

City Council Meeting.

A meeting of the city council was held on Monday evening, with Mayor D. Wiley in the chair and Councilmen A. J. Cohn, M. Leach and S. A. Brodhead were present.

The first business was a resolution introduced by Councilman Cohn, which was passed unanimously, and was as follows: "Whereas, President McKinley has fallen by the bullet of an assassin, he it resolved that the people of Tillamook, recognizing in his untimely death the loss to the nation of a great leader and to the world of a good man, unite with our fellow countrymen in grief at his loss and horror of the deed by which he fell; resolved, that seeing in this foul deed a menace at American institutions, we demand of our law makers such safeguards as shall stamp out the foul brood who have assailed our nation's life and honor."

The committee appointed to investigate and ascertain to cost of putting in a first-class iron water system, reported progress, the committee having visited two streams.

The ways and means committee was authorized to have the city hall painted and renovated.

J. S. Lamar filed a bond for a saloon license, with L. Olsen and W. Eberman as sureties, which was approved.

An ordinance was read and passed to its second reading making the saloon license $800 a year.

Mayor Wiley stated that a number of the citizens had suggested to him that it would be proper to have memorial services in the city the day of the funeral of President McKinley, which, on motion, was agreed to, the mayor being authorized to appoint the necessary committees, which he did as follows:

Decoration—C. I. Clough and Frank Kerremans.

Music—C. Ben Riesland, Mrs. George Edmunds and Miss Lottie Freeman.

Speakers—Fred C. Baker and A. W. Severance.

Hall—Finance committee of the city council: S. A. Brodhead, M. Leach and H. Mason.

The Mayor was instructed to request all business houses to close part of the day and when the memorial services were being held, and the Mayor was also requested to invite the pupils of the public school and St. Alphonsus academy to attend.

Governor Geer's Tribute.

SALEM, Or., Sept. 13.—Governor Geer was visibly affected on being informed of the death of President McKinley, and it was with difficulty that he controlled his emotions. Speaking of the matter, he said:

"In this trying hour, it is difficult to speak dispassionately of the great tragedy, or of the causes which have led up to it. It is a most costly sacrifice to offer upon the altar of anarchy. In the face of this great calamity, one feels inclined to fold his hands and abandon the contest for good government. The great consolation is that the American people, practically with one accord, denounce the spirit which fosters anarchy, and will proceed, under a new impulse born of this great National loss, to enact legislation which will make it a crime to either advocate the doctrine of anarchy or to express sympathy with those who do. At this moment, it is difficult to repress the wish that a concession to the anarchist desire to have no law could be granted in this country for at least 30 minutes, in the interest of a guaranteed freedom from further trouble in that direction for the next 50 years. But the hydra-headed monster must be met according to law, and laws enacted which will not only prevent the further spread of anarchy, but will declare and punish as public enemies those who pronounce themselves its advocates. To further trifle with this matter would be suicidal. Anarchy as a doctrine is an enemy to all government, and the government which gives it any quarter whatever should not be surprised at any calamity which may overtake it as a result. A great many of our very best citizens are of foreign birth, and our immigrant laws should be radically amended. The better class of our foreign-born citizens themselves ask this. While we have a few native-born anarchists among us, they are generally of a low type of foreign ancestry, whose coming to this country should never have been permitted. The only way to prevent the further spread of this poison throughout our Government system is to prevent it."

"President McKinley stood in life, as he will forever stand in the history of the country he loved and served so well, as a model product of American citizenship, and the high standard which he reached and maintained, both in his domestic life and in the public service, will be a guide for American homes and an inspiration in Governmental affairs for generations to come. He has been constantly before the American people for more than 20 years, and a continually growing popularity only reached its summit on the day of his death. The common people of the country have lost an untiring friend, and the spirit of good government an able advocate and unfaltering devotee. May God bless the incoming President with the strength to successfully bear the great responsibility so suddenly and tragically thrust upon his shoulders."

Good Fields for Spinsters.

Oregon and Oklahoma—not to mention Alaska and Arizona—are alone well able to dispose, in marriage, of the entire surplus female population of New England. The only limitation that will probably be set on the ability by the surplus of masculinity will be that the surplus females pining for homes and husbands shall be of passing fair exteriors and shall be willing to share the worse as well as the better.

The census bureau, that great public institution that never lies—or, at least, seldom does, and then only under stress of circumstances—reports that there are actually 52,434 more males than females in Oregon, with a total population of 413,536 and that in Oklahoma the masculine element exceeds the feminine by 30,387. This gives the two sections—both choice localities, desirable to live in all the year around, and full of prosperity—a total of 82,821 poor, lonesome males, either without female supervision of their homes, cabins, ranchhouses or dugouts, or soon to be in that most lamentable condition.

Miss Mary E. Wilkins and other writers, who have drawn tears and likewise considerable cash from susceptible Americans by drawing deeply pathetic pictures of the sorrowful lines of the New England spinsters, should contribute of the fruits of their delineations to assist their forlorn sisters to get to Oklahoma and Oregon. The railroads, soulless corporations, though they may be, will undoubtedly make extra low rates and the happy housewives all along the way to the feminine Eldorados will cheer the spinsters on their way to matrimony and homes by libations of tea and generous provender of all kind, from pie down.

The prospective humanitarians are warned, however, that the men of Oklahoma and Oregon are not of the super-lonesome kind that they will take to their hearts and homes anything feminine simply because it is female. They will draw the line at vinegar-faced, acid-tempered old maids or women with lineaments as "homely as mud fences." They will welcome any girl—young or middle-aged—provided she will not "stop a clock," is a fair housekeeper and will be contented to live in cabins or dugouts for a time. Many of them are bashful, more have not the time to go back East for help-mates. The only way to reach their hearts is to run feminine excursions to the railroad towns.

It is not right that men should live alone, nor woman either. The only way feasible is for the surplus feminine population of New England to be assisted to move to Oregon and Oklahoma. If the men will not leave their loneliness to seek for mates, the mates must be sent to them. It is up to Miss Wilkins and her followers and their admirers to endeavor to even things up by helping the extra girls to get West. The young woman and the men may be trusted to do the rest.—Colorado Times.

SCENES OF SPLENDOR.

Portland Carnival's Brilliant Array of Attractions.

Never in the history of the Northwest have the people been offered such enjoyable entertainment mingled with useful instruction as will be laid before them during the month of the Portland Carnival, which will be held in the great Exposition Building from Sept. 18 to Oct. 19 and also in the beautiful Multnomah Field adjoining. The Committee of representative business men having the Carnival in charge have already made contracts involving the expenditure of $50,000 to make the Carnival a success. On the music and amusements alone there will be $13,000 expended, and the other appropriations will be in proportion for the Horse Show and the grand Military Tournament and the Athletic Exercises, etc.

These figures will give people an idea of the grandeur and immensity of the Carnival, which will be illuminated with 3800 electric lights. The music by two full military Bands will be grand, and there will not be a dull moment, afternoon and evening. There will be a reproduction of Multnomah Falls in the Exposition Building, a big working Mining Exhibit, a German Village, a showing of all the products of the Northwest, and many other sights to see. All railroad and steamboat lines will sell excursion tickets to the Carnival, good for 7 days, at one and one-third fare for the round trip. People who miss the Portland Carnival will miss a grand event.

CAPE MEARES.

Keeper Geo. Hunt is seriously ill with influenza. Dr. Wiley is attending and D. C. Trombley has been installed as sick nurse. Mrs. Bovington and Miss Bradley came over from Bay City to make a call of condolence on the patient.

Two charming young ladies, Misses Ruth Cooper and Lela Barnes, have lately graced the lighthouse with their presence. To the intense sorrow of all young men at the Cape they could not prolong their visit and left again Sunday morning for their homes—the enchanting little town with the euphonious name: Yslept Tillamook.

Miss Adda Simpson and Miss Hallie L. Baker, the accomplished daughter of Prof. Baker, enjoyed a splendid stay at Barnegat.

So many beautiful and cultivated young girls have lately visited Cape Meares that our young postmaster now sincerely regrets ever having been a misogynist.

The school at Barnegat has been closed. Prof. L. H. Baker and family are returning this week to Salem.

Miss Florence Higgins left the lighthouse on Sunday to spend several days in town.
