr. Moreland in the secretary of all the Carnegie interests, including the Carnegie company, the New Jersey corporation, which is the operating company. The old Carnegie Steel company, limited, organized under the laws of Pennsylvania, has to retain a separate organization. The work of issuing the $160,000,000 of bonds of the Carnegie company, which was part of the reorganization scheme, fell upon Mr. Moreland. There are 54,000 bonds, ranging in denomination from $1,000 to $25,000 each, and Mr. Moreland had to affix his signature, as Secretary of the Carnegie Steel company, limited, to all of them.

Cecil Rhodes once fitted up a beautiful cemetery near Kimberley, but for some reason it remained untenanted. Seeing this Mr. Rhodes offered a bonus to widows who would bring their husbands to be buried in this cemetery, but without avail. Eventually one poor woman allowed her husband to be buried there and a handsome marble stone was erected over his grave. But even then the scheme hung fire. The inhabitants, passing the gates of the beautiful cemetery, would look through the railings and see the one man lying there in solitary state and go away shaking their heads and thinking how lonely it must be. Mr. Rhodes got so exasperated that he increased the bonus until it was a large sum. Then the inhabitants gradually began to weaken, one after the other bringing their dead to the lonely cemetery, which became as popular as such a place can properly be.

Persistence Wins.

Here is a hint to office seekers, related by a Washington correspondent: Mr. Blank, who used to hang about Washington a good deal, bothering the life out of people in the State department and the White House, is now in a snug berth abroad, one where he draws a modest salary and has no power for harm.
 "How in the world did Blank manage to get that appointment?" some one asked.
 "Don't you know? Well, I'll tell you. He hung around here a long time, giving advice and putting in a good word for himself, till one day John Hay went over to the White House and said:
 "Mr. President, Blank is bothering the life out of me again. He is still after that place abroad."
 "How long will it keep him out of the country if we give it to him?" asked the president.
 "Oh, two years at least, and longer if we have luck."
 "Then make out his commission to-day and I'll sign it."
