At Johnson's yard, Portland, a large lumber barge for the Nehalem lumber trade is under construction. It is the staunchest craft that has ever been built in this yard, and it will require a pretty heavy gale at sea to put it out of business. The craft is 150 feet long, and is flat-bottomed and not a beauty to look at, but has the appearance of being staunch enough to stand considerable bumping on Nehalem and Tillamook Bars, where she will be employed.

Masonic Resolution.

By a resolution passed at the last stated communication the cordial sympathy of the Tillamook Lodge, No. 57, A. F. & A. M., were extended to Rev. Gabriel Sykes and all who assisted in any manner at the memorial service for the late George H. Handley, which was as follows:

Resolved, that while his earthly remains cannot be laid away with the last grand rites of our craft, yet, resting as they do in the bosom of the mighty deep, we feel that the ocean sings a grander, nobler requiem.

Resolved, that we ever cherish the memory of his virtues while his human frailties shall rest in the dark recesses of forgetfulness.

Resolved, that as an outward token of our sorrow and esteem this Lodge be furnished to the press for publication, and that a copy thereof be presented to his family.

Political Squibs.

If you want to vote you'd better register as soon as possible.

Anyway, what kind of an individual is a Simon republican and who and what does he represent.

The same old time faction which railroaded Sappington into office four years ago wants to do the same thing again.

Some people think that Maxwell and Sappington are rowing in the same boat. We know for a positive fact that Maxwell is only pulling with Sappington up to a certain point, and after scuttling the boat and skipping out will leave the boat and Sappington to founder.

The man who does least for his political party is invariably the one who believes he is entitled to the best office in the gift of his party. Oh, yes, he's awfully interested just before election, and he can be seen looking on the street. But to come down to the point, What has he done for his party?

Simon may obtain a few followers in Tillamook if he will open the political sack and send some of it to his former political henchmen in this county. And they wouldn't do a thing with the boodle but to put it down in their jeans. That is the size and caliber of Simon's henchmen in Tillamook.

Don't allow the old time factional leaders to pack republican primaries with anti-expansion democrats for the purpose of working another graft upon the county. Republican primaries ought to be too tropical for the ants and for the republicans who try to use the ants to boost them into office.

Every county in the state appears to have a strong anti-Simon sentiment and it is plain that Joe's sacks—blood money obtained from officials, and the fire and police departments—is not long enough and big enough to bribe this sentiment. It is with blood money that the Portland political machine has been lubricated.

What has Senator Simon done for Oregon and legislation since he donned the senatorial toga? That is a fair question, but how is the best way to answer it? Admit that a mistake was made in sending Simon to the senate, but it has taught Oregon another useful lesson that a political ward boss is out of place and with no influence at Washington. Hence Simon had just as well have stayed at home, for we fail to see where he has done any good for Oregon by going there.

The HEADLIGHT cannot see why Mr. Fulton should be favored more than any other republican in wanting the republican state convention to place his name on the official ballot as the choice of the republican party for United States senator. Give the people a chance for once to express their opinion who they want for United States senator, and for that reason no names should be printed on the ballot for this position. Give everybody a fair show, even if the voting should turn out sectional.

It looks as though Governor Geer is going to have a hard tussle to secure re-nomination. It is freely asserted that Simon and Geer are working in harmony, one pulling for the other. When Governor Geer vetoed the Portland charter bill, which had the approval of the taxpayers' league and the support of the Multnomah delegation, we believed at the time that he made a mistake and he would be sorry for it eventually. That it was Simon influence which caused him to veto the bill goes without question, but the most surprising thing about it was for so astute a politician as Geer to place a club in the hands of Simon to keep the governor on the Simon side of the fence or to defeat him politically. All who know Simon's tactics in politics are convinced that Joe will not scruple to put the screws on Geer, we are sorry to see, in a tight place politically. If Simon can control the Multnomah delegation there is no assurance that he will throw it in favor of Geer, while if anti-Simon candidates come out on top it is generally surmised that Geer will not be able to make it. Simon wanted that bill vetoed because he saw that it deprived him of the political pot at a time when his own reelection were at stake, and the governor unwisely yielded to the influences brought to bear upon him by Simon's political ring. If the governor had to do it over again we think he would act differently, for he did not anticipate the anti-Simon sentiment, and besides, if Governor Geer has any aspirations down in his heart that he would like to be United States senator he jeopardized his chances, unless Simon, finding in the round up that he cannot be re-elected, throws his support to Geer to head off the anti-Simon faction. There are many queer moves made in machine politics and many queer political bed-fellows in Portland politics.

After eight hours of tumultuous debate the senate passed the Philippine tariff bill by a vote of 46 to 26, a strictly party vote.

Dairymen Eat Oleomargarine.

Congressman Grosvenor said it was the farmers who were eating oleomargarine, while the people in the cities consumed the farmers' butter. This statement was made in a speech in congress. He said:

"Now, I will tell you where you can get the evidence, and if it is not a significant circumstance, then I do not understand the significance of anything. Go to the Internal Revenue Department and you know we have a law on the statute books under which every manufacturer of oleomargarine is known. He is compelled to show his books and the places to which he ships his product—to the intermediate man, the middleman—and the Department follows it down. Strangely enough, in one of the counties of Ohio it was discovered that two of the largest patrons of the Chicago oleomargarine factory were two creameries, and the Department thought there must be some mistake about that and followed down the stream and came to the creamery and said, 'What are you doing with oleomargarine?' Then they exposed the whole thing and told the story: 'We are selling it to the farmers at a cheap price per pound, and we are buying their milk and making it into butter and sending the butter to Chicago.'"

Miss Stone is Free.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 24. — Miss Ellen M. Stone, the American missionary, who with Mme. Tsilka was captured by brigands in the District of Salonica, September 30 last, has been released, and arrived at Strumnitza, Macedonia, at 3 o'clock this morning.

Nobody was at Strumnitza to meet Miss Stone, as the brigands had given no indication where they intended to release the prisoners. Mme. Tsilka and her baby were also released at the same time. They are all well. Miss Stone immediately made herself known to the authorities.

The first news of Miss Stone's release was contained in a telegram received by Mr. Dickson, the American Consul-General at Constantinople, from the American Vice-Consul at Salonica. The telegram gives no details of the release. As Strumnitza is near the Salonica-Uskub Railroad, Miss Stone will proceed to Salonica without delay.
