 Mr. Chas. McKillip has bought sixty acres of Mr. Gus Kunze's ranch, paying $50 per acre for it. He will erect a residence on the place and become a permanent resident, and being a man who has used good judgment and been successful in farming in Eastern Washington, there is every reason to suppose he will be more so now that he has located in Tillamook, a county of green grass and where Old Bossy is boss. Mr. C. Ben Riesland traded the place and succeeded in getting Mr. McKillip to locate here and with the most prosperous farmers in Oregon. *

Notice.

Some people wonder how the bakery can sell so cheap. Now I will tell you. I sell for cash only, merchants selling on time have to charge 10 to 15 per cent extra for possible loss. Those who pay cash have to help pay this possible loss. By selling for cash, I can buy for cash. I buy better goods and get discount off. That is the reason we can sell cheap. Fresh rye bread Wednesday and Saturday. A. C. VOGLER, Tillamook Bakery. *

A Fatal Accident to Fred Page

A fatal accident occurred on Saturday at Mr. Henry Rogers' ranch at Long Prairie, when Fred Page was kicked in the stomach by a horse and died from internal injuries on Sunday evening. *
 Page worked for Mr. Rogers at the creamery, and about four o'clock Saturday took two horses from the barn to water them. He led one with a long rope and the other was loose, when the former broke away and ran to the barn. In bringing the horse back, both being in a playful mood, the horse that was loose suddenly swirled and threw both its hind legs, the hoofs striking Page in the stomach and hurled him unconscious to the ground. There he remained for nearly two hours, when, regaining consciousness, he crawled as best he could to the house. He was in considerable pain, but thought at first he would pull round. Mr. Rogers was in the city at the time, but immediately on his return home telephoned for a doctor, and with the assistance of Mrs. Rogers and medical skill did everything possible for the young man, but his injuries proved fatal twenty-four hours after the accident. *
 Page was 21 years of age and the son of Mrs. Diantha Page, who has seen considerable trouble previous to this sudden and sad bereavement, for Fred was a good boy and helped his mother, who had been abandoned with five children by a worthless, lazy husband. Page had been a member of the Fraternal Union for over two years, carrying $1,200 insurance, made payable to his mother. The funeral service took place on Monday in the U. B. church and the burial in the Johnson cemetery. By this accident the mother has lost a good and thoughtful son and the community a respected young man. *

Wants Harmony.

A correspondent is wanting to know if the Headlight cannot harmonize the different factions in the republican party of this county. The idea is a good one but almost impossible of accomplishment when there are so many aspirants craving public office with aspirants' boosters around the county to see how many precincts they will be able to carry. And for the reason that one faction cannot trust another we do not know whether it is not a good plan for the factions and their bosses to get into a political fight while the backbone of the republican party is sawing wood patiently waiting an opportunity to amputate the heads of the bosses who have an idea they have the republican party by the collar. Not much. We saw an instance of this previous to the last county convention, when several of the bosses went into it claiming they would control it, but after the delegates had spoken by their votes it was surprising and amusing what a small following they had, especially Sappington. As the last county convention killed off some of the power of the political bosses, it should take another whack at them at the coming convention, and this, we believe, is the best kind of medicine to bring about harmony, and put a stop to county saw mill grafts, tax-enters' boarding house, silent partner contractor and taxes becoming so high that it is going to keep people poor paying them. And there is not a republican who is not foot loose from factional influences but what will agree with the Headlight that this is also for the best interest of the party and county as well. *

Dirty, Low Down, Accusations.

In another effort to besmirch the character of the Editor of the Headlight, R. M. Watson, in the last issue of the Herald, not only libeled the president of the Tillamook hose company, but cast a low down, dirty insinuation at the officers and members as well. Amongst other idiotic things said of the hose company and its president was that he "Tapped a keg of the elixir which made Milwaukee famous, and presided with the hair of a Dutch bar tender at the spigot until the boys—some too full for utterance—most of whom, however, had gone home—shouldered the remains and marched to the old Steinhilber house across the street, where 'We won't go home till morning' was hushed only with the last sad flicker of the electric light." *
 In making a mountain out of a mole hill, R. M. Watson has implicated every member of the hose company by his accusations. As is customary, the newly elected officers did treat the boys after the meeting on the 23rd ultimo, and the president, Fred C. Baker, did preside from 7:30 p.m. until a few minutes after 8 o'clock, and being excused, turning the meeting over to the chief, left the city hall. From that time the president can prove an alibi with the Mayor, Prof. B. O. Snuffer, W. Olson and other respected ladies and gentlemen, including his own family, as witnesses. That is sufficient to prove that R. M. Watson lied most infernally about the president of the hose company, but that does not remove the stigma cast upon the characters of the other officers and members of the hose company. Let us mention some of the boys belonging to the hose company: P. W. Todd, Thomas Coates, J. A. Todd, A. J. Cohn, Geo. Grayson, F. L. Sappington, Oak Nolan, A. K. Case, I. C. Clough, Ira and Edgar Latimer, Henry Woolfe, W. H. Cary, E. D. Hoag, Pete Lamar, Henry Crenshaw, T. P. Wise, J. Cochran, Fred Arthur, Tom Handley, Jr., Howard Edmunds and about 20 others. Watson says the boys, some too full for utterance, shouldered the remains and marched to the old Steinhilber house. In plain English, the members of the hose company are accused by the Herald of getting drunk and resorting to a place of prostitution. That is the only interpretation that can be put on the paragraph, and it is a dirty, low down insult to the individual members. Whatever may be the different characteristics of the members of the hose company, and no one will doubt what we say, there is not one of the boys who is as dirty and as little respected in the county as R. M. Watson. *
 Another thing, just to show the injustice of this unwarranted attack on the hose company at the present time, when Messrs. T. Coates and P. W. Todd were elected president and chief one year ago, and Messrs. A. J. Cohn and Oak Nolan the year previous, and they gave the boys a little social time for the purpose of creating a little more interest in the company, they, too, then, in the estimation of Watson, opened their hearts and their wallets, forgot their hypocritical morality and religious cloak and presided with the air of a Dutch bar tender until the boys were full. There was just as much cause for Watson making a fool of himself then as he did last week in his silly criticism of the present officers. But the reason is plain to see, he was bleeding those gentlemen then for their printing and advertising. *
 We will be as charitable as possible, for when Watson penned the paragraph he must have been in the same condition as he was last Monday when he had too much rot gut aboard and, consequently, thought he could "do up" the officers and members of the hose company by tarring them with his dirty brush in his dirty newspaper. The Oregonian's estimation of R. M. Watson comes forcibly home to every citizen again: "The little silly, silly little man of Tillamook!" *
 The Headlight has no objection to the Herald mentioning the names of those who frequent the Steinhilber house and will confine itself to the truth and not to dirty slander of respectable people. *

Sparks from the Anvil.

In the matter of putting in a water system, the first question for the city council to decide is where to obtain water and the cost of water rights, for it cannot be expected that this will be donated to the city. * * *
 Don't it look like consummate gall for County Judge Sappington to thrust himself upon the republican party of this county again when his illegal mode of running county affairs has brought the party into disrepute and which will give the democrats a fighting show to carry the county at the next election? * * *
 The Herald man calls the editor of the Headlight hypocritical. That does not trouble us, for if that is so everyone who belongs to church organizations like the Presbyterian, M.E., Christian, U.B., etc., or attends a place of worship must be a hypocrite in the estimation of this religious scoffer. But, then, to be called an hypocrite by a saloon bum and whiskey bloater is all that one can expect from such a person, anyway. * * *
 How awfully accommodating some of the political wire pullers are, why they are even going to the trouble of entering into a "silent partnership" arrangement who they want as delegates to the convention and the candidates to be nominated, and all they want the dear people to do is to ratify what they have so kindly fixed up—to suit themselves. But this is no year for Simon slate making in Tillamook, and it is safe to predict that the taxpayer and voters will want something to say about slate making themselves. * * *
 As no one had anything to do where and under what condition or in what country he was born, don't it look a little silly for R. M. Watson to keep prating about the nationality of foreign born citizens in this county? If they were not law abiding and patriotic citizens then there would be some excuse to jeer, not otherwise, for no respectable American born citizen is ever heard to taunt naturalized citizens for something they had nothing to do with, or say about, where they should be born. Probably L. M. Watson chose the country and the place where he was born, but we will gamble it was not far from a whiskey joint. *

Another instance of the benefit of fraternal orders is furnished by the death of Fred Page, who carried $1,200 in the Fraternal Union, made payable to his mother, who was left by a worthless husband to rustle a living for herself and her family. The money which this hard-working woman will receive will be of great help to her in raising her family, and will in some measure compensate for being left destitute. It is only a few months since that George Barton died and the A.O.U.W. paid the $1,000 insurance he had in that order over to his sister. Star lodge, in this city, has initiated quite a number of young members of late, and it is a pleasing fact to note that those without wives have had their insurance made payable to their parents. * * *
 The city council passed some good and important ordinances, with a unanimous vote, on Monday evening, and if they are enforced, as they certainly should be, it will no longer be said that Tillamook City is a wide open town. As each councilman went on record in favor of ordinances to suppress gaming and gambling, body houses and obscene conduct, the city council is fairly up against it, for it should certainly enforce the ordinances of its own creation. But will they all be in favor of doing so when it comes down to the crucial point and compel the city marshal to do his duty. It's going to be interesting to watch the outcome, but don't squirm, gentlemen of the city council, you're on a right track to make the city authorities the real thing and not the instruments in the hands of the power behind the throne. *
