What a strange coincidence it would be if McKinley should carry Nebraska and Bryan carry Ohio. Politics often takes strange freaks, and this may possibly be one of them next month.
Elder B. F. Durfee will continue his discourses on the exposition of the origin of the book of Mormon as gleaned from the bible and sacred history at the Adventist church on Sunday afternoon, at 2:30 p.m. All are cordially invited to attend. No collection.
The schooner Anita, which went on the south spit of Nestucca last Saturday week, succeeded in getting off on Thursday. She was uninjured, and was taken back to the warehouse and her cargo got on board again and crossed out on Friday without further mishap.
The Oregon Telephone Company has connected this city with North Yamhill, the line being complete on Saturday. The company will continue the wire to Astoria, and with this object in view a large number of men are employed to push it through as rapidly as possible.
Attorney C. R. Wright, one of the republican war horses in Portland, was in the city on Monday. It is twelve months since he was in the county, and as he noticed many improvements on the farms and in this city, he came to the conclusion that people were prosperous "over here."
Mr. E. Marolf has contracted with Beals Bros. to sell his ranch of 320 acres, situated one half mile from Tillamook City. They will divide the ranch into 40 acre tracts or will sell in a solid body, as may best suit the purchaser. For further particulars apply to Beals Bros., Tillamook City.
Dr. James Wiley has accepted the offer to become assistant to Dr. A. J. Giesy in Portland. As Dr. Giesy is one of the leading physicians in that city, this places Dr. James in a position to show his ability and gives him an opportunity to be identified with them, where, no doubt, he will become prominent in his profession.
One gets so befogged reading the predictions of party leaders and newspapers as to the result of the presidential election that we wonder where they get all their gull from. There's just as likely to be a landslide one way as the other, and that means that some of these political prophets are going to get badly fooled and wonder where they are at after the fight is over.
The republicans of Tillamook are going to have a scrap with political apathy the next two weeks. Tillamookers are not chewing the rag, it is true, about politics, but their votes next month will prove that they knew months ago how they intended to vote when they cast their ballots two to one for McKinley and republican prosperity.
The board of equalization concluded its session on Saturday without making any change in the assessment roll, which shows that the county assessor has made an equitable assessment and one in which the taxpayers are satisfied. Judge G. W. Sappington is well pleased with the assessment roll, and County Clerk Mason sent a summary of it to Salem on Wednesday.

Mr. C. H. Wheeler has nearly completed the fine tug and 140 foot barge for the Nehalem Lumber Co., which have been built in Portland. Both of these boats have been thoroughly treated with the well-known German wood preservative, Avenarius Carbolinum, so they will be well preserved and likely to live a long time. Wade & Briggs, of this city, are agents for the paint.
This is Captain Harts' last tour of inspection for the season, but later he will visit Tillamook Bay. The improvements at the head of this bay have proved very successful, and have straightened and widened the channel to Tillamook City by cutting off corners, till now Elmore's new boat, which is 100 feet in length, goes up to the town without difficulty.—Oregonian.
Judge R. P. Boise, who held court here this week, was surprised at the amount of freight which comes into Tillamook, but he could not help remarking when he saw the legion of kegs: "Tillamook, by the look of things, must drink more beer than most places." The judge thinks that owing to the failure of the wheat crop in the Willamette valley it will not be ten years before that section of the country is completely turned into dairy farms.
Married, in Portland, on the 4th inst., Mr. Walter C. Dey and Miss Lucia J. Hunt. The bride is a highly respected young lady with many friends in this city, who, we are sure, extend to the happy couple their congratulations and best wishes for their future happiness. Mrs. Dey is the daughter Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Hunt, and is a Tillamook young lady. She was the obliging postmistress of this city under the Cleveland administration, and soon after her time expired she left the city to reside in Portland.
The steamer Harrison came up on Saturday with Captain T. H. Neill in command. The Pacific Navigation Company has lost a good man in Captain Dodge, and we are sorry that he has quit the company, for Tillamookers have a good deal of confidence in his ready judgment and ability; besides, he made himself pleasant and agreeable, and we have a vague idea that if Capt. Dodge was at the head of a transportation company between here and Astoria the freight would be handled more expeditiously. Why not organize a company, build a steamer and put Capt. Dodge in command? And then business men would not be subject to discriminating freight rates and have to wait for weeks for their freight, as they have done in the past.
A poor little whelp died an ignominious death last week, for its dog spirit had been wrested from it by the cruel hand of fate. A wagon was on its way home one day last week from Tillamook city, and when a few miles from town the occupants were accosted with "Say, what in thunder is that dangling from your wagon?" With a sudden glance into the bed of the wagon they exclaimed, "Why, where's the dog?" There, hanging by a rope from the wagon and only a few inches from the ground, with its tongue protruding, was the lifeless body of the poor little brute. Although resuscitated life failed to return. It was a disobedient dog, for, unperceived, it had jumped from the wagon and strangled to death as the wagon rumbled over chuck holes which tightened up the rope at every jolt. And without even a chance to make a last whine or a bark, the canine was snuffed out of existence.

The twelve year old son of Mr. Thomas E. Coulson was playing on the stringers of an old bridge crossing Bewley creek on Tuesday when he fell in. His younger brother and sister were with him at the time, and seeing him splashing about in the water the children ran home to tell what had happened. It was nearly thirty minutes before assistance arrived at the place of the accident, when the boy was found dead in the creek. The coroner did not think it advisable to hold an inquest.
Bay View school closed on Friday with appropriate exercises and an address by Representative B. L. Eddy, when a number of the patrons were present. A Correction.
In regard to a paragraph published in the Ocean Wave, and which was copied in the Headlight, it has turned out that Mr. John Henderson and son did not drive out the cattle as stated. It was other parties who did so and I was misinformed when I gave the Ocean Wave the information, and in justice to Mr. Henderson I wish to have it corrected.

Circuit Court.
Judge R. P. Boise opened circuit court in department No. 2 on Monday, when the following cases were soon disposed of and the court adjourned Tuesday:
R. D. Peckham, plaintiff, vs. Wilson River Toll Road, defendant. It was ordered that the receiver sell the property and that the same be sold at public vendue on the first Monday in April, 1901. The compensation for receiver was fixed at $75 and J. E. Tuttle was allowed $228. The proceeds of the sale is to pay the following claims: Receiver, $37.69; A. H. Wilson, $100; L. L. Stillwell, $35; Clyde Clements, $20; Tillamook Lumber Co., $13.30; I. F. Larsen, $9; and J. E. Tuttle, $228, and the balance of the proceeds to be paid into court.
John K. Lester, plaintiff, vs. Frank S. Fairhurst and wife, defendants. A suit to quiet title, was continued.
Confirmation of sales in the executions against E. M. Keys, C. H. Worthington, A. L. Alderman (2), John J. Pye and C. C. Chatterton were ordered.
In the matter of the guardianship of the persons and estate of Katie R. Wilson, Maggie Fay Wilson, Maurice B. Wilson and Enes L. Wilson, minors, plaintiffs, vs. Fred Scherzinger, J. W. Hellenbrand, T. J. Lucy and G. H. Page, defendants. This was an appeal from the order of the county court allowing the defendants to take credit for the maintenance of the minors. The defendants were bondsmen of C. G. Cutting, who was appointed administrator of the estate but had left the county without making an accounting. The plaintiffs sought to have the amounts for maintenance and that of allowing Cutting $100 for his trouble disallowed, which would amount to about $700 for the bondsmen to make up. Judge Boise sustained the lower court with the exception of one particular. He thought the lower court had made a liberal allowance for the maintenance of the minors and was in a better position to know the facts of the case, but did not think Cutting was entitled to pay for his services, and made an order to that effect.
W. M. Ladd and others, plaintiffs, vs. W. Olsen and wife, defendants, was continued.
Sarah A. Daniel, plaintiff, vs. Charles H. Cotton, defendant, was dismissed by agreement.
Mary D. Jackson, plaintiff, vs. James M. Jackson, defendant, was a divorce case. Mrs. Jackson's grounds for asking that the marriage bonds be dissolved was on account of desertion. She testified that she was married to defendant in 1879 and had resided in this county. About three years ago, without cause, the defendant left for British Columbia and has not returned. He had written but once to the children, about twelve months after he left. Besides praying for a divorce, Mrs. Jackson asked for the custody of five children. The judge ordered a decree and gave plaintiff the custody of the children.
George E. Withington, plaintiff, vs. A. P. Wilson and wife, defendants. This is a suit to quiet title, whereas the defendants claim title to the land which was sold to them some eleven years since at a sheriff's sale. On motion of defendants it was ordered that part of the complaint be stricken out. A demurrer by defendants to the complaint was then argued, which Judge Boise overruled, and upon stipulation of the parties in open court, it was ordered that the defendants have thirty days to answer complaint and the plaintiff have thirty days thereafter to plead to said answer.
