The time for holding the board of commissioners' meeting having been changed to the first Wednesday in the month, it convened yesterday and adjourned until the 8th, as most of the business had been set for that date.

The board of county commissioners convene on Wednesday, and as the bicycle tax law was declared unconstitutional, would it not be the correct thing for the board to refund the money to those to whom it belongs?

Mr. W. E. Page has opened his second hand store on the east side of the Headlight office. He is now prepared to buy second hand furniture, stoves, etc., for which he will pay cash. All kinds of second hand goods sold cheap.

As all the business men who were to address the pupils of the public school in the opera house were somewhat diffident as to their oratorical abilities, they turned up missing Friday. Mr. T. B. Handley kindly consented to fill the bill, and did so willingly with an able address.

Dr. W. A. Wise came in from Portland to view the ruins of his former residence in this city. He was accompanied by the fire insurance adjuster, Mr. R. S. Faby, special agent of the Fireman's Fund Insurance Company. They returned to Portland on the steamer on Sunday.

Mr. L. I. Herz, bookkeeper in the office of Mr. S. Elmore, returned to Astoria on the steamer Sunday. One thing Mr. Herz noticed while here, that was he did not find people complaining as in other places and he thought Tillamook City far ahead of Astoria and other cities for business.

Mr. Lee Laughlin, president of the McMinnville National Bank, and his nephew, Mr. Sam Laughlin, came over from that city the fore part of the week to see what the prospects were for starting a national bank in Tillamook City. They left this morning, going out by way of Sheridan.

The 82nd anniversary of the Independent Order of Oddfellows was observed by members of that order in this city Friday, when the ladies of the Rebekah lodge provided a banquet, over which Noble Grand F. Severance presided, and this was followed by a most enjoyable evening, there being a large attendance.

Charley Reynolds, after reading the apparition story in our last issue, hid himself down town next morning, and doing a little excavating under Lamar's saloon, held the "spirits" on jackscrews, and he did not require the aid of a medium to call up the spirit of his patron saint, Bob Ingersoll, to assist him.

There is one thing which the members of the hose company is short on, and that is wind. But if they could import some of the wind which the Portland people were going to build a railroad from that city to Tillamook with, perhaps the boys would not puff and pant so much.

The Young Men's Christian Association of Tillamook will hold its first public meeting to-morrow (Friday) evening, at 8 o'clock at the rooms. A talk on politics will be given by Representative B. L. Eddy. An interesting program has been prepared, and the young men of Tillamook and surroundings are cordially invited.

The Evening Telegram, which is giving editorial articles from editors in Oregon, contained one on Saturday from the editor of the Headlight, including a picture of the pencil pusher, on "Protection for the Home." We have been asked to reprint it in the Headlight, but cannot do so this week as the request came to hand so late.

Mr. L. J. Johnson, who obtained notoriety as editor of the Watchtower some few years since in this city, is on a visit here. He is now interested in mining and is special agent of the Rossland Consolidated Mining Company. Mr. Johnson related to us some of the incidents of the last political battle he fought in this county, in which his paper played a conspicuous part.

A. C. White, of Aberdeen, Wash., is wanting a job as milker and writes to the editor to find a place for him. We are not running an employment bureau or real estate office, so we will do this much for this person, by asking our readers if they want a milker who appears willing to work if he can find a job. As this is a good trait of character, we like to lend a helping hand to such, hence this notice.

Dr. Wise will return from Nehalem on the 8th and will leave for the Portland office about the 15th. We are sorry to hear that Dr. and Mrs. Wise are about to leave Tillamook to reside in Portland, as, no doubt, their large circle of friends will be also. It is not the intention of Wise Bros. to give up their practice in this city, but will have a dentist resident here to attend to it.

Portland shipyards are busily engaged at present in construction and repair work. At the Olson yard the W. H. Harrison is, on the ways. Her boiler, which was removed for repairs, has been replaced, and the machinery is now being put in order. The vessel has received two new false keels and new planing where necessary, and calkers are at work. The steamer is undergoing a thorough overhauling inside and out.

Tattle telephone is connected as far as Spruce, and which is to be continued to Woods. This will prove a great convenience to the people in the south end of the county to have telephone connections with Tillamook's metropolis, and Mr. Tuttle is to be commended for his enterprise in bringing this about, thus showing that it is the independent telephone systems which benefit the people.

We publish in another column an article from the Oregonian which resurrects the Portland, Nehalem & Tillamook Railroad Company, which is on a par with similar wind-inflated articles published some months since. But it brings a broad smile on our countenance when a company proposes to build a railroad to cost several million dollars to read that "the stock which its subscribers possess is too limited to dictate terms." Al! that we need say in answer to this article is—wind, watered stock if there is any, and bluff.

We are sorry to announce the death of the wife of Captain L. C. Smith, which occurred on Monday at Bar View house. The remains were brought to this city on Wednesday and buried beside the remains of her son in the Oddfellows' cemetery. Religious services were held in the Catholic church, Father J. J. Barri officiating, and in a suitable discourse briefly eulogized the deceased lady. Mrs. Smith was previously married, being the wife of Captain W. Terwilliger, who built a schooner here some years ago, which was wrecked on her first voyage, drowning the captain and his crew. The deceased lady was greatly respected by a large circle of friends, who looked upon her as a kind Christian woman. The sorrowing relatives have the sympathy of the community.

Mr. E. West, of Netarts, was in the city on Saturday. He sent some yellow ocher, of which there is plenty to be found in this county, to Prof. A. L. Kniesler, chemist at the Oregon experiment station, and received this reply: "The sample which you sent me and which you thought was yellow ocher, I find upon examination, to be yellow ocher. The material consists of a large amount of iron compound such as is found in yellow ocher, and I should say that this sample was rather better than the ordinary samples as we find them."

Next Sunday being the eleventh anniversary of the Y.P.C.U., the young people of the United Brethren church will render the following program: Song, prayer, song; scripture reading, Mary Hansen; brief history of the Y.P.C.U., Florence Hansen; recitation, Jessie David; "The children, the church and Christ," Mary Hayes; song, by four little girls; Chautauqua drill, by the juniors; recitation, Chrissie Neff; the Y.P.C.U. as a training school, Joseph Freeman; recitation, Mary White; song, by three girls; recitation, Ida Freeman; recitation, Blanch Neff and Dora Foster; song and benediction.

J. M. Center, of Stevenson, Wash., who came to this city a few weeks since and was taken sick at the Palace hotel, where he had to be watched, for fear he might commit suicide, recovered sufficient to go out on the Sue H. Elmore on Sunday for Astoria. On Monday morning his body was found lying on the wharf near the Parker house of that city, having committed suicide the previous night by shooting himself in the head with a pistol. He had registered at the Parker house, and about 9 o'clock he was noticed that he opened his grip and took something out. He then went out and walked in the direction of the river. His head was bandaged up to with a towel to protect a wound in his jaw, which had been injured. He was a man of about 60 years of age. No doubt he came to Tillamook to commit the rash act, but was either prevented or lost heart, so saved this county the expense of burying him.

A special meeting of the city council was held on Tuesday evening, when all the members were present, for the purpose of taking into consideration the matter of purchasing fire hose. A committee of the hose company was present, including the chief, P. W. Todd, and Henry Crenshaw and Oak Nolan. It was pointed out to the city council that 1000 feet of hose was required, and even with that, unless a few more hydrants were put in, some of the property in the outskirts were without fire protection. One thousand feet was the amount of hose the city decided to purchase. Mr. Briggs, of the firm of Wade & Briggs, representing the Goodyear Rubber Co., submitted four kinds of hose, and Mr. W. M. Morris, of the Boston Belting Company, submitted two kinds. After inspecting the different specimens, a ballot of the council was taken to see which quality of hose each councilman favored, and this brought out a unanimous vote in favor of the Boston Belting Company's Phoenix double jacket hose at 80c. per foot, so the council contracted to take 1000 feet for $800, to be delivered as soon as possible.

There are a good many rumors in the air about different parties going to bore for oil in this county and who are wanting to bond land for that purpose. We do not feel inclined to make mountains out of these reports, for talk is awfully cheap. One report is that ex-Senator Corbett and others will commence operation in the county before long. We think the people of Tillamook county are conservative enough not to get excited, for they can readily see that nothing has been done to ascertain whether oil can be found or not, hence it is only reasonable to surmise that people are not going to fall over one another to bore for oil in this county, especially when the originators of oil companies can find counties in Oregon where they can dispose of stock more readily than they can in Tillamook. We hope we are mistaken in this, for it would give us great pleasure to see a number of parties boring for oil in this county, but we are inclined to think that many of the oil schemes on the tapis throughout the state will never materialize. Tillamook county will be fortunate if but one company starts work, and we hope that the Tillamook Paraffine Company will soon do so, for that alone will demonstrate what all this talk about so many parties going to bore for oil amounts to.

Tillamook Divorce Cases.

Three divorce cases will come before Judge R. P. Boise, in which three women appear to have come to the conclusion that marriage is a failure tied up to men who abuse and desert them. Following are the cases which will be tried next month:

Ellen Mitchell, plaintiff, vs. Harry Mitchell, defendant. The parties to this suit were married on the 15th of June at Bay City, and the grounds upon which the plaintiff sues for divorce is that for a number of years the defendant has been guilty of the excessive use of intoxicating liquors and of gross and habitual drunkenness, and when the defendant is in that condition he has a most irascible temper, and that plaintiff is in constant fear that he will do her serious bodily harm. On this account plaintiff prays for a divorce and the custody of the two children of the marriage, two boys, aged nine and seven years respectively.

Euna Shaw, plaintiff, vs. D. R. Shaw, defendant. Parties to this suit were married in Tillamook City on the 12th of October, 1891. In her complaint the plaintiff states that the defendant, disregarding the solemnity of his marriage vow, did, in the year 1895, willfully desert the plaintiff, and that he has ever since said date remained separate and apart from plaintiff. On account of this desertion plaintiff wants the marriage contract dissolved, and prays for the custody of the two children, the outcome of this union, they having been under the care of the mother since the father deserted them in 1895, being now seven and six years of age.

Clara E. Keller, plaintiff, vs. Frank E. Keller, defendant. They were married in Portland, Ore., on the 15th June, 1896, and since then defendant has treated plaintiff in a cruel and inhuman manner by using abusive epithets. Defendant has for a number of years refused and neglected to furnish plaintiff with the common necessities of life, and she has been obliged to earn her own livelihood at common labor. Defendant had on one occasion threatened to kill plaintiff. Her husband was a man of irresistible temper, and that she is afraid he might carry his threats into effect, for he had written her various abusive letters falsely accusing her of unfaithfulness to him as a wife. Defendant applied part of her earnings to his own use, and that he caused her life to be miserable and un-speakably unhappy. No children were born of this marriage.

A dispatch from Amsterdam announces that Mr. Kruger will leave for the United States at the commencement of June.

Governor Odell has signed the bill which authorizes New York City to accept the $5,200,000 gift of Andrew Carnegie for a free library system.
