Immediately following Thanksgiving all the Protestant ministers of the city will unite their forces in a revival meeting to continue as long as seems wise. The meeting will be held in the U.B. church, and all those interested in the best good of our people and city are urged to get ready to help from the start.

We understand that the district attorney had his attention drawn to the matter of the construction of the Beaver bridge, it being shown to him that the county court advertised for bids and received one for $150. This was rejected and the county judge built the bridge and put in a bill of about $230. What the next move will be we have not heard, but it is said that the district attorney was explicit in laying down the new law in the matter of bridge building and a salaried officer furnishing material, contracting and doing other work for the county. We shall publish the law on these points later.

Wednesday evening at the residence of Mr. B. L. Eddy, at Tillamook City, Miss Virginia E. Applewhite and Mr. Edward Worthington were married by Rev. C. P. Metzler. Only relatives of the contracting parties were present. Though the wedding was intended to be only a quiet affair, without invitations, yet many friends sent presents, which were much appreciated. After the ceremony a supper was served. The couple begin housekeeping at once. Miss Applewhite is the sister of Mrs. Eddy, and Mr. Worthington is the son of Mr. Frank Worthington, of Tillamook. We wish the young couple a long life of happiness.

We are glad to announce that a kindergarten will be opened in this city on the 2nd of December, under the superintendence of Miss Lela Miller. Feeling the need of such an institution in our city, several of our prominent families have been for some time interested in solving the difficulties connected with such an undertaking. They have now succeeded in completing arrangements. This work, so well known for its great benefits, needs no comment. More than twenty names have been handed in thus far. Miss Miller has left for Portland to secure the necessary supplies. Particulars may be known by addressing Rev. C. P. Metzler.

Our prohibition friends appear to be aggressive and determined to push their cause to the front. Will they have a ticket in the city election? That is a good way to ascertain their voting strength and to determine how many persons believe in a dry town. But it is our opinion it is to the best interest of the city for the voters to nominate a ticket pledged to see that the laws are respected and rigidly enforced. Probably the prohibitionists and those who have been privileged to ignore the law will contend for supremacy, and if it is a clear cut fight between these factions the result can plainly be predicted, for the sentiment is so opposed to making this a "dry" town that they are courting defeat by trying to do so. We believe the moral standard of the city can be raised by adopting what we have suggested.

The trial of William H. Heitmiller was the topic of conversation this week in Tillamook. He was given a fair trial and his friends did what they could for him. The evidence plainly proved that the shooting was a premeditated attempt at murder, a cold blooded affair committed by a man who had a vicious, uncontrolable temper. The case was aggravagating because Heitmiller was not acquainted with Arndt and did not know the man even in person. When Heitmiller admitted on the stand his guilt the jury had no other alternative than to bring in the verdict it did. In the effort to prove that Heitmiller was insane, the witnesses only played into the hands of the prosecution, for they testified that Heitmiller knew right from wrong. It is a distressing scene to see a man of 64 years in his predicament, but it was brought about probably by a temper which he had never taken the least trouble to control. The sequel to this is he almost deprived a man of his life. Although he did not succeed in murdering Arndt in cold blood he has crippled him and placed his life in jeopardy. Arndt is deserving of sympathy, not Heitmiller, in this distressing affair. The sentence was light for so serious a crime, and to our mind, for the public safety, men like Heitmiller should be in the pen, for in one of his tempers he would not care who he shot. To appeal the case looks like tampering with justice.

Circuit Court.

Circuit court commenced on Monday, with Judge Burnett on the bench. The following cases were soon disposed of:

Charles Howe, who was bound over from the justice court for running a gambling game of 21 in the Palace saloon, and put up a cash bond for $150, was not in court when the case was called and the judge ordered the bond forfeited and a bench warrant issued for his arrest. Charles Thompson, the prosecuting witness in this case was summoned to appear before the district attorney and as he did not appear a bench warrant was also issued for his arrest.

In the case of Miss K. E. Parker vs. Claude Thayer, administrator of the estate of W. W. Thayer, deceased, which tried at the last term of court, when was Miss Parker sued for $2000 for services rendered W. W. Thayer as stenographer, and obtained a verdict of $1000. Since then a motion was made for a new trial and this being granted by Judge Burnett, the case was called again on Monday. By stipulation of the attorneys on either side the judge granted a change of venue to Multnomah county, the parties apply for a transcript of the documents to pay the county clerk for them.

Ursula J. Austin Thrall, plaintiff, vs. C. W. Thrall, defendant. This was a divorce case, and in her complaint, plaintiff stated that she was married at Rochester N. Y. on May 23, 1899. The plaintiff has never depended in any way upon the defendant since she was married for her support and he has never surported her. Plaintiff has ample means and sufficient property of her own for her support, and is quite willing to do so without any aid from the defendant. On the 19th, August, 1899, defennant, disavowing the bonds of matrimony between himself and plaintiff, willfully deserted and abandoned the plaintiff and has continued to so desert and abandon the plaintiff, without assigning any cause therefore. The plaintiff also desired to assume her former Christian and maiden name, Ursula Jane Austin, and that the suffix Thrall be dropped from her name. In an amended complaint the plaintiff stated that she was abandoned at Rochester N. Y. on the 9th Aug, 1899. After hearing the evidence the judge granted the divorce as prayed for.

Time has Vindicated the Editor.

Our attention was drawn, a few evenings ago to the article which appeared in the Headlight on the 21st February last under the caption of "Building Railroads to Tillamook on Wind!" Most of the citizens know how the editor of the Head light was villified and abused for writing and publishing that article. We did not retaliate, but it was hard to contain our patience with those who made no secret of trying to boycott or run us out of town. True it was that the editor was the worst cussed man in the community for several weeks, yet for all that we knew that time would vindicate us from the hasty and unjust accusations which were being hearled at us from all sides, even from those who professed to be friends. Public opinion will now confess that we used good judgment, and which was for the best interest of the county and those who have interests here. It is not pleasant, we admit, to antagonize the public, but we had a duty to perform in telling the public the truth, and we did it without fear. Although we do not feel unkindly to those who criticised us unmercifully and wanted to boycott us, it is hard to forgive and forget men like R. M. Watson who suggested having us run out of town. We did not retaliate for we knew in a few months the public would appreciate what we did and there would not be a person but what would admit that our position was correct and those who criticised us wrong. This has come about, but we will return good for evil by not allowing an unkind thought to flitter through our mind at those who thought the editor had given Tillamook the blackest eye it had ever received, when in point of fact it was the best think to crush a ficticious boom and its unsatisfactory results.

BLAINE.

Mt. Hebo has another mantle for the winter.

We are not behind the times, as Joe Bixby, the Nestucca merchant has placed James Patterson behind the counter.

Chas. Sears was seen enroute for the bear slide with a coal oil can full of honey to bait his bear traps. Bear are very plentiful in that section.

Mr. Cady took a trip to Beaver last week to sell bear meat, but only selling a dollar's worth returned home and salted it down for smoking, as bear meat is a fine substitute for bacon.

The Moon boys are busy building goat fences. John says they are hard to fence as they will climb up in a vine maple, bend it over the fence and fall on the other side.

Rob Monk's youngest son has been kidnapped, lost or strayed away and he is diligently hunting his whereabouts. Any one finding him and returning him home will be kindly rewarded.

Wm. Thun returned to the logging camp after a trip to his ranch at Honey bear ville.

There is nothing like Asthmalene. It brings instant relief even in the worst cases. It cures when all else fails.

The Rev. C. F. WELLS, of Villa Ridge, Ill., says: "Your trial bottle of Asthmalene received in good condition. I cannot tell you how thankful I feel for the good derived from it. I was a slave, chained with putrid sore throat and asthma for ten years. I despaired of ever being cured. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease, asthma, and though you had overspoken yourselves, but resolved to give it a trial. To my astonishment, the trial acted like a charm. Send me a full-size bottle.

We want to send to every sufferer a trial treatment of Asthmalene, similar to the one that cured Mr. Wells. We'll send it by mail POSTPAID, ABSOLUTELY FREE OF CHARGE, to any sufferer who will write for it, even on a postal. Never mind, though you are despairing, however bad your case, Asthmalene will relieve and cure. The worse your case, the more glad we are to send it. Do not delay. They are now feeding 35 head of steers, which are in splendid condition for beef. They will also furnish me with dressed mutton and veal, the best that can be procured.

As certain parties are trying to hurt me in business by setting about false reports, I make this statement to satisfy my numerous customers that I am getting the best of meats from reliable men.
