The Vosburg arrived in the city this afternoon. Mrs. Dr. Smith and son returned to this city today. Mrs. Lottie Griggs came in on the steamer to day to visit her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Wiley. Mr. J. D. Edwards came in on the steamer to day to be on hand when the unfettered democrats go down to defeat, after which John will take the next boat leaving here.

Still Up to Dr. Bartel.

[TO EDITOR OF TILLAMOOK HEADLIGHT.] The position you assume in your Editorial reply to my defence of last week is illogical. You claim that you know nothing about medicine, yet contend that Mr. Loomis was afflicted with the same disease as those in Eastern cities. Did you see any of the cases? If not, how do you know? Had you not better allow a physician to raise that point? You accuse me of rushing into print, when it was you or some one through your paper who accused me of "meddling," "interfering," and representing me as a sort of criminal whom "the city authorities were undecided what to do with," thus obliging me to answer in self-defence to prove to your readers that I had a perfect right to see Mr. Loomis and to render an opinion. Did I do wrong in defending myself against such unprovoked attack? You claim I gave no proof for my opinion. Please just read the last three paragraphs of my article of last week. If the disease never aborts itself after reaching the eruptive stage, always running its course of 18-24 days, and if the doctor ordered Mr. Loomis release after nine days quarantine from date of eruption, pronouncing him a well man free from specific eruption, as is the case. Then, it follows that Mr. Loomis did not have smallpox, and the doctor committed a grave error as claimed. This seems to me a very plain proof. As to that hostility, I was not present at the citizen's meeting, therefore could not expect to be sent out. But I did and do yet think I should have had an opportunity to present my reasons for my diagnosis to the other doctors, consequently did demonstrate with the Mayor against being debarred from such opportunity. I am sorry that anything was said to oblige me to answer in self-defence and suggest that you settle any personal feelings that you may have in private. However, if the city authorities wish I can give all the proof they may desire and furnish the backing too. J. E. BARTEL.

[We cannot see that Dr. Bartel is in the least doing anything to sustain the position he has taken by making the statement, "No smallpox," nor in the impression that he wishes to convey that definite specific cases must run a certain length of time. Authorities on this point say that the abortive, or mild form of smallpox, is that variety in which the course of the disease is altered from the start. The period of incubation is sometimes shortened, the invasion may be brief, the eruption changed in various ways, the duration cut short. The editor has, perhaps, come in closer touch with smallpox than Dr. Bartel would ever care to, and was entitled to know a little about it after contracting the disease from visiting a young man who had the disease so light that his parents did not know he had the smallpox. But our case proved to be serious, and what is known as the haemorrhagic form, if we remember correctly, and we pretend to know a little of medical care that we were prevented from passing in our checks. That was 28 years ago, but when we heard Drs. Wiley or I Smith describing the smallpox cases in Tillamook we did not need further proof that they were right in their conclusions and they did the community a medical service when they advised vaccination and the authorities to quarantine, for these are the remedies which modern civilization took to stamp out the terror of this loathsome disease, so that mildcases now prevail. Another thing, we were lead to believe by the physicians who attended us that the infection could be retained in the house, secreted in clothing and other material for months and even for years, and the only way to destroy it was to burn the clothing or thoroughly disinfect the premises by the scientific process. Dr. Smith is not only positive that the Loomis case was small pox, but is willing to back his opinion by putting up $500 with those who dispute him to pay for the services of a specialist. That is a fair proposition and it is up to Dr. Bartel to take him up or quit rushing into print for the purpose of airing his grievance because the city authorities did not call upon him to consult with the other doctors.—EDITOR.]

The Law and Order League at Seattle has filed notice on the Chief of Police and Prosecuting Attorney that unless gambling is closed, it would proceed against them personally. They have the affidavits of four young men who gambled. This action may result in the final closing of every gambling house in Seattle.

SAND LAKE.

It seems that a set of disgruntled Republicans have got hold of the Ocean Wave until after election, and are making things hot for a few who they would like to see defeated. It won't work fellows, it won't work. The east wind blew down a tree across a trussle between Sandlake and Spruce this week. All repaired now. Will Harris has bought a fine cow from Fred Daws and leased two cows from E. Owens. Mr. E. Owens, son-in-law of T. J. Harris, has moved to Sandlake to live. So mote it be. Our country is gradually settling up, and yet there is room for more. Will Webb was at work for Mr. Benicke last week. T. J. Harris is doing some fine work on his ranch. Crabs and flounder are plentiful in our bay. Stock and crops are looking fine.

NESKOWIN.

Oretown school commenced Monday, with Miss Durie as teacher. There were 24 scholars enrolled the first day. Mrs. C. Christensen and son Claude visited at Mrs. Makinister's last Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Atterbury visited George Bailes and wife recently, also S. H. Rock and family at the same place. Weeding the garden is the order of the day since the weather has cleared up. Sheriff Alderman was in this vicinity last week. W. H. Christensen and family spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. George Bailes. The Misses Minnie and Ada Penther were at Neskowin on Tuesday. A few of the neighbors went to Ocean Park on May day, but the weather was quite stormy.

BLAINE.

Without a doubt spring has opened up again as every farmer here has resumed work, sowing and planting. Bob Richards had quite an accident last week while bringing his boiler home. When almost at the top of the hill, near home, his tie rope gave away, letting the boiler slip over the grade; rolling and tumbling down the hill until it struck Mr. P. Coulson's house, smashing one end of it. John Moon returned home week before last reporting smallpox raging like wild fire, and ever since Jenn has been layed up with what he thinks to be the smallpox. Mr. Jones has completed his sled road up the Nestucca River. Jno. Creech and his mother past through here two weeks ago last Sunday for Beaver, but Bob says that with out a doubt John has quit smoking. Pearl Coulson proved up on his place last week. Our school has started at last. The committee which was duly elected to go to Tillamook City for remedies for the smallpox last week had quite an accident. While returning home they broke the hind axle, one fore wheel broke down, the neckyoke strap broke, one of the horses got the colic, the other horse got the blindstagers, so they had to proceed on foot drawing the wagon loaded with bitters which was recommended to them to be sure cure for smallpox. As the roads have dried up we would like to see some of those office seekers up this way with their cheap cigars as that is all it will cost them to get our vote.

NEHALEM.

The corporation cheese factory started up to make cheese Tuesday. H. V. Alley took a bill book containing $200 Tuesday. The Standard Art Co's men were working Nehalem the last of the week. Jack Conway, the Logging Camps donkey driver, returned from a trip to Portland Tuesday. Prof. Wm. Batterson and Frank Astman returned to Nehalem Thursday. The Fraternal Union gave a basket social Saturday evening. Reported a social and financial success. The Str. Vosburg came in Monday with machinery for the Wheeler Lumber Co., and freight for the merchants and two passengers. Mrs. D. S. Boyakin and son were passengers out on the Vosburg Tuesday. Mrs. Boyakin will visit her parents and friends in Illinois this summer. Wm. Richardson went out to Astoria on the tug. British Vice-Consul Klockner received a letter under date of March 18 from Ayacucho. South America, announcing that the crew of the Chilean bark Flecha mutinied off the coast of Chile, and murdered the captain, his wife and babe, and the first and second mate and steward. They scuttled the vessel and went ashore at a small settlement on the coast of Chile, and before they could be taken into custody escaped into the mountains.

Can Spain Verify It?

INDIANAPOLIS, May 6.—Mrs. D. M. Parry, wife of President Parry, of the National Manufacturers' Association, who recently returned from Cuba, in a paper read here before a local society yesterday, stated that the impression prevails at Havana that the United States Government will not allow the wreck of the Maine to be raised for fear the claims of the Spaniards, that the explosion was from the inside will be verified. She said: "The Spaniards always claimed that the magazine of the vessel exploded from some accidental cause, and that the iron structure of the vessel would be found in the original position, caused by the inside exploding force. We never permitted the Spaniards to participate in this investigation; though they begged to be allowed to join in the investigation that the honor of their nation might be shown to be guiltless of such an atrocious crime, this was refused them, and the explosion was from the inside will be verified. "It is said that the Government has quite a knowledge of these facts, and rather than be placed in the humiliating position before the world of having begun a war without cause, the Maine will be permitted to remain at the bottom of Havana Harbor."

Will it Cure Consumption?

NEW YORK, May 6.—In one of the apartments of the Flower Hospital, there has just been installed an electrical apparatus, which resembles a powerful searchlight of a man-of-war. It is known as an actinometer, and is said to be the first complete instrument of the kind permanently set up in an American hospital. Its operation, it is hoped, is to make a practical test of the theory now widely accepted by scientists that powerfully concentrated chemical or astinic rays of violet-colored light possess distinctly curative properties in cases of cancer, tuberculosis and other diseases having their supposed origin in toxicogenic germs or parasites. Dr. M. Kuhnhart, one of the trustees of the hospital, is the honor of the apparatus and has paid the entire cost of its installation. To test the newly installed apparatus, a private demonstration was made in the hospital. The first subject selected for a test was a boy suffering from what appeared to be a hopeless case of tuberculosis of the hip. During the exposure to the chemical rays of light the subject reclined upon a sort of divan not unlike an operating table, and the diseased tissues were exposed to the rays directed by focused upon them and concentrated by means of a powerful lens. It is of course too early to predict results in the case. In Vienna, Paris, Copenhagen and other cities of Europe, treatment by means of the actinic rays has been carried out for some months, with results which its advocates believe are highly encouraging.

About Birth Stones.

To be really lucky, says Harper's Weekly, you must wear your birthstone. Some people seem to have no luck at all and were their cases to be looked into it would probably come out that they either did not know of the existence of birthstones or were not wearing them in the prescribed manner. The jewelers always keep a large supply of birthday stones on hand and are ready at a moment's notice to make them up in any combination. The only trouble is that among so many beautiful gems some of the months should have such unattractive mascots assigned to them. Take, for example, March. What possible beauty is there in a blood stone? It makes a very respectable man's ring, but there is hardly a March-borne belle in Christendom who would rejoice greatly at seeing a bloodstone on her pretty hand. Yet a verse assures her: Who in this world of ours her eyes In March first open shall be wise. In days of peril firm and brave. And wear a bloodstone to her grave. June also is discouraging. In other respects it is a very pleasant month in which to be born. Roses are in bloom, the air is soft and mild and the whole of nature is stepping itself in sunshine; yet it has nothing better to offer in the way of a lucky stone than an agate: Who comes with summer to this earth, And owes to June her hour of birth, With ring of agate on her hand, Can health wealth and long life command. But why must it be agate? The selection for August is not much happier, though it holds out the promise of some things which are considered very desirable. It also contains a warning: Wear sardonyx or for thee No conjugal felicity; 'Tis said, must live unloved and lone. The August-born with this stone. It seems a bit unfair that January, which has the proud privilege of being the first of the months, should be assigned the stone which among all the gems, is counted the least valuable. But perhaps it is only carrying out the text that the first shall be last: By her who in this month is born, No gems save garnets should be worn; They will insure her constancy, True friendship and fidelity. The rest of the months do better, and no one could possibly object to her stone who was born at any other season. If cold December gives you birth, The month of snow and ice and mirth, Place on your hand a turquoise blue Success will bless you, whatever you do. The December girl has no fault to find with the turquoise; it looks exceptionally well on a white hand. By a bordering of brilliant February's stone can be made very ornamental: The February-born shall find Sincerity and peace of mind. Freedom from passion and from care, If they the amethyst will wear. But luckiest of all is the April maid. To her is the happy privilege of a solitaire: She who from April, dates her years, Diamonds shall wear' best letter tears For vain repentance flow; 'tis stone, Emblem of innocence, is known. As a charm against tears diamonds will always be welcome. May's stone is appropriate. May is the month of all fresh, vernal things, and the emerald is in keeping with the general tone: Who first beholds the light of day, In Spring's flowery month of May, And wears an emerald all her life, Shall be a loved and happy wife. It must be delightful to be born in July. Ruby is the most valuable of all the stones, not excepting the diamond: The glowing ruby shall adorn Those who in warm July are born; Then will they be exempt and free From love's doubt and anxiety. No less fortunate is the September maiden. Sapphires are highly prized. The method of wearing her stone, however, is a bit difficult: A maiden born when autumn leaves Are rustling in September's breeze, A sapphire on her brow should bind; 'Twill cure diseases of the mind. October breaks up the old superstition ment the opal. It appears that a person born in October cannot expect to find any luck at all unless she carries an opal constantly with her. October's child is born for weal, And life's vicissitudes must know; But lay an opal on her breast, And hope will quell those words to rest. And, finally, November is conciliated with topaz: Who first comes to this world below, With dress November's fog and snow, Should prize the topaz amber hue, Emblem of friends and lovers true. Examiners for a life insurance company have found that John P. Stafford, a Brooklyn school teacher, has his heart on the right side. The doctors declare Stafford to be perfectly normal in every other respect, and decided to take him as a risk.

The little daughter of the house watched the minister who was making a visit very closely, and finally sat down beside him and began to draw on her slate. "What are you doing?" asked the clergyman. "I'm making your picture," said the child. The minister sat very still and the child worked away earnestly. Then she stopped and compared her work with the original and shook her head. "I don't like it much," she said. "Tain't a great deal like you. I guess I'll put a tail to it and call it a dog."

WOMAN'S RELIEF. A really healthy woman has little pain or discomfort at the menstrual period. No woman needs to have any. Wine of Cardui will quickly relieve those smarting menstrual pains and the dragging head, back and side aches caused by falling of the womb and irregular menses. WINE OF CARDUI has brought permanent relief to 1,000,000 women who suffered every month. It makes the menstrual organs strong and healthy. It is the provision made by Nature to give women relief from the terrible aches and pains which blight so many homes. GREENWOOD, LA., Oct. 10, 1900. I have been very sick for some time with a severe pain in my side and could not get any relief until I tried a bottle of Wine of Cardui. Before I had taken all of it I was relieved. I feel it my duty to say that you have a wonderful medicine. Mrs. M. A. YOUNG.
