It's an healthy sign for a newspaper when a few politicians try to boycott an editor because he happens to criticize some of their public acts. We are never in a hurry to resent such treatment, for in moulding public opinion we allow the voters to kill off that class of politician. And that's where the power of the press counts.

The members of the Degree of Honor and Workmen had a social time on Monday evening, the occasion being a reception to Mr. and Mrs. M. Perkins and Mesdames King and Kerremans, previous to their leaving the city.

The government dredger, which was loaned to the Truckee Lumber Company for the purpose of doing some dredging near the wharf, is through after making a good job so that lumber schooners can lay there without grounding at low tide.

Some of our citizens who bought the Quaker medicine on time and have since swallowed the concoction and paid the bill, are now being dunned a second time for the truck. But there's no free show and jaw bone exercises connected with this.

It is perfectly in order to ask, How much money has the P. N. & T. R. Co. to build a railroad to Tillamook? Perhaps William Reid will reply through the Oregonian. We will gamble there's not enough money in the treasury of that company to buy the editor a silk hat to wear at the next celebration in this city.

The railroad is coming—to Tillamook! Via Scappoose, which is being constructed by the Northern Pacific. And even William Reid is emphatic in asserting that the Portland, Nehalem & Tillamook road will be built. As patience and water grauel is a good thing for the gout, the citizens of Tillamook have plenty of patience in waiting for a railroad.

A word of caution to those who are in the habit of firing into unoccupied buildings. Don't do so upon any of the building about half a mile from the wharf at Hobsonville, for there's twenty-five hundred pounds of powder stored there, and if this should be monkeyed with, just keep your gun pointing in a different direction for fear of taking a quick trip into the next world.

The coroner was seen breaking into a house the other morning, and we thought sure something was on the tapis for a sensational story. There was nothing to it, for the coroner was after something in the dynamite line, so that scared the editor. But after thinking over the matter we are wondering if it was not the same kind of dynamite a party took with them when making an inspection of the Wilson river road recently.

It is computed that 72,000 pieces of mail matter are handled every month at the Tillamook post office, to say nothing of the rehandling, which is considerable in the general delivery. Should a letter or a newspaper get misplaced don't be harsh on the postmaster but give him a smile instead of a frown. We know from personal experience how it feels when some people pucker up their faces and imagine themselves infallible.

William Heitmiller, who shot Emil Arndt at the Truckee saw mill, is still confined in the county jail and Arndt appears to be getting better right along. Heitmiller, like a good many men after committing a serious crime, now realizes what a serious position it places him in, and, of course, he is sorry for the rash act. May it be a warning to others not to attempt to take the life of another person, for it always brings remorse when languishing in jail and deprived of liberty.

At a meeting of Star Lodge, No. 76, A. O. U. W., on Saturday the following resolution of condolence was passed: "Whereas the All-wise Father has seen fit in His wisdom to visit our lodge with affliction, and a sister with sorrow, in the death of our beloved brother, George A. Barton; therefore be it resolved that Star Lodge, No. 76, A. O. U. W., extend to his sister, Mrs. Ruth A. Rees, its heartfelt sympathy in this hour of bereavement; resolved, that these resolutions be spread on the journal of Star lodge, No. 76, and a copy be sent to the sister of Bro. G. A. Barton.

Stewart Bros., the liverymen at Sheridan, must have "cold feet," for they told a traveling man who wanted to come to Tillamook that it would take four days to drive here. That's a dead give away as to the condition of the rigs and horses at the hostelry in that burg, and by way of contrast we will gamble that either of the liverymen in Tillamook City will take traveling men, at this time of the year, over the road in about twelve hours. If the liverymen at Sheridan had a little more grit, they would take traveling men anywhere they wanted to go, even to the hot place, and not kick because the roads are a little soft in a few places.

Charles E. Hays, who has filed contests in the United States Land Office against 74 settlers, involving timber lands in Tillamook county, was in the city Saturday, and at his request the time for hearing eight of the cases was changed. Hays will not be ready for hearing until November 1, on which date the first case was set. The following cases, which were scheduled from October 23 to 31, were set for hearing on the following dates: Isaac Simler, November 21; Ovilla Bowers, November 23; Nellie Allen, November 25; John Allen, November 26; James W. Hunt, November 27; Thomas P. Wise, November 29; John F. Watts, November 30. Mr. Hays thinks there will be a fight made in each of the 74 cases.—Oregon City Enterprise.

Tillamook people are already discouraged about getting a railroad, but let them remember how many long years Astoria yearned and strived for a railroad before she got it. And even now she is not entirely happy.—Evening Telegram. Please do not compare Tillamookers with Astorians. If Tillamook possessed the shipping facilities Astoria has we do not think Tillamookers would be yearning for a railroad as Astorians did. No wonder they are not entirely satisfied when they put up a big bonus to build a railroad to buck river boats. Tillamookers are not built that way, and as to being discouraged, that is all nonsense, for they are too industrious and prosperous to feel that way. Nor are they absurd, as Astorians were, in the idea that a railroad will make them all wealthy right away. The experience of Astoria is enough to knock the logic out of such foolish ideas.
